SUMMARY.

The "Tribune" says that Sir William Lyne's is one of the most daring attempts on record to enact ideas of State socialism.

The "Daily News" writes that the scheme is intended not so much to abolish sweating as to make protection attractive.

The proposals of Mr. Lloyd George for the settlement of the railway difficulty suggest a conciliation board or compulsory arbitration.

The German Emperor has conferred on Herr von Schoen the right of representing Prince Bulow in the domain of Foreign Affairs.

The death is announced of Sir William George Pearce, chairman of the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Company.

A referendum in Switzerland has ratified the new law throwing the chief burdens of military service on young men.

Consols were quoted on Monday at £81 10s, a fall of 15s since Thursday.

There was an all-round decline in stocks, especially in Americans.

The rise in the bank rate to 6 per cent. was due to anticipated extensive withdrawals for America.

The attendance at Flemington yesterday (Cup Day) was estimated at 130,000. The weather was splendid.

The Cup was won by Apologue by three-quarters of a length from Mooltan, who beat Mountain King by three lengths for second place.

The Cup Steeplechase went to Camelot, Seddon won the Yan Yean Stakes, and Cicis the Encourage Stakes.

The House of Representatives resumed consideration of the tariff yesterday, the postponed items in agricultural products and groceries being taken.

A petition was presented to the House of Representatives from New South Wales fishermen asking that the duties on fishing nets be remitted.

The petitioners stated that they were threatened with starvation on account of the high price of fishing gear.

Ministers and members of the Federal Parliament are reconciled to the fact that Parliament will not finish the tariff this year.

In the Assembly yesterday the Premier moved the second reading of the Department of Agriculture Bill.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was passed through committee without amendment.

The president of the Victorian Chamber of Manufactures says it is recognised in New South Wales that protecion is the policy of the counry.

Alderman Allen Taylor considers the city rates should be reduced, or the council's surplus added to a reserve fund.

The Tramway Employees' Union has filed an industrial dispute in the Arbitration Court against the Railway Commissioners.

All classes of workers are included, and the matters to be decided are of considerable importance.

Several cases of anthrax poisoning have been admitted to the Condobolin Hospital. All the persons affected are shearers.

The shearers and the family at Mr. F. Hogno's homestead, Walsha, were taken suddenly ill through poisoning.

Mr. F. Hogno died, and Mrs. Hogno is said to be dying. Others are still very bad.

Dr. Armstrong says the restriction of the capacity of suburban dairies for supplying milk must prove disastrous to the public health.

Dr. Chisholm Ross, ex-president of the Society for Child Study, deplores the lack of reverence in children.

The Treasurer says only about one-fifth of the condensed milk imported from England is made from milk produced in the United Kingdom.

The question has arisen whether foreign milk products should come under the preferential tariff.

Sir William Lyne is of opinion that milk being manufactured in England entitles it to preference.

The law is to be allowed to take its course in the case of George Toffts, the Quirindi murderer.

The execution will probably take place in Tamworth Gaol about three weeks hence.

The outlook was said to be "decidedly ominous at the present juncture."

The English cricketers have been unable to obtain practice at the nets in Adelaide, in consequence of the sodden state of the ground.

The coal shipping trade at Newcastle has not suffered to any degree by the coal crisis.

Most of the vessels in port have been able to get the usual despatch with their cargoes.

The barquentine Kate Tatham, which capsized in Newcastle harbour, remains fast on the bank. Steps are to be taken to raise the vessel.

A school of whales was sighted off the Heads yesterday. They were going northwards.

The body of Valentine Scholtz, who was missing, has been recovered near Fort Denison, where he was fishing on Sunday.

A shop at Nowra, occupied by Miss Collis, fruiterer and confectioner, was gutted by fire yesterday.

A more cheerful tone prevails in commercial and financial circles, as the result of the recent rains.

New South Wales will probably not need to import wheat, and the increased return to farmers will be £900,000.

Stocks and shares exhibited a decided recovery yesterday. A larger volume of business was transacted on 'Change at fuller rates.

The wool market was somewhat easier yesterday, except for superior descriptions. In all, 6053 bales changed hands.

MAYPOLE TABLE DECORATION.

For many years it was a custom at entertainments to present guests with the dishes from which they had eaten. After a banquet given by the East India Company to James I., in 1610, the guests were asked to take the valuable dishes and carry them home as souvenirs.

We have known instances where people at banquets have taken home valuable dishes without being requested. But of course that was not in Sydney. We have also known the table stripped of every decoration, because the guests wanted souvenirs. This brings us to the point of our paragraph, namely, a

REVERSIBLE PRINTS.
TO-DAY 4½d, USUALLY 5½d PER YD.
To-day's special line at a reduced price is again in our Dress Department on the First Floor, for we are this week holding a 6 Windows Dress Display to demonstrate our capacity to cater for all buyers in Dress goods.
The Special Line to-day is that useful and well-known print which can be worn on either side with the same effect. The colours are Pale Blue, Mid Blue, Navy, Heliotrope, Vieux Rose, Raspberry, Dark Grey. The width is 30 inches. The reduced price is for to-day only. The fact that you may live out of Sydney does not prevent you from participating in the reduction, for if you send for patterns immediately on receipt of the newspapers announcing this special line, and your order despatched with our Daily Special Line Coupon, which accompanies the Patterns, it will entitle you to the reduced price.

HOME DRESSMAKING MADE EASY.
All who are interested in this proposition should write for our Ready-to-make Booklet, or call and obtain particulars from the department. It is a plain practical solution of that old-time difficulty for the woman who buys her material and makes it up at home.

CUT TO MEASURE FOR 1s.
To explain briefly the idea, it is this. For an extra cost on the selected material we cut out to measure any one garment, and forward it to the buyer all ready to sew up at the machine. There is no trouble with paper patterns, the seams are distinctly marked, all tucks and pleats are pinned into position, only the minimum of trouble is given to the maker.
The daily increased trade in this department is a proof that our statement can be borne out by actual facts.

CARRIAGE PAID
on all goods, with the exception of Furniture and Floor Covering, to any Post-office, Railway Station, or Seaport throughout the Commonwealth.

REQUIREMENTS OF FASHION.
No HISTORY of COSTUME would be COMPLETE without MENTION of the WORLD-WIDE WORN garment now euphoniously known as the UNDERSKIRT. There were "RED TAMMINTY" and "MOKMAIRE" petticoats for one set of Fashionables in the early 17th Century; at different times they were made of richer material, "CHANGEABLE SILKE," "FINEST TUFTED HOLLAND," and "BLACKE CLOTH."
It is recorded that ONE FAIR DAMSEL who LED the FASHIONS in the early BRITISH COLONIAL DAYS had no less than THIRTEEN PETTICOATS; indeed, many counted these garments THEIR RICHEST BELONGINGS. But these were in the days when Open SACQUES, NEGLIGEES, and POLONESE were so much worn, and the PETTICOAT was consequently EXPOSED TO VIEW. Necessarily it became a COSTLY article of ATTIRE, being fringed, furbelowed, festooned, puffed, looped, rosetted, flowered, laced, and quilted in a hundred different fashions.
To-day, while the Underskirt is a less important feature of the prevailing modes, it is essentially one that receives consideration from the smartly dressed woman. In the Dress Department of the
NEW PALACE EMPORIUM
we are showing the LATEST SMARTLY CUT UNDERSKIRTS, in MOIRETTE, SILK, CAMBRIC, MOREEN, and BATISTE LAWN, in the new STRIPES, SELF-COLOURS, and SHADES, which are brought within reach of every purse by reason of the ECONOMISING INFLUENCE of

The REALISTIC YACHT SCENE, Of which
The Daily Telegraph says:—"The vessel is lying in port, with the lights of the town showing in the distance, and on a bluff opposite the intermittently flashing rays from a lighthouse, while clouds scud across the sky. With a squall coming up, the captain decides to put to sea. The stage representing the deck of the yacht, begins to roll with all the motion of a ship in a heavy sea; the lights of the port slip out of the scene, and a thoroughly realistic storm sets in. The heavens are black, the wind howls, and the rolling ocean tosses the ship about, whilst above the tempest the voice of the captain is heard shouting his orders."

SAT. NEXT, NOV. 9, AND EVERY EVENING,
ROBBERY UNDER ARMS.
A GREAT "LIVING PICTURE" ENTERPRISE. Something Absolutely New, Comprehensive, and Remarkable.
No story has ever been written upon Australian Life that can surpass in universal interest Rolf Boldrewood's fascinating and true history of the notorious and picturesque Bushranger. "Starlight"—the Claude Duval of the Colonies—and the real characters of his time so powerfully limned in that vivid and typical romance of real life,
ROBBERY UNDER ARMS.
The stirring and rapidly recurring incidents of this REMARKABLE HISTORY adapt themselves so pre-eminently to that popular scientific and artistic means of reproduction of to-day—the living pictures of the Cinematograph—that Mr. Charles MacMahon has conceived and just accomplished in Australia, with signal success, by the exercise of immense pains and the expenditure of upwards of ONE THOUSAND POUNDS, a complete and graphic reproduction of a great Picture Drama that will astonish beholders. Every scene and situation of the thrilling story, secured faithfully upon each historic spot in New South Wales, will be re-enacted with startling verisimilitude through this remarkable picture, specially taken by Osborn and Jerdan.
ABSOLUTELY THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT UP TO DATE IN THE CINEMATOGRAPHIC WORLD.
In association with this unique event there will also be introduced a first-class VAUDEVILLE ENTERTAINMENT.
NOTWITHSTANDING THE ENORMOUS EXPENSE OF THIS GREAT AND SENSATIONAL ATTRACTION, THERE WILL BE NO INCREASE IN PRICES. 2s, 1s, 6d.

STECK.
If you have ever heard a perfect voice, you have some conception of the clear, rich, melodious tone of the STECK "Boudoir Grand" Piano. Nor is this all. Sustained volume and sympathetic action make it responsive to the mood and the genius of the artist to a degree attained but rarely in the best Concert Grands.
The STECK possesses a rich mellowness of tone, a sympathetic singing quality, which makes it not only the ideal instrument for the great artist in concert, but also the best piano for the home.

GRAHAM OF CLAVERHOUSE

(BY "IAN MACLAREN.")

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

"'Whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad,' is a Latin proverb I picked up at St. Andrew's University, and one of the few scraps of knowledge I carried away from the good old place. They might at least have thrown out some of our cavalry on the right to draw fire from that wood, and enable us to find their position. It's not overly pleasant to jog quietly along as if one were riding up the Carse of Gowrie to Perth fair, when it's far more likely we are riding into the shambles like a herd of fat bullocks going to Davie Saunders, the Dundee butcher."

"See you here, friend," cried Carlton, "I am not in a mind to be taken at a disadvantage and ridden down by those Frenchmen when we are not in formation. They have us at a disadvantage in any case, but, by my life, we ought at any rate to deploy to the right and seize that higher ground, or else they will send us into that marshland that I see forward there on the left. If they do, there will be some throats cut, and it might be yours or mine. What say you, Mr. Graham, to ride forward and tell one of the officers in attendance on his Highness what we have seen, and then let them do as they please?"

"I have nothing to say against that, but I know one man who will not go, and that is John Graham of Claverhouse. It may be vain pride, or it may not, but I will not have the shame of telling my tale to one of those Dutchmen as if you were speaking to a painted monument, and then have him order you back to your place as if you were a mutineer; my hand would be itching for the sword-handle before all was done, and so I'll just be doing. But I will be ready when the cloud breaks from yon hill, and it's not far off the bursting now." And Graham pointed out that the glitter was repeated at several points, as when the sun is reflected from broken dishes on a hillside.

"You Scots are a proud race," laughed Carlton, "and quick to take offence. We English have a temper, too, but we are nearer to those Dutchmen in our nature. I'll not see the army ambuscaded without a warning. If they take it we shall make a better fight, and for the first hour it will be bad enough anyway till the vanguard are brought back, and if they won't take it, why, we have done our duty, and we will have to look after ourselves." And Carlton spurred his horse and cantered forward to where the headquarters staff were riding with a troop which was called the Scots brigade, because it was largely officered and to some extent manned by Scotsmen, and in which MacKay had a captain's commission.

In some fifteen minutes Carlton rejoined Claverhouse red and annoyed, and on the sight of him Claverhouse laughed.

"Without offence, good comrade, I take it you have not been thanked for your trouble or been promised promotion. Sworn at, I dare say, if those godly Dutchmen are allowed to rap out an oath. At any rate you have been told to attend to your own work and leave our wise generals to manage theirs, eh?"

"You are right, Graham. I wish I had bitten off my tongue rather than reported the matter. I got hold of an aide-de-camp, and I pointed out what we had seen, and he spoke to me as if I was a boy with my heart in my mouth for fear I would be shot every minute. For a set of pigheaded fools——"

"Well, it would not have mattered much, for the news, as it happened, would have come too late. See, the attack has begun; whatever be the issue of the battle before night, it will be one way or another with us within an hour." As he spoke Claverhouse began to put himself in order, seeing that his pistols were ready in the holsters, his sword loose in the scabbard, and the girths of his saddle tight.

"It will be a sharp piece of work for us, and some good sword play before it is done." Suddenly from the wood a line of cavalry emerged, followed by another and still another, till at least three regiments were on the side of the hill, and behind them it was evident there was a large body of troops. By this time the staff had taken alarm, and an officer had galloped up with orders that the English volunteers and Dutch cavalry should deploy to the right, and orders were also sent to the Spaniards in the rear to advance rapidly and cover the baggage. The Dutch troops in front who had entered the defile were arrested, and began to march back, and an urgent message was sent to the Imperialists to follow the Dutch in case the French should make a general attack. Before the Dutch troops had returned to the open, and long before the Imperialists could be in action, the French, crossing the hill with immense rapidity and covered by a screen of cavalry, attacked the Spanish rearguard before it was able to take up a proper form of defence, and though the Spaniards fought with their accustomed courage, and no blame could be attached to the dispositions made in haste by Vaudemont, this division of the army was absolutely routed, and one distinguished Spanish general, the Marquis of Assentar, was killed when cheering his men to the defence. The defeat of the Spaniards left the baggage train unprotected, and the French troops fell upon it with great zest; indeed, Claverhouse that night declared that the Highlanders themselves could not have raided more heartily or more swiftly. Nor did the Spaniards, when once they had been beaten and scattered, and fighting was no longer of any use, disdain to help themselves to the plunder. Grimond was furious as he saw his waggon in danger, and endeavoured to rally some odds and ends of flying Spaniards and terrified waggon-drivers to defend his cherished possessions. But he was left to do so himself, and after beating off the two first Frenchmen who came to investigate, and being wounded in a general fight with the next lot, he was obliged to leave the possessions of the English volunteers to their fate and set off to discover how it fared with his master.

The Battle of Sineffe was to last all day, and before evening the two armies would be generally engaged; eighteen thousand men were to fall on both sides, and there were to be many hot encounters, but the sharpest took place at the centre and early in the day. The cavalry with the English volunteers were thrown forward to hinder the advance of the French cavalry, who, while their infantry were dealing with the Spanish corps, were being hurled at the centre in order to cut the army in two and confine the Dutch troops to the defiles, or if they emerged from the defiles, to crush them before they could deploy on the broken country.

"Where do you take it is the point of conflict?" asked Carlton as the regiment of the guards with which they were serving went forward at a sharp trot across the level ground, on which the French cavalry should soon be appearing. "Where is his Highness himself, for I can get no sight of the rest of the Dutch cavalry?"

"To the left, I take it, where the fight has already begun. Do you not hear the firing? and I seem to catch some shouts, as if the Dutch and the French were already meeting. Mind you, Carlton, his Highness may have been too confident and laid the army open to attack, but he can tell where the heart of the situation is, and his business will be to resist the French onslaught till the infantry are in position. Just as I thought, we are to go to his aid, and in ten minutes, or my name is not Graham, we shall have as much as we want."

In less than that space of time the regiment, now galloping, found themselves in the immediate rear of the fighting line, and opened out and perpared to advance. In front of them three regiments of Dutch cavalry were being beaten back by a French brigade, and just when the English volunteers arrived the French received a large accession of strength, and the Dutch, broken and ridden down by weight of men and horses, were driven back. It was in vain that their colonel ordered his men to charge, for in fifty yards the mass of Dutch cavalry in front were thrown upon them and broke their line. It was now a man to man and hand to hand conflict for a few minutes, and Claverhouse, when he had disentangled himself from the hurly-burly, and forced his way through the mass, was in immediate conflict with a French officer in front of their line, whom he disarmed by a clever sword trick which he had learned from a master of arms in the French service. A French soldier missed Claverhouse's head by a hair's-breadth, while he, swerving, struck down another on his right. Carlton had disappeared, Hales had been wounded, but in the end escaped with his life. Collier and Claverhouse were now in the open space behind the first line of the French cavalry, and they could see more than one Dutch officer and some of the Dutch troopers also in the same dangerous position. Graham was considering what to do when he caught sight, a short distance off on the left, of a figure he seemed to know: it was an officer riding slowly along the line as if in command, and taking no heed of the many incidents happening round him.

The "Herald's" Page for Women is published on Wednesdays.

Contributions, from women preferred, will be considered. They should not exceed half a column in length.

BEHIND THE COUNTER.

Early Closing Acts and all such measures that are passed out of consideration for the greatest good of the greatest number press hardly on a few individuals. Those who suffer through the shop assistants' award are they who have to be dismissed owing to their employer's unwillingness to pay the wages awarded. It has been said that only non-unionists have been dismissed. The explanation of this is analogous to the old riddle, "Why do white sheep eat more grass than black?—Because there are more of them." Shop assistants in Sydney are numbered in thousands; unionists only in hundreds. Shop life has attractions for a good many girls, and is much more fascinating than domestic service. Ladies matching lace are what the shop assistants get most weary of. In London a girl has to effect a certain number of sales or be dismissed. No such punishment follows want of success in selling here. No bonuses will in future be given in most establishments for goods sold, on account of the Arbitration Court having put employers to extra expense. "A girl who sells nothing may still be a valuable girl to have," explained one merchant. "Civility is a great asset, so is punctuality; in fact, there are many good qualities for which an assistant may be promoted, even if her sales are small." For all that a girl must have many redeeming traits to make up for a lack of selling power. In most shops the customer who finds nothing to her liking has to wait patiently while the assistant calls "Sign" in an aggrieved voice; and she feels rather like a criminal while the assistant is explaining to the shopwalker just how it is or isn't that no purchase has been made. There are some assistants who are worth their weight in gold to their employers. All assistants are carefully watched, but it is open to wonder whether employers know just how popular some of their saleswomen are, and how many customers they attract to a particular spot. "I always get my ribbons at Blank's; there is such a nice girl at their counter," is often said. Probably the girl does not receive double wages, but she ought to. A clever shop girl will try to produce the very article that is asked for, and if this is quite impossible will express respectful sympathy, instead of calling "Sign." It pays to give good wages to a good girl.

WOMEN IN THE ARTS.

A suite of furniture for a child's bedroom at the exhibition has nursery rhymes in inlaid woods on its various pieces. A lovely screen has "Rock-a-Bye, Baby," illustrated. The cot bears the inscription:—

Four corners to my bed,
Four angels round my head,
One to watch, and one to pray,
And two to keep all sin away.

And angels adorn the panels. It has been bought for a grandchild by the president of a branch of the Australian National League, Mrs. W. S. Staughton, who gave £40 for it.

Miss Freida Miller, who holds many medals for pianoforte playing, and was the solo pianist at the series of concerts given by Amy Castles and Carlo Dani, is now playing in the orchestra at Wonderland City. Quite a good vaudeville entertainment is given every night in the King's Theatre, which, instead of being on the beach is now in the midst of the City. The theatre seems constructed for gipsies and Gentiles. There is a roof overhead, but as all the doors are wide open the fresh, pure air and the sight, sound, and smell of the ocean surround the theatre-goers.

PATIENT INDUSTRY.

Queens, peasants, and all the people who come in between seem to ply their needle with equal industry. The quantity of needlework at the Women's Work Exhibition in Melbourne is appalling. In every country under the sun is that patient needle at work. At first sight it looks as if Australia had provided such things as could be hastily thrown together. Who knows how long it may take to splash a picture on canvas, to dress a doll, or make a cushion, of which there are hundreds. But when interminable yards of crochet in the form of quilts and other exhibits are noticed, then one realises the amount done by the needle. Patience and ingenuity are shown by a rat-trapper's wife who spent two years in smoothing out and sewing together 8000 tails of the little rodents to form a rug. Another exhibitor has surpassed that achievement by joining 10,000 into a mat, and a few thousand into a muff. Counting the tails must alone have been a serious task.

When Josephine was condoled with on account of the many hours she spent alone, and asked if such solitude was not wearisome, she answered, "We are used to it. Royalty now must spend its solitude, if it has any, in patient application of brush and chisel." Though it can hardly be decided what time it takes to produce a bronze statue of Nelson, or a set of enamelled buttons, it is certain that dainty lace and elaborate embroidery cannot be much hurried over. There are many such exhibits from royal courts.

From Turkey, "where woman has never a soul to save," and so presumably can give her time to mundane matters without any qualms, comes lovely and costly work, done in gold thread and jewels raised in rich designs.

In looking at the exquisite lace displayed in a foreign case, a reverend sister exclaimed, "I shall never take a needle in my hand again."

In Sweden and countries where the cold is extreme, the needle that makes the carpets and cloths must be a veritable weapon—these are so thick and substantial. Sixty-three pounds weight of wool is claimed to be worked into one rug. A motor coat from Russia has its leather foundation elaborately embroidered, and is then lined with fur and bordered with shaggy black. It is to be hoped that many women helped to make this costly garment. It looks like the work of a lifetime even for a dozen.

Women in the Transvaal and other parts of South Africa share the universal love of using the needle. They have one characteristic exhibit—an ostrich worked in white wool and feathers.

This love of the needle and application of patient industry are not left to chance. They are taught to the little girl as soon as she can hold the little implement, and long before she can thread it. Quite finished products are shown in the case set apart for the schools of the London City Council by exhibitors aged six and seven. Australian girls of that age also display their buttonholes and their darns.

In all this medley of women's work there is an exhibit by a native boy from the veldts of South Africa, aged 12, who has made a hat. It is true he has used no needle. He has fixed grasses together with the wool from sheeps' backs, picked up on his native heath. The process must have been a long and tedious one. The hat has a dome crown, and a wide brim—a most serviceable article.

OPEN VIEWS.

The intention of the Government to grant special allowances to Public teachers who undertake matrimony is to be highly commended; and the example might well be followed by banks, shops, and all big institutions. But why a practical sign of approval should not be bestowed upon women who marry is hard for a woman to understand. Both men and women marry from motives of self-interest; and it is right they should do so, if the State is to reap any benefit thereby. But an intellectual woman seldom chooses her mate unworthily. Young men and women of 18 are eligible to be appointed to take charge of Public schools in this State. The salary for such beginners was £72 a year, and is shortly to be raised a little. No restrictions as to matrimony are placed on young teachers; the Department of Public Instruction relies upon the teacher's common-sense. This is usually a broken reed on which to rely. Cases have been known of boys of 19 or less marrying on £1 a week. A lady canvassing for votes just before the last election called at one suburban home, and said to the very young girl who opened the door, "I want to solicit your votes for Mr. Labourite." "There will not be any vote in this house for two years," replied the girl—"not until my husband comes of age."

A clever Melbourne man thinks the Women's Work Exhibition is insulting to women. Men do not label their work, he says. It is like saying, "See my poodle's tricks; isn't it clever?" He thinks the exhibition puts women backward, not forward. The great objection to such exhibitions is that they are not truly representative. There needlework and carving and the quiet achievements are exhibited, because they are so much more easily shown. Women are singers, actresses, authors, scientists, doctors, teachers, and a dozen other things, but the exhibition affords little proof of it.

Life is much harder on women than it used to be, because nowadays the feminine cue is pluck, nerve, and plenty of it. We must never feel frightened, or at least we mustn't show it. At one time a woman was allowed to scream and faint, and so forth, when anything alarming happened. In fact, she was considered indelicate if she didn't. But now a woman has to look smiling or bored, in whatever situation she finds herself. Women are forbidden one vehicle for the feelings which men possess—women mayn't swear.

Gardening is usually spoken of as a gentle and humane craft, with an effect on the dispositions of its disciples which renders them mild and meek as cooing doves. If horticulturists are observed, this is found to be a fond delusion. A generous woman, when she becomes a gardener, won't let a friend take a single blossom from one of her precious borders. A feeling woman, who can't kill a fly, and is even suspected of feeding the cockroaches, when she becomes a gardener cuts up worms into wriggling atoms, without showing the slightest sign of pity, and consigns hundreds of slugs to death, with a ferocity worthy of Tamerlane. A pursuit which can so transform the characters of its votaries must possess possibilities of danger all the more serious because they are unrecognised.

The bashful child, that sticks its finger in its mouth, and wriggles and twists and hangs its head when company comes, is almost an extinct creature now. The modern training makes for self-possession in children. Sometimes their self-possession almost makes their elders gasp. "Here I am, sweetheart! I've come back!" called one mother. The child (aged 5), who was digging, looked up. "I'm glad to see you, mother," she said, "but I can't shake hands with you; my fingers are covered with mud." Self-possession in children is an aid to mothers. The little ones go to parties without shyness, sing and dance, and recite in public without fear of awkwardness, and see the nurse to whom they are accustomed depart, and accept a new and strange one without a tear or a lament. Shyness is sometimes pretty, but there is no doubt that the self-possessed child has its good points.

AUSTRALIANS ABROAD.

LONDON, Oct. 4.

Autumn is now really upon us, and the homeward flight of Australians has begun. Ships are leaving with crowded passenger lists, and will do so increasingly as the dark days of winter approach.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dixson arrived in London last week. Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Walford, having concluded an enjoyable trip through the Continent, and Wales, Scotland, and Ireland, are leaving London for Sydney by the Mongolia on November 8.

The Ven. Archdeacon and Mrs. Robinson, lately of St. James's, Sydney, have reached London. The Archdeacon is a regular attendant at St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday afternoons, where the beauty of the service and the impassioned preaching of Canon Scott Holland are just now attracting hundreds of people.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer Brunton have returned to town from the English lakes.

Mr. J. Glencross Swift has left London for a short visit to the Continent.

Miss Kate Rooney, the ex-Sydney contralto, was married yesterday to Mr. William Kirkham, of London.

Of other Sydney musicians, Miss Violet Mount has begun her studies with Mme. Bauermeister, Mr. George Boyle joins the company of Mme. Donalda for a short provincial tour next week, and Mr. Reginald Goood is in negotiation with agents for oratorio work.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Hayes have returned to London from the provinces, and will remain here for the present. They will return to Sydney in March, via the Continent.

The first "at home" of the autumn season of the Austral Club was held on Tuesday afternoon, and, as is usual in the case of these fixtures, a number of Australians were present. Among the contributors of music were Miss Rita Hope (the young Victorian pianist), Miss Gertrude Alger, and Miss Eugenie Boland. Lady Samuel presided, and among the many present were Lady Cockburn, Mrs. J. W. Taverner and Miss Taverner, Mr. and Mrs. Brunton and Miss Brunton, Mr. and Mrs. M. Attenborough, Miss Baxter, Miss Beatrice Miranda, Miss Theo. Cowan, and Lieutenant Patterson.

NEW ZEALAND GIRLS' GUILD.

Most successful gatherings of the Girls' Realm Guild have been held by Miss Jessie Ackermann. There was one Guild member in New Zealand when Miss Jessie Ackermann arrived, and after one week's work she left nearly 300. Lady Plunket gave an afternoon at Government House, where a centre of 175 was formed, and named after her. Miss Eileen Ward (the Prime Minister's daughter) and the Hon. Kathleen Plunket are the officers. The Mayoress of Wellington, Mrs. Hislop, is the president for New Zealand, and Miss Diman, the general secretary. Mrs. Hislop entertained Miss Ackermann during her stay. Miss Ackermann sailed for South America on October 26. She intends, after visiting Uraguay and Paraguay, to cross the Andes and travel north through Chili and Peru, and tap the Amazon at the farthest point south that she can.

PROGRESSIVE PROPOSALS.

"Enlightened" exactly described the women who took part in the Commonwealth Political Conference. The effect politics has on women is, said Mr. Fairbairn, a serious question, more serious even than the effect women will have on politics. The women of Queensland, feeling their territory to be overlooked, have made a "splash" at the conference. The speakers were able women with a full grasp of their subjects. They came from the farthest corners of our island continent. From Roma, in the far western district of the northern State, came a representative who had presided at many local meetings. By her intelligence and culture, she had kept her fellow exiles in touch with the happenings of the outer world. She led discussions, and took an able part in the conference.

In dress, as seen at Melbourne parties, simplicity is the keynote of the season. Girls' dresses strike the beholder as untrimmed. A closer look of course shows this is a delusion. But frills and fluff are no more. Rigid lines and flat finishes are the fad. One dress of chiffon voile had large pink roses on a pale blue gown, flat lace and cut square yoke edged with blue, flat lace bretelles, flat finishes to the sleeves; the skirt was slightly full, and edged with two narrow pipings of blue, no hem.

A silver cup presented at a recent christening was engraved with the giver's own handwriting. The lady wrote the inscription, and her writing was used and silvered over. The process is new in Europe, and she did not think it could be done in Australia, but it was.

Miss Grace Watson and Miss Margaret Ogg, who took part in the recent Women's Political Conference in Melbourne, may both be termed much-travelled. Each has been all over the State she represents as organising secretary of a league. Miss Watson devotes her energies to the Australian National League in Victoria, and goes to and fro wherever a new branch is wanted. Miss Ogg's league with similar aims is called the Queensland Electoral League. In its interests Miss Ogg has travelled over 6000 miles of territory. She lately received a jewelled pendant in recognition of her zeal during the elections. The ornament has six large stones of different jewels, representing the six States of the Commonwealth. The middle one is a pearl, signifying Queensland.

MOTHERS' NURSES.

"Not Green" writes: I should like to draw attention to an article concerning "Nursery Nurses." Ladies who employ irresponsible girls, except as under nurses, do so because the said girls will not demand a fair wage, but will be cheap labour. Employers always demand a personal reference, so if the nurse is faithless her last mistress must have been untruthful when giving the personal reference. It is most difficult to get a situation as nurse after one is 30, as ladies say they like a young nurse. The real reason is an experienced nurse will not consent to her charges being stuffed with chocolates and confectionery by their mother at all hours of the day, and late parties, etc. I never knew a woman to answer an advertisement for a "nursegirl," as any experienced nurse reads that as a situation for a girl in her teens. I fail to find any news in your paper of accidents to children when in nurses' charge; yet you say hundreds of lives are lost annually by nursegirls. Several accidents have been reported of children falling from hotel windows when the parent was downstairs. There is not such a crying need for a Norland nursery as there is for an institution or school of some sort which will train young ladies of the wealthy class, prior to matrimony, for the great responsibilities they undertake when they take to themselves husbands. The blessedness it is to have a baby, not to evade by every means of the present time the claims of motherhood. How to feed children, and how to manage their homes and servants, and last, but not least, how to become faithful wives in every sense of the words.

IRISH CROCHET.

L. M. Renshaw writes:—Seeing in your Women's Page, 30th inst., an article on Irish point crochet, I would much like to call the attention of the writer to the following:—Mdlle Riego de la Blanchardiere (not Blandiere), was not a religieuse, but a young lady teacher, who discovered that a particular kind of antique Spanish needle point lace could be effectively copied in crochet, of which she was the real practical inventor, although a sort of crochet had been known before her time; but she was the first writer on the subject, and I had the pleasure a while ago of seeing her first book, printed in London 1847; and I have in my possession one of her last, written in 1887. Her books were a great help to the ladies who taught the Irish peasants how to crochet in the great famine in 1847-8. Again, although we may owe Queen Alexandra a great deal for her kindly patronage of all the Irish industries, still, the first impetus to Irish crochet was given by our late beloved Queen Victoria, when she gave a special audience to Mdlle. Riego de la Blanchardiere, then a very old lady, at the end of 1886, and gave her the order for the Royal Jubilee casket, and the Royal Jubilee lace, etc., all in crochet, which was used at her jubilee in 1887.

Again, your writer says the difference between Irish crochet and other crochets is that Irish crochet is always padded, and yet she gives directions for two wheels which are not padded. The difference is not only the padding (because we use as many unpadded frames as padded), but this, that ordinary crochet is generally finished as a whole piece, row upon row, whereas Irish crochet is always made up of a quantity of small pieces, put together with a ground, there being over 20 different grounds, including the different varieties of the Cork knot, the Clowes knot, and various needle grounds.

Again, Irish crochet point is like Irish Carrickmacross of two distinct kinds, one of little wheels sewn together, the other of little wheels or flowers put together with the same bride as is used in Irish needle point; especially Yougale flat point, and is a round button hole bride with a picket. I will be pleased to show to any of your readers the different grounds and varieties, etc., of Irish lace I have mentioned, or the book I speak of, with the jubilee designs therein.

A PLEA FOR THE OMNIBUS HORSE.

"C. K. S." writes:—"Anyone coming fresh to Sydney from England cannot help noticing the unfortunate condition of most of the omnibus horses. It is a disgrace to a country able to breed good horses that animals quite unfit for labour should so frequently be seen about Sydney. On conversing with one of the men who has charge of the omnibus horses I learn that the horses have plenty of food given to them, but the poor things are so overworked that they cannot eat when taken to the stable. All they can do is to stretch their weary bodies out full length, and not move again until the fatal hour to be put in the shafts for another long spell! They do not even get a rest on Sunday, but often have a pleasure party to take out, sometimes going a distance of 40 miles or more, and coming back dead beat. I write this in the hope that public opinion or the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will take some action."

HATS FOR WEAR WITH MUSLIN FROCKS.

The above shows one of the becoming "Mushroom" shapes, the brim is of lace or Broderie Anglaise, while the high puffed crown can be of glace in any shade desired by the wearer.

A dainty model of drawn net, the brim has an edging of cerise glace, of which the crown, which is almost hidden by two softly-gathered frills of lace, is also composed. White tulle and pale blue glace would also be an effective combination for this model.

A CHEAP AND DAINTY NURSERY.

As a rule, the nursery and its furnishing is a subject that does not receive much attention in Australia, though, happily, there are many notable exceptions.

An idea seems to be prevalent that to furnish an apartment daintily for his Majesty the Baby entails considerable expenditure, and, accordingly, the little mite is relegated to any spare room in which his cot, basket, and feeding utensils may be made to fit. And he grows up amid more or less unattractive surroundings, which are cleanly, no doubt—though cleanliness, after all, is a negative kind of attribute, however essential—where, with a little thought, well exercised, and a very small expenditure, the daintiest of dainty rooms might be his.

When nursery wallpapers were first introduced many people concluded that the nursery wall problem had been satisfactorily solved; but it was not long before the doctors declared that arsenic and other deleterious compounds were too often used to produce the greens and other bright colours, and, for a while, wallpapers were banished from the apartments. But soft-tinted sanitary paper hangings are now procurable, with stencilled illustrations of the well-known nursery rhymes so dear to childhood on friese and dado, the centre-space—or "filling," as the paperhangers call it—being left plain, or decorated only with some unobtrusive all-over pattern. These papers may be bought for a few pence per roll, and they can be washed, when required, to free them from dust and germs. In America a cement composition, with a surface like a blackboard, is used as a dado in schools and nurseries, in order to allow the little ones to develop their artistic faculties without injury to the walls. This composition may be procured in Sydney from some of the dealers in school furniture, but it is somewhat expensive.

The next thing to be considered is the floor and its covering. Carpets are unhealthy, for they collect the dust so quickly, and matting is nearly as bad. Stained and waxed floors are the healthiest of all, for the wax fills the pores of the wood, and the turpentine, with which it is mixed, keeps the insects away. On such a floor a home-made rug of either denim or burlap, and of the requisite size, may be spread, with a worked or stencilled design of animals, birds, or fish, all round it for a border. There should be no more furniture than is absolutely necessary allowed in the room, and what there is should have no sharp angles. The chairs should be of cane, and all the woodwork should be varnished, or, preferably, enamelled, so that it may be cleaned by sponging with soap and water. A low table and low chairs, or chairs with the legs cut down, will also be required, and a place should be found for a large plain deal box with a cupboard door to serve as a toy-chest. The top of this chest should be solidly made, so as to serve as a seat. It may be covered with chintz of some bright pattern, which will interest the child, and he will be sure to like taking out his toys and putting them to bed again in the pretty chest.

For window curtains, cheesecloth or unbleached calico will be best, and on this designs of frogs or cats or anything one's fancy suggests—the range of subjects is endless—may be worked in common cross-stitch in reds or blues, and you will have cheap and most artistic curtains, which can be laundried every week.

The bedspread and pillow-sham might have a row of daisies worked just round the edges, also in bright washing cottons; and there should be nothing in the nursery that cannot be cleaned and disinfected by the application of hot water and soap. There should be a little cupboard to hold the feeding bottles, china, etc. necessary for the food; and another little cupboard, higher up on the wall, for medicine bottles.

Anyone gifted with a little artistic knowledge can make the furniture of a room, such as this, gay with stencil patterns, or by tracing bold outlines in poker work and staining with Judson's dyes in imitation of wood inlay.

The cost of furnishing such a nursery as is here described would not exceed a couple of pounds, and it would mean much both to the maid and to mother, for it could be so easily tidied and kept clean, as well as being pleasant and wholesome for the little occupant.

Plenty of fresh air and sunshine are, of course, indispensable; but the nursery should be kept cool, for heat has an enervating effect on a baby. If the sun is too strong, and there is no balcony—which, by the way, is a serious drawback—a Florentine blind should be provided for the window. These blinds come down like a penthouse roof on the outside. They act as a windsail, and keep the room cool and shady, while allowing the window to be opened to its fullest extent. R. R.

FAIRY TALES.

Of what use are fairy tales? asks a writer in the London "Tribune." Why tell children about fairies and ogres and giants and other strange beings which do not exist? Why fill little minds with false ideas of life? The writer and other writers who agree with him would like to substitute for fairy tales stories where the wonders of nature form the main interest. It is also urged against fairy tales that they are full of deeds of violence and bloodshed.

Plenty of stories designed to inculcate a love of nature are now on the market, and they are very well in their way; but they really have little in common with fairy tales. The marvels of the supernatural world and the phenomena of the natural world, however interesting, afford a different kind of enjoyment to children. For one deals with facts, and the other stimulates the imagination. Children revel in stories of the "Bluebeard" and "Little Red Riding Hood" type; they are not frightened by them, because they do not sufficiently understand the gruesomeness of certain details.

Fairy stories based upon nature would possibly be even more gruesome. Mill described Nature as a vast slaughter-house, and Tennyson expressed the same idea when he said that she was "red in tooth and claw."

Children, of course, know that the world of fairyland is quite imaginary. They do not go home and hit their baby brothers and pet dogs and nurses because Punch thrashes Judy and everyone else in the play. They know it is all make-believe, got up for fun.

If children were kept from fairy tales they would probably make them up for themselves. All children understand the art of make-believe. A specimen of this is drawn by Dickens in the little marchioness who makes believe to be a fine lady, and to be drinking wine when it is only orange peel and water.

Children will always make-believe, and fairy tales are but the outcome of make-believe.

GIRLS' BRAINS.

An old gentleman (in another State) was lately asked if he had noticed much change in young people during the lapse of years. His reply, to the effect that he believed "the girls have more brains than ever, and the boys less," is being quoted on all sides.

The general experience in boys' schools is that the boy who distinguishes himself in athletics compels more attention and admiration than he who devotes himself to his books, and that a boy is rarely both an athlete and a student.

Although nearly every girl now plays tennis or hockey at school, girls are none the less devoted to all the arts and most of the sciences. There are numbers of genuine girl students who are a perpetual delight to their teachers and a source of joy to their parents. The teachers have often, however, a genuine grievance against the parents. The parents want the children to make steady progress with their studies, and yet they permit them to go out to parties and entertainments during school term. The two things are quite incompatible. Days off should be quite unknown amongst schoolgirls.

The mother who lets her young daughter stay away from school to go to a party, or to mind the house, or for any other unnecessary reason, is doing the child a wrong and making things very hard for the teacher. Brains are like sinews and muscles, they only develop by exercise, and only properly develop when the exercise is systematic and regular. Jiu-jitsu must be done every day if its devotee wants to acquire real physical culture, and mathematics and other exact sciences should be studied every day if a girl wants her brain to grow.

Pianoforte students know that half an hour's practice every day does far more good than two hours one day and none the next.

Regular habits are the main thing for the young girl student. Parents are inclined to think that it is of great moment what a girl studies, whereas it does not really matter what she learns, but how she learns it.

A girl with any special talent should cultivate her specialty; and every girl wants a thorough course of general study, especially mathematics. It gives her ballast.

Some mothers ask, "What is the good of geology and chemistry and all the things Dorothy learns? She is never going to teach, and she won't want to know them." Other parents speak of the waste of time involved in learning the grammar of a language. "Let Gladys wait until we can travel. She will pick up French on the Continent in six months."

If a girl reads poetry and history, does fancywork or any other thing that is no trouble to her, her brain-power will increase very little. Chemistry and algebra are good for young girls because they are hard studies. They are useful because they force a girl to exert herself. In chemistry the schoolgirls learn that nothing is ever lost in nature; their parents might apply this great law to their daughters' studies, and ponder the fact that no sort of learning is ever wasted.

A knowledge of French grammar may not give a girl confidence enough to talk to foreigners in their own language, but it enables her to pick up a French book or newspaper and master its contents, and that is something, as Hans Andersen used to say.

Learn everything that comes up—it all tells in the long run. We all love the human race in some one of its aspects. Some of us dote on helpless little babies; others adore rough hobbledehoy boys. Some view with a delight so exquisite that it is almost pain the spectacle of lighthearted, pretty, and engaging girls; girls just leaving the schoolroom, ready to be mother's confidant and father's companion. All such sweet creatures are rendered still more adorable by having habits of regular study planted in them in their youth. If times grow hard, and they want to live by their brains, it is little hardship to them to use them for profit. If all they need to employ are their social accomplishments their early training will still remain invaluable, for they will have been subjected to a wholesome mental discipline, "and in their soul a grace has reigned that nothing else could bring."

CAKE MAKING.

If baking powder or cream of tartar is used it should be sifted in the flour, and all the flour should be sifted before using it in the mixture. For cake and meringues, the sugar should be dry and sifted before using.

A good tough butter makes the best cream and the lightest cake. Very salty butter should be washed before using.

The eggs should be as fresh as possible, and the breaking and separating should be done carefully, because one egg is liable to spoil the whole batch. The safest way is to break the eggs one by one in a cup, or if separating the whites, in two cups, before adding them to the other eggs.

When mixing cakes, it is best to have all the materials ready which go into the mixture, so the mixing can be done without interruption. Begin by preparing the pans in which the cake is to be baked; then weigh the sugar. (If butter is used, put it on top of the sugar, adding the additional weight. This prevents the sticking of the butter to the scales.) Next weigh the flour, and add the baking powder or the cream of tartar, and sift it with flour into a pan or on a paper. Then break or separate the eggs, and measure the eggs and milk. If soda is used, dissolve it in milk. Grated lemon rind and spices may be added to the sugar. The liquid extracts are added after the butter is creamed, with the sugar and eggs, before the flour. Put the sugar and butter in the mixing bowl. (It is best for creaming to have the butter a little soft, but not too soft, as it becomes oily.) Cream the butter and sugar lightly before adding the eggs. Have the eggs cold, and add them two at a time, and work them in well.

If milk is used in the mixture, it is added after the eggs are creamed with the butter; also the extracts; then the flour is worked in. It is best to leave a little of the milk out, if not sure of the strength of the flour, and add it after the flour is all in, if required.

If fruit or peels are used, they should be added when the flour is about half mixed in. For heavy fruit cakes, the fruits and spices may be mixed with syrup or liquor the day before using, and put in the mixture. For lighter cakes, the fruit should be soft, but dry, to prevent sinking in the cakes during baking.

Sometimes it is advisable to bake the cakes on double pans when the oven has too much bottom heat, and large cakes require covering with paper to prevent their becoming too brown on top.

When a large cake is fully baked, it shrinks lightly from the sides, and feels elastic to the touch of the fingers. The cakes may also be tested by sticking a splinter of wood in the centre; if it comes out dry, the cake is done.

The most difficult cakes to prepare properly are mixtures which contain no baking powder—the rich pound and sponge cakes. The lightening agent in the sponge mixture is the air beaten into the eggs.

THE HOUSEWIVES' PROBLEM.

The drought coming so closely on top of the Federal tariff has had the result of increasing the price of all domestic articles. The wage sheet hasn't altered, and people's daily wants haven't lessened, so that women with small housekeeping allowances are asking, "What are we going to do?" No matter how they set their wits to work, a satisfactory reply does not seem forthcoming. The catchword of the situation is "Pass it on." The shoemaker, who has to pay slightly bigger bills, charges a little more for his wares, and if any remonstrance is made answers smilingly, "The new tariff, madam."

Some housewives change from butcher to butcher, only to be met with increased prices everywhere. "And if the rain comes prices will go still higher," say the butchers, "for then the stock will be kept back."

If it were only meat that had gone up people would eat less meat and more of something else. But vegetables are almost at famine prices in the dearer suburbs. Peas are 2s 6d a peck, cauliflowers 9d, and so full of insects that most greengrocers won't sell them, tomatoes are 1d and 2d each. Bread has risen, but must be eaten as before. Milk is an item that can be cut down in most households by making the servants careful, for it is servants who are heavy on the milk; but where there are children milk must be taken as usual. A laundrywoman gave her mistress the proverbial "last straw" by stating that she would be obliged to charge a penny more for the future on every collar, as "starch had gone up, owing to the 'traffic.'"

Anyone engaged in business or commerce can contrive some means of passing it on to the other fellow. But the wives of men with fixed salaries are confronted with dear meat, dear vegetables, dear bread, dear clothes, dear starch, and dear all the rest, and no possible means of making someone richer indirectly pay for it.

The situation has already had a bracing effect on some women. Lazy housewives have become energetic. Those who couldn't be bothered with paying bills oftener than once a month now get "spot cash" groceries, which is the only possible way to save money on the groceries item.

They also rise early in the morning, which is the only way to get cheap fish and vegetables. It is quite a sight these mornings to see Paddy's Markets. All sorts and conditions of women, wearing their housekeeping expression, are to be seen there at 6. Carriages are there in numbers. A groom is usually in attendance on the carriage lady. He pulls out a big basket from under the seat. The vegetable seller tips the day's order into the basket, and the lady drives off with the air of having been to a fashionable matinee or bridge party.

Women who have always been of the careful, methodical housewifely order, finding that they cannot reduce household expenses any further, are trying to save in clothes. A discussion took place in a women's club recently on how to get a stylish hat for less than a guinea. The unanimous decision was to trim it oneself. The leader of the debate remarked that she had to earn her living, which left no time for home millinery, upon which every hearer promptly gave up the riddle.

Everywhere one goes the discussion of ways and means follows—everywhere except to the open sea, where breezes blow, sparkling waves dance and glitter, and birds are seen to do their housekeeping in the simple fashion of dipping their beaks in the ocean.

The housewife, weary of the eternal talk of tariff and drought, would rub her eyes were she to go to Coogee any Saturday or Sunday. The large reserve there near the ladies' baths is now fitted up with summerhouses, benches, tables, and hot-water tents. Happy families cluster so thickly that it is impossible not to observe what they are having for dinner, and very good dinners they are. Turkeys, jellies, pates, pies, and all kinds of salad, are spread on the nice new tables. Worrying problems seem quite forgotten there, if not quite unknown.

GIFTS FROM THE COUNTRY.

Girls who live in the country far from shops often regret not being able to give pretty presents. Yet by making the most of the resources around them they could bestow uncommon and charming gifts on their friends, especially things to eat and to wear. The current number of "Harper's Bazaar" contains an article on the making of such gifts, most of which could be localised.

Grasses, leaves, and mosses can be worked up into presents. Wild oats should be gathered while still rather green. A pint jar is filled two-thirds full of hot water. Alum is put in until it will no longer dissolve in the water. The dried wild oats are put into the liquid, the stems being fastened to the mouth of the jar, and left from 24 to 48 hours. When taken out the oats will be found to be beaded with crystals of alum. These sprays of crystallised grasses make most effective aigrettes for the hair. Very fine wire can be twisted round the stem. Three full sprays, with or without some black velvet ribbon, are enough for an aigrette. The grasses can also be made into hair fillets.

Melon seeds, dried and gilded, can be used to make many pretty things. A very unusual necklace, worn by a New York girl, and supposed to be an Oriental affair, was made of different melon seeds. To string the seeds for a necklace use either fine waxed silk or very fine wire. Americans are very much given to stuffing "sofa pillows" with fir needles. All spicy perfumed leaves make good cushion fittings, and there are many shrubs in the Australian bush, also ferns, that would answer the purpose well. Australian girls have not made a practice of stuffing cushions with natural leaves, but they might well do so.

Many delightful gifts can be made when bushes of lavender and lemon verbena are at hand. These two scents combine, and improve each other. For handkerchief sachets take equal parts of lavender and lemon verbena. These sachets may be made as elaborate or as simple as one likes. They may be of silk, fine lawn, or even of crepe tissue paper. Japanese paper napkins are pretty, and answer well for this purpose.

It is better to give a supply of lavender for linen drawers in bulk rather than in made sachets, so that the lavender may be sprinkled directly on sheets and pillowcases. A bag of crepe tissue paper, filled with lavender and tied loosely at the top with a ribbon, makes a welcome gift.

Pocket pincushions can be made of bark, by cutting the bark in two equal-sized round pieces, putting a layer of cotton wool between, and binding the two pieces together with narrow ribbon.

Country girls make jams and pickles as a matter of course, without thinking of them in the light of possible gifts. But a little home-made jelly or jam, especially when made of fruit freshly picked, is a very pleasing present, especially to friends who live in flats and do not keep house. Housekeeping friends would appreciate herbs for seasoning and stuffing; they are so much superior to anything of the sort bought in shops, after they have been gathered and dried in the right way. Herbs may be packed in a small tea caddy, or in pieces of tinfoil.

Girls who live by the seaside can send sea moss (which makes the very best blancmange) to their friends. They can also make very pretty Christmas cards by floating on to them some of the more delicate of the seaweeds. These weeds should be placed in a dish of water as soon as they are taken from the ocean. The card on which they are to be placed should be slipped under them while they are in the water, and they are literally "floated" into place. Place the card between sheets of clean blotting-paper, and dry under pressure. It will not be necessary to use gum to fasten on the seaweed, as it contains a sticky substance in itself.

Superstitions still remain, although sensible people fight against them. Some of them are so pretty—like that Irish one that explains a baby smiling in its sleep with the theory that it is holding converse with the angels—that we are loth to let them go. Another pretty superstition we are taught by fairy lore is that the most valuable present a fairy can make to a mortal is to give her fernseed. If a girl should look for the seed (which is to be found on the back of the ferns) whenever she takes a ramble, she will have an interest in her outing, and will be able to send a few grains of good luck to her friends.

A TOILET WARE REDUCTION OF 2/6 IN THE £.

It seems a large sum to come off all our Toilet Ware, but there are two reasons for this reduction. One is that the reduced price lasts for one week only, being our Special in the Furnishing Department for this week; and the second reason is that we are overstocked in a number of lines and can well afford a miniature Sale in this direction. Here then is an opportunity for the housewife in the way of replacing Toilet Ware. The tall, the square, the stout, the highly coloured, the floral, the pastel-tinted, shapes and colours, are all represented, and may be inspected without obligation to buy in our Furniture Department on the 2nd Floor.

Remember, when ordering by letter that the lengths mentioned as being in stock are those only to be obtained, other sizes may be especially made and cost extra, as they can only be made up singly.

THE KENNEL.

BY W. C. J.

A breed which, despite its old-country popularity, makes but little headway in Australia is the Pomeranian or Spitz. The first of these to be known outside the "Fatherland" was the white variety. This was a large dog, almost the size of a collie. One was brought from Germany by a doctor, which used to accompany the medico on his rounds. It was a big, active fellow, never far behind the fast horse which drew the buggy, well able to look after himself, and capable of emerging with credit from any of the numerous "scraps" in which he was engaged.

Next came the black variety, with which one or two enthusiasts in our State have made us familiar. Still with us the "Pom" has failed to "catch on." Undoubtedly the recognition of small-sized specimens in Great Britain gave a great impetus to the breed, as when the toy specimens received the acknowledgment of the Kennel Club these speedily became the rage. High prices are paid for choice examples, and, in addition to the whites and blacks, browns and blues are common. Some of these little atoms, weighing but 3lb or 4lb, have all the assurance of big dogs, and their engaging appearance and perfect self-possession never fail to make them many friends when seen at dog shows.

Mrs. John R. Wood, of Newcastle, who is an enthusiast in fox and Australian terriers, is now in England. En route to the old country Mrs. Wood stayed for a week or so at Japan. She has been good enough to send me the following notes about the dogs she saw in the land of the Chrysanthemum:—"I have not seen more than a dozen good dogs since I arrived in Japan. My eyes have simply ached to see a good-looking specimen. The dogs in Japan seem to be of no special breed. They are mostly a mixture of all sorts, and a pitiful sight at best. They are chiefly kept by farmers to guard their houses. There are wretched little black and white objects, dressed up in red and white jackets, which foreign women buy at any price from 60 to 80 guineas. These pets are an awful nuisance when leaving Japan, on account of the quarantine regulations. The little Japanese spaniels are intelligent, and can be made pleasant companions, but I would rather have a Sydney silky terrier if I wanted a lap dog.

"There are no kennel clubs in Japan, and no interest is taken in the companion dear to the hearts of most of our men and women. The dogs one meets here are timid and easily terrified, and run for their lives if spoken to by a stranger. As for a motor car, if they even hear one they seem to go mad, and will run for a mile out of the way until they drop from exhaustion. If a European resident does possess a good dog he has to keep it on a leash and guard it carefully, even in his home. One man here (Kobe) had a fair Irish terrier. He let his dog loose one night when entertaining a few friends. The terrier was stolen, possibly to line a winter coat. Only on the hills away from the town can a dog be safely kept. I saw a brace of retrievers on the golf links at Rokkosan, which is 2700ft above the town of Kobe. These dogs were beauties—sleek and well set up. They looked at their best when working their way through the long grass."

The noted sheepdog Fair Weather, a winner of 19 Kennel Club championships in England, died recently in London.

Dogs from the King of England's Sandringham kennel were shown at both King's Lynn and Derby last month, and they won several prizes. Sandringham Peter, a curly-coated retriever, which is used by his Majesty in the field, being awarded class honours, and also the special prize which was offered for the best sporting dog in the show. At Derby the Queen won prizes with the Borzoi Vassilka and the Basset hounds Sandringham Dido and Vanity; while his Majesty's exhibit, the Clumber spaniel Sandringham Lucy, was also among the winners.

Mr. Isaac Sharpe, an English breeder, has sold the pointer bitch Melksham Success, a winner at Aberdeen, Crufts, and Carlisle, to Mr. F. C. Lowe, for £150. She is intended for export to Russia. At the dispersal of Mr. H. Sawtell's kennel Melksham Success was brought for £13.

The popularity of England's national breed was evidenced last month by the fact that the London Bulldog Society received 394 entries for its show at Westminster.

A visitor to the show who has a great contempt for what he terms "useless fancy brutes," was taken round to look at five sheepdogs. "Yes," said he, "they're all right to look at; but give me workers, not show dogs." The gentleman was not a little disconcerted when he was informed that the dogs he had criticised were King and M'Leod's famous workers, Biddy, Bidy's Daughter, Wallace, and two imported Border collies, all big winners in sheepdog trials.

In Russia the Borzoi is essentially a coursing and killing hound—not a hunting one. When the wolf has been driven into the open, sighted, and allowed a hundred or two hundred yards' start, the Borzois are slipped in couples. They approach the wolf from different sides, and on overtaking it pin their quarry by the neck, just below the ear. In a moment the wolf and hounds are on the ground, all in a tangle. The dogs never let go their hold until a keeper comes up and slips a muzzle on the wolf, the capture of which alive is the scheme of the chase. The best Borzois can, and do when necessary, kill the wolf without assistance. The speed of the Borzoi is second only to that of a good greyhound, as Mr. Keighery proved in Prince Alfred Park with one of his fliers.

Three new dogs exhibited by Mr. Maurice were Welsh terriers—a breed new to this State, and also, I believe, to other parts of the Commonwealth. They resemble the Airedale terrier, but are much smaller, and should weigh in working condition about 20lb. They are faithful companions, and can fight when driven to it. The bitch Nell was whelped March 26, 1904, and is by Taffy, ex June. The dog Eiflon King has won at Crufts and other English shows seven first, eight second and three third prizes. The 18 months old Flirt is a daughter of Eiflon King and Nell. His pedigree runs back to six generations.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

"For many weary years I suffered from great debility and acute rheumatism; I had stiffness in the joints and muscles, more particularly in the back, where the pain was most excruciating. My appetite failed, and I became weak and irritable. I tried every treatment and medicine I could hear of that was likely to do me good, but without avail. I had lost faith in patent medicines, but my sufferings were so great that when Warner's Safe Cure was brought under my notice I gave it a trial. When I had taken the contents of one bottle I obtained great relief. I continued taking the medicine for some time, when I was relieved of all pain and suffering. My recovery was to me a great surprise for I am getting on in years. I have lived in this district for over fifty years."

STONE CURED.

"Some ten years ago I was attacked by great pains in the back and groin, which at times were so severe that I almost screamed with agony. I was treated by doctors for fully five years, and also tried several patent medicines, but obtained no relief. I at last despaired of ever getting well again, but was recommended by a friend to try Warner's Safe Cure, as it had given him immense relief in a similar case. I followed his advice, and after taking the medicine for a while I passed a stone about three quarters of an inch long and a quarter of an inch wide. I am pleased to say that after this stone had come away my sufferings were at an end, and I have not suffered in the slightest degree since. Many of my friends know of my case, and I always keep the stone I passed. I can confidently recommend Warner's Safe Cure in cases like mine, as I am thoroughly convinced that it saved me many years of agony, if not my very life itself."

BLADDER DISEASE CURED.

"No one knows the suffering I went through before I began to take Warner's Safe Cure. For ten years I suffered from my kidneys and liver, and finally bladder disease set in. I have been in five hospitals—three in New South Wales and two in Victoria. I was operated on. I consulted many doctors, but never obtained more than temporary relief until a friend induced me to take Warner's Safe Cure. I gave the medicine a fair trial, and, to my surprise and delight, I began to get better rapidly, until now I am in perfect health. I never felt better in my life, and I am 70 years of age. I only wish that I had taken Warner's Safe Cure long ago, as I know that I should then have been spared years of agony. I hope that you will publish this letter far and wide, so that other sufferers from bladder trouble may know how to obtain relief. I cannot praise Warner's Safe Cure too highly. To me it has been the greatest boon."

This letter is from Mr. M. Nolan, Picton Cottage, 21 Hopkins-street, Richmond, Vic.

In addition to the regular 5s and 2s 9d bottles of Warner's Safe Cure, a concentrated form of the medicine is now issued at 2s 6d per bottle. Warner's Safe Cure (Concentrated) is not compounded with alcohol, and contains the same number of doses as the 5s bottle of Warner's Safe Cure. A treatise will be sent post free by H. H. Warner and Co., Ltd., Australasian branch, Melbourne.—Advt.

Yachtsmen will find the pages of the "Sydney Mail" this week replete with interest. In addition to a number of photographs of the R.S.Y.S., its founders, present leaders, and quarters, a full historical article dealing with yacht racing from the earliest times in Sydney Harbour is given. The writer, "For'rd Hand," has been at great pains to collate his material, and he has put it together in a very readable manner.—Advt.

LAW REPORT.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5.

IN BANCO.

(Before Mr. Justice Simpson, Mr. Justice Cohen, and Mr. Justice Pring.)

ACTION AGAINST ALDERMEN.
DEFENDANTS' APPEAL SUCCEEDS.

Barker v Smith and others.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Messrs. Shipway and Berne, appeared for the defendants, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi to set aside the verdict found for the plaintiff, Frederick Edward Barker, and to enter a nonsuit or verdict for the defendants, or for a new trial. Mr. Moriarty, instructed by Messrs. Curtiss and Barry, appeared for the plaintiff in support of the verdict.

The plaintiff had sued William Alexander Smith, Frederick William Webster, Ian Brown Bossley, George Thomas, and Thomas Tindall, at the time of the cause of action, aldermen of the municipal district of Liverpool, to recover compensation for alleged malicious prosecution by them in causing him to be charged with false swearing, and on which charge he was acquitted. The jury returned a verdict with damages £325, and defendants appealed. By a preliminary objection, which was upheld by the Court, the only ground argued was that the Chief Justice who presided at the trial ought not to have decided that there was an absence of reasonable and probable cause for the prosecution.

After argument, Mr. Justice Simpson, having referred to the facts proved in evidence, said that with the greatest possible respect for the Chief Justice he was of opinion that his Honor was wrong in determining that there was an absence of reasonable and probable cause for the proceedings instituted by the defendants against the plaintiff. The circumstances of the case, about which there was no dispute, were quite sufficient to lead defendants, as cautious and prudent men, to the conclusion that plaintiff was probably guilty of this offence. Plaintiff swore at the Court of Appeal that he was the owner of the land, and that he had paid £30 an acre for it. The information did not charge him with committing perjury, but with false swearing. That he swore he was the owner of the land was beyond question, and that he was not the owner of the land was also beyond question. Inquiries were made before the prosecution was instituted, and those inquiries were sufficient to induce prudent, cautious men to conclude that plaintiff had sworn falsely. A letter was sent to the secretary to the Church of England Trust, and the distinct question was put to him whether plaintiff was the owner or occupier of the land. The reply was that he was not the owner, and that with the exception of one portion the land belonging to the trust had not been alienated. There was also the fact that in the return sent in to the Land Tax Commissioners it was clearly stated that the land tax had been paid, not by plaintiff, but by the trustees of the Church of England. Furthermore, all these matters were practically before the solicitor for the council when he advised the proceedings against the plaintiff. There not being sufficient evidence to show an absence of reasonable and probable cause, the verdict for the plaintiff must be set aside and entered for the defendants.

Mr. Justice Cohen said the defendant Smith, for the purpose of informing himself of the real position in the matter, and before the resolution was arrived at by the council, interviewed the secretary of the Church of England Trust. He seemed not to have been absolutely content with the letter received from the secretary of the trust, stating that the plaintiff was only the occupier of the land, and he personally interviewed Mr. Atkins on the subject, and a map was produced showing that the Church of England Trust was the owner of the property. The question was what would the evidence convey to an ordinary reasonable mind, and as far as he could judge the only reasonable conclusion that could be come to was that the plaintiff had falsely sworn that he was the owner of and had a complete title to this particular piece of land.

Mr. Justice Pring concurred.

Rule absolute, setting aside the verdict for plaintiff, and entering it for defendants with costs.

IN EQUITY.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

A RESUMPTION MATTER.

Pitt, Son, and Badgery v City Council.

Mr. Pilcher, K.C., Mr. Rich, and Mr. Pitt, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for the plaintiffs; and Dr. Cullen, K.C., and Mr. Leverrier, instructed by the City Solicitor (Mr. Dawson), for the defendant council.

In this case the plaintiffs oppose the resumption by the council of certain lands held by them at Flemington for live stock purposes. The plaintiffs are stock and station agents, among other things, and they oppose the resumption on three grounds:—1. That the City Council has no power to resume the land. 2. That if it has the power, it has not complied with the formalities of the Act. 3. That the resumption is not bona fide in the sense in which the exercise of statutory powers must be carried out.

The defendant claims that it has acted fully within its rights, and that the resumption is necessary to prevent overcrowding.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

RE WILLIAM DUNN'S ESTATE.

His Honor gave his reserved judgment in the application of W. H. Palmer, assignee in the estate of William Dunn, for an order declaring void as against him two sums of money totalling £47, which sums, it was alleged, had been paid by the bankrupt to the respondent (George Williams, storekeeper, of Deniliquin) on two dates, each of which was within six months prior to the date of sequestration.

His Honor said that the sequestration order was made on April 24, 1906, and that about January 25, 1906, and March 9, 1906, the bankrupt, or someone on his behalf, paid the respondent the sums of £15 and £32 respectively, such sums representing the amount of a debt owing by the bankrupt to the respondent. It was clear, his Honor held, that the payment having been made to defeat or delay creditors, it amounted to an act of bankruptcy. The respondent, therefore, was excluded from protection, and would have to pay the official assignee the amount claimed, with costs.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. Arthur Henry.)

PETITIONS FOR SEQUESTRATION.

MOTION TO VARY ORDER.

Re Alexander Kinninmont. This was a motion to vary an order under section 61 in the first bankruptcy for the payment by the bankrupt of £6 per month. Mr. Davenport appeared for the bankrupt. There had been a dividend of 16s in the £. The order was rescinded upon the bankrupt consenting to pay £6 per month in his second bankruptcy, and the Registrar directed an absolute certificate to issue.

SINGLE MEETING.

Re William Irvine Coulter. The bankrupt was present, and a resolution was carried allowing him his household furniture. The meeting closed.

SYDNEY QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Rogers and juries.)

Mr. Herbert Harris was Crown Prosecutor.

ACQUITTED.

William Lanyon, an elderly man, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing, on May 27 last, two books, the property of Alfred Cecil Rowlandson. On a second count, he was charged with receiving.

It was submitted by the Crown that the books had been placed on a form in the doorway of the prosecutor's shop in George-street, and that they were missed during the afternoon, being subsequently found in the accused's possession.

The defence was that the accused had bought the books for half a crown from a man in a public-house bar.

The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was discharged.

LARCENY.

Louis Crosnier, a foreigner, was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering a workshop, the property of the Municipal Council of Sydney, and stealing therein a quantity of material.

The jury found a verdict of guilty, and recommended the prisoner to the favourable consideration of his Honor, on account of his mental condition as stated by Dr. Taylor.

The prisoner, who had a bad record, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in Bathurst Gaol.

His Honor ordered that the report made on the prisoner's condition by Dr. Taylor, should be sent on to the Governor of the Bathurst Gaol.

BOUND OVER.

Rodney Brown, charged with stealing from a person, or persons, unknown, was bound over to appear at the next Court of Quarter Sessions.

POLICE COURTS.

SAVAGE DOGS.

At the Water Police Court yesterday, Edward Brownall was proceeded against, under section 13, Act 44, 1880, for being the keeper of a dog at premises situate in Bourke-street, Surry Hills, a public street in the Metropolitan Police district, he did permit the animal to attack an infant child (Edward Hobbs), whereby his limbs were injured. Mr. Macfarlane, S.M., said he could not be responsible for the disposition of the dog, but found the case proved. A fine of 20s, with 11s costs, was imposed, or in default seven days' imprisonment.

At the same court, Miss Elizabeth Sampson, of Bourke-street, Surry Hills, proceeded against Patrick M'Mahon, caretaker of Deane's Timber Yard, on a similar information. The evidence showed that on October 30, last, a fox terrier dog, owned by the defendant, attacked an infant son of the complainant in Bourke-street, and bit it. Mr. Macfarlane fined defendant 20s, with £2 18s 6d costs, or in default 14 days' gaol.

A VIOLENT FIREMAN.

Max Hohmuth, 29, a fireman, was charged at the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Payten, S.M., with assaulting Constable Stalling while in the execution of his duty. He was also charged with using improper language. The evidence showed that on Saturday last, the accused was found by the constable in the P. and O. shipping office with a knife in his hand. He threatened to stab the constable who, however, knocked the knife out of his hand. Accused then seized a chair and struck the constable with it on the shoulders, and later, when under arrest, he kicked the officer in the back, and used the language complained of. He was fined 20s, or seven days' gaol for the language, and £5, with the alternative of two months' imprisonment for the assault.

THEFT OF A BRACE.

At the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. C. N. Payten, S.M., William Durban Castray, 30, a carter, was charged with stealing a plumber's brace, of the value of 5/6, the property of Thomas Lucas Stoney, at Manly, on or about October 27. The prosecutor, a plumber, carrying on business at the Corso, Manly, stated that the brace was his, and that he gave no one authority to take it. He left it in a tool bag in the shop, but later missed it, and did not see it again until handed to him by the police. A young girl stated that accused left the brace with her for a short space of time, saying that he would call for it later on. Accused was fined 40s, or in default, 14 days' gaol.

AN ALLEGED THREATENING LETTER.

Thomas Martin, 30, a labourer with many aliases, appeared yesterday at the Central Police Court charged with, on October 16, maliciously causing a letter to be received by Arthur Johnson, threatening to kill him.

Constable Thomas Pauling said that while accused was in custody in Devonshire-street on October 17 he said to the prosecutor, "Well, I suppose you got that letter? This is your doing, and I will settle you when I get out of this." The accused also threatened to "settle" prosecutor's parents. Subsequently Martin, when shown a letter sent to prosecutor, admitted that it was in his handwriting. The prosecutor, Arthur Johnson, a fireman, said that he remonstrated with the accused for breaking his sister's jaw, and in otherwise illtreating her. Accused was warned that if he persisted in his illtreatment the police would be communicated with. Prosecutor was shown a letter (produced) sent by the accused. Susan Johnson said that she received the letter (produced). It was in the accused's handwriting.

"THE TRUMPER OF FOOTBALL."

HITS OUT IN SELF-DEFENCE.

QUARTER SESSIONS CHARGE FAILS.

Robert Errol, a member of the Y.M.C.A. football team (Australian rules), was arraigned at the Quarter Sessions Court yesterday, before Judge Rogers and a jury, upon a charge of having "maliciously inflicted grievous bodily harm upon Thomas Henry Lambert at Sydney, on August 31." The accused pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Mr. Foord.

Lambert, a lad, deposed that, after leaving the Sydney Cricket Ground, where the University and Glebe teams had been playing in the Rugby competition, he and two others crossed Moore Park while an Australian game was in progress. He walked across the playing ground inside the goal line, and dodged the ball, which was coming towards him, whereupon he was hit on the jaw by the accused before he knew where he was. The blow broke his jaw.

Cross-examined, witness said it would not have been much out of his way to have walked round the playing ground instead of crossing it. He did not see the accused running after the ball trying to take it, nor did he notice him until he was hit. Someone asked him (witness) and his companions to get off the ground and "give the players a chance." He did not hear anyone of his companions say it was only the "dirty, rotten Australian game." Mr. Hedger, a magistrate, did not tell the prosecutor that if he did not get off the ground he would give him in charge. Neither the witness nor his companions made a rush at the accused before he was struck.

To his Honor: If he had been playing football he would have felt annoyed at people crossing the ground. It would have taken a couple of minutes only to go behind the goal posts. He did not go across there just to annoy the players. But, as a footballer, he knew it would annoy players to have their playing area crossed by others not engaged in the game.

Accused, who gave evidence, said he was a professional athlete, and trainer of the Y.M.C.A. team. He had formerly been a prizefighter. On the day of the assault he was in the position of a "follower." Three lads stood in front of him and obstructed him in playing the game. He said "Give me a chance," and pushed his way through. One of the three said it was the "dirty, rotten Australian game," and there was offensive language used. The accused and his two companions came at him in a menacing way, when he (witness) was making for the ball on its return. Lambert made a blow at him, which he warded off, and the next moment one of the others flung himself round his neck. A person's jaw was at times very easily broken, while at other times a kick would not do it.

"It all depends upon the jaw," remarked the Judge.

"I have known a man's jaw to be broken with the heel of the open hand," rejoined the Crown Prosecutor (Mr. Harris). "The hardest blow," he continued, "is a straight hit with the heel of the hand, if it is meant as a blow."

H. J. Hedger, a member of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, and a vice-president of the association's football team, stated that as the accused went to take the ball one of the three boys struck at him, and another swung himself round his shoulders. They used filthy language when he (witness) remonstrated with them. The accused was well-behaved and good-tempered on the field. He was, in witness's opinion, the "Trumper of football."

Edgar Asbury and Goldie Thomas supported the accused's statement.

The jury intimated that they did not wish the case to go any further, as they were perfectly satisfied that the accused struck the prosecutor in self-defence.

The foreman: Yes.

A verdict of not guilty was returned, and the accused was discharged.

SYCOSIS 7 YEARS.

Had Six or Seven Doctors and Underwent Severe Treatment in Hospitals—Nothing Gave Good Results Until Friend Advised Trying Cuticura Remedies—Cured in Six Weeks by Cuticura.

"I have been troubled with a very distressing complaint called sycosis for seven years, and during that time I was under the treatment of six or seven different doctors. I was also an out-patient at St. ———'s Hospital for about two years. I was also an in-patient at their in-patient department at ——— House, and while there I underwent a very severe course of treatment, but with no good results. I was advised by a friend to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did, with the result that in six weeks I was rid of my complaint. That was two years ago, and I have not been troubled with it since. I might say that I used one tin of the Cuticura Ointment, three bottles of the Cuticura Resolvent, and Cuticura Soap, which I have continued to use ever since. TRADES AND LABOUR.

BUILDING TRADES ORGANISING.

SERIES OF MEETINGS PROPOSED.

The building trades committee of the Sydney Labour Council continues to show much activity respecting the enrolment of men in the various callings appertaining to this class of industry. It is proposed to hold a series of meetings and to make special efforts to induce unattached carpenters, painters, plasterers, slaters, and labourers to join the respective unions of their trade. The first meeting is to be held at Newtown next month, and the assistance of Messrs. Hollis and Stuart-Robertson, Ms.L.A., is to be requested. The object of the meetings is to solidify the building trades.

LABOURERS' WAGES.

At a recent meeting of the United Labourers' Protective Society (numbering 1435 members), it was decided to seek the co-operation of the Municipal Employees' Union with a view to bringing about an advance in wages. It is desired that concrete workers, now paid 8s per day, shall be paid 9s, and that labour "not already specified," now paid for at 10½d per hour, shall be paid at the rate of 1s per hour. Extra pay is to be sought for packing drives as well as excavating them. The Municipal Employees' Union has decided to co-operate as desired. A committee has been elected to confer with the United Labourers' Protective Society.

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES.

At a meeting of the Municipal Employees' Union, the president, Mr. J. Tyrrell, was elected to represent the union at the Political Labour League conference in January next. The secretary reported that the deputy town clerk had informed him that in future all employees would receive holidays on their due date.

TAILORESSES' UNION.

Since the establishment of the Union Clothing factory in Oxford-street by the Tailoresses' Union there has, it is said, been a steady growth of business and a consequent increase in the number of union workers who are engaged on co-operative lines. Several firms have agreed to have the union's label attached to the clothing turned out from this establishment. The union prides itself that the label is a guarantee of good work.

PAINTERS' MOVEMENT.

The Painters' Union recently fixed up an agreement with the Interstate Steamship Owners' Association, the New South Wales Coastal Steamship Owners' Association, and Mort's Dock and Engineering Company. This agreement, which has been filed in the Arbitration Court, has a duration of two years, and provides, among other things, that the rates of pay shall be:—Ordinary hours, 1s 2d; grainers, writers, gilders, and special hands, 1s 3d per hour. Outside the employment of the companies named, men are not (with the exception of those employed by the Gas Company) being paid up to what is regarded by them as being a fair average standard. They have an agreement with the Australian Gaslight Company, and they are now negotiating to have an agreement with the Sydney Ferries, Ltd. In respect to other employers, however, the union has decided to seek a conference. What is aimed at chiefly is an improvement in the working conditions, but there will be submitted also proposals for a levelling up on some matters of wages payments. The union picnic will take place early next month at Pearl Bay.

SLAUGHTERMEN'S UNION.

A branch of the Slaughtermen's Union has been established at Deniliquin, where between 30 and 40 men are now engaged at the local freezing works. An employer who is outside the Carcase Butchers' Association (and outside also the radius covered by the agreement between that association and the union) was written to yesterday, the object of the union being to create a dispute within the meaning of the Industrial Arbitration Act. Once this is done, and a decision obtained in respect to it, steps will then be taken to have that decision made a common rule.

TROLLEY, DRAYMEN, AND CARTERS.

A large gathering of adults and children assembled at Sir Joseph Banks Pleasure Grounds, Botany, on Sunday, where a picnic and open-air concert took place under the auspices of the Trolly, Draymen, and Carters' Union. The object of the gathering was mainly to augment the union's accident insurance fund. It was reported to a meeting held at the Trades Hall on Monday, that the profits on the venture had exceeded £50, an announcement which was received with satisfaction.

It was decided that the secretary, Mr. M. Connington, should call a meeting of the officers, with the object of referring an industrial dispute between some members and four or five timber merchants to the Court of Arbitration. The dispute is in regard to working hours, wages, etc.

A resolution was carried admitting some 200 tipcarters to affiliation with the union.

PRESSERS' UNION.

A communication was read at a special meeting of the Pressers' Union held at the Trades Hall on Monday (under the presidency of Mr. J. Nelson) from the secretary of the Sydney Clothing Manufacturers' Association, requesting the delegates who had attended the late conference to meet the members of this association at a meeting to be held on Wednesday evening. The delegates from the association had, it is said, agreed to increase the minimum wage from £2 10s to £2 15s, and also to a modification of the piecework log. A report to this effect was adopted by the union, but not, it would appear, by the association. The union has since reconsidered the matter, and decided that its delegates should attend the association meeting, as desired, but not give way on the material points that had been agreed to in conference.

WESTERN MINERS AND IRONWORKERS.

LITHGOW, Monday.

Messrs. Luchetti and Truscott, president and secretary of the Western Miners' Association, visited Portland on Saturday for the purpose of attending a meeting of the Ivanhoe miners, at which a proposal was discussed to form a union and affiliate with the association. The meeting was in favour of this, and about 40 members joined the union.

A meeting of the Ironworkers' Association was held on Saturday night, at which rules were redrafted, and about a dozen new members were received. The membership of the union is now nearly 300.

A WOMAN'S DEATH.

The City Coroner held an inquest yesterday on the body of Bridget Griffiths, who died on October 31, at her residence, 293 Nelson-street, Annandale. The evidence showed that deceased was a married woman, residing with her husband. The coroner found that death was due to septicaemia, following upon a certain event, but that there was no evidence to show how the mishap was brought about.

A LA "MILLENNIUM."

A NEW ENGLAND MINISTER'S COMPARISON.

A peculiar remark made by a minister at a New England dinner, caused some comment. He was being served for the first time with Grape-Nuts food. He looked up and asked what it was, and being told, said, "They might have named it Millennium." The hostess, a lady then on the editorial staff of a Boston paper, further remarks:

"Since the 'Millennium' came to our cuisine we have no further occasion to take into our stomachs the masses of pasty, partly-cooked food that we used before Grape-Nuts came.

"I speak directly of myself.

"I had been for a long time the victim of gastric indigestion, brought on by steady mental work and a lack of proper food. I passed sleepless nights, and work in the daytime was exceedingly difficult. Many spells of vertigo came on and my nerves and temper were in anything but a normal condition.

"I finally had three successive night attacks and I verily thought the end had come. I would throw out at midnight the lunch of Scotch Porridge eaten the noon previous, unchanged, except that it had turned intensely bitter. Violent vomiting continued for hours and the after-exhaustion was all but deathly.

"I could see plainly that utter breakdown was ahead of me. Just at this time I was led to use Grape-Nuts, and I found the food-cure. I quickly gained strength and flesh, my gastric troubles were relieved, and my sleep sweet again.

"Aside from the powerful nutritive value of Grape-Nuts food, do you know that it will impart its delicious, nutritive flavour to almost any dish that it is added to? For instance, a spoonful or two stirred into a bread pudding before baking gives it a marvellous flavour, far superior to spices; also, a little cooked in custard for lunch or supper, not only adds special relish, but special sustenance." "There's a Reason."

That famous book, "The Door Unbolted," sent free to any address. Tells all about where and how Grape-Nuts is made. Write, Grape-Nuts, Box 98, G.P.O., Sydney.—Advt.

All sportsmen should read "Thormanby's" articles in this week's "Sydney Mail," entitled "The Humours of Tommy Coleman" and "Record of Captain Becher."—Advt.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE WHEAT CROP.

EFFECT OF THE RAINS.

Late as was the arrival of the splendid rains which fell at the beginning of the week, the wheat crop must be considerably aided by their advent. The rain map shows that many of the best falls of from one and a half to two inches were registered in the most important wheatgrowing districts. Narromine, Dubbo, Wellington, Parkes, and Molong all had most serviceable falls, which covered a very large extent of the Western wheat lands. Then Cowra and other districts previously well favoured scored again, as did also Wagga and other stations in the Riverina belt. Temora, Coolamon, and the rest of the south-west areas did well, while up north all the largest centres had useful rains. The rain is, of course, too late to turn a bad season into a good one, but it is in time to work a great change by improving the chances of the early crops and causing late crops to give payable returns. There should be an increase of two to three bushels per acre on the total yield, as against that which might have been expected had the rain continued to hang off until harvesting began. The State should certainly yield five bushels per acre instead of three, which was all that promised when a forecast was made in these columns a few weeks back. This would mean that New South Wales would probably have sufficient wheat for her own requirements, a very much healthier state of affairs than was promised when there appeared to be a strong chance of importation becoming necessary. The value of a rain may be roughly gauged by the fact that if two bushels be added to the yield at probable prices, some 8s per acre will be gained by the farmers. On the area likely to be cut for wheat this would give a return of nearly £900,000.

ITEMS.

In yesterday's "Herald" an item of news appeared concerning the condemnation at Manila of some Australian butter, because it contained boron. There is nothing in the item of very great importance, but it is as well to let it be known that the law of the United Kingdom permits 0.5 per cent. of preservatives—boron is one of them—to be added to butter. The law in the other Australian States permits the same thing. But the law of the United States, and of Germany, as well as of some other countries, forbids the use of preservatives of any kind. That is why the Australian butter was condemned.

In Victoria the crops in both the eastern and western districts are looking very well; it is only in the central portions of the State that they are suffering. Mr. Lee, one of the agricultural superintendents, travelled along the railway line from Horsham to Geelong, and did not see one crop that could be termed a failure. The wheat crops were well grown, and forward, and the oats, though wanting rain, gave promise of good yields of hay; better, indeed, than anything seen further east in the State. The rainfall of the districts through which Mr. Lee passed was a little over the average.

Recently a parcel of potatoes was sent from Tumbarumba to Messrs. Anderson and Co., of George-street, Sydney, by Dr. Maw, of that place. They were grown by Mr. T. Broadhurst on new ground some three miles outside of Laurel Hill, and are part of a crop which averaged about 18 tons to the acre. Some of the tubers weigh 4lb each, and all are of mammoth size. The seed from which they came was said to be Early Rose, the land was new, and no particular care was exercised to ensure a very heavy yield. Dr. Maw, writing to Messrs. Anderson and Co., says there are 100,000 acres of similar land in the district, waiting, firstly, for a railway, and then for settlement. It will produce anything, as it is virgin forest country.

Western Australia is very jealous about her immunity from rabbits, and rightly so. She has erected two rabbit-proof fences on the eastern side of her settled country, there being a goodly space between them. Recently, it was reported that rabbits were seen between the two fences, and men were sent out to investigate. They found rabbits, and killed them. Now, a patrol is going up and down, the space between the two fences to make sure that no rabbits have escaped the attentions of the destroyers.

South Australia's fruit regulations are being very severely criticised in Queensland just now. One press writer sums up the effect of the regulations by saying that it would have cost less in printing had the authorities of the southern State merely said, "Queensland fruit not wanted." Most fruits from their State, they say, enters into competition with that grown in South Australia, and that is supposed in Queensland to be the real and true reason of the stringent regulations.

The Tyree automatic rabbit destroyer received a practical field trial on Friday last on the farm of Mr. Charles Harvey, Crookwell. Three tests in all were made, and in No. 1 a marked rabbit was placed in the burrow. After the test the burrow was dug out, but the work was not completed on Friday night. It was resumed on Saturday morning, and on opening a small pocket a short distance from the main burrow the marked rabbit and 15 others were found quite dead. The other burrows where the tests were made were found unopened. Mr. Harvey, in writing to the Tyree Company, records his opinion that if the burrows are not interfered with after the application of the fumigating poison no rabbit can escape. The apparatus is one in which the fumes of acetylene gas are used to drive bisulphide of carbon vapour into the burrows, all exits having previously been blocked up. The machine being charged and the holes blocked up, the attendant in charge may leave it and transfer his attention to other burrows. In this way he may manage as many as ten machines. It is recommended that for very large burrows two or three machines be employed.

Mr. G. M. Hooke informs us that Mr. R. Sharpe, writing in Saturday's "Herald," is mistaken in saying that 475 cattle out of 500 died through eating thistles on the Paliaming reserve. 480 died out of 878.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

Mr. H. A. Hunt, Commonwealth Meteorologist, writes, under date of November 2:—I have read with concern the distressing effects to stock and crops resulting from the prolonged shortage of rain during the present year, and have also followed with much interest the letters that have appeared in the press from various correspondents, who have submitted opinions as to the cause of Australian droughts, views as to how to remedy or avoid the lamentable results, and many suggestions as to how similar occurrences may be anticipated.

Much of the reasoning and a good number of the deductions of your correspondents cannot be gainsaid, and some cannot be accepted, while the remarks with regard to meteorological workers and scientists in Australia I consider unkind, and venture to think were made without a due appreciation of the immense complexity of meteorological problems, and the vast area of the globe that is meteorologically unknown. On this supreme question one correspondent has soundly indicated that weather problems and difficulties cannot be satisfactorily explained by a study of circumscribed data, but such study must embrace a daily analysis of atmospheric conditions from all parts of the world. And I may here state that so convinced have we always been of this fact that two or three years ago I corresponded with the chief meteorological officers of the Northern Hemisphere, conveying a suggestion that for international exchange purposes a daily isobaric chart should be published on a uniform scale and plan, so that upon receipt of all portions of them at the different observatories they might be pieced together, and portray graphically a daily representation of the atmospheric distribution over a great part of the continental globe. Such a scheme, if carried into effect, would readily enable meteorologists to discover the corresponding areas of the earth in sympathy with alternate pulsations of atmospheric pressure. Under present prevailing conditions investigations, by the use of synchronous charts for this phase of meteorology, and also for most others, are rendered most laborious, and without a numerous staff and great expenditure are impossible. The idea was very favourably considered by the authorities to whom it was submitted, but the initial difficulty to be faced is the plan of map to be adopted. That of Mercator's is the best, and in fact the only one that can be used for presenting the necessary data in an unbroken manner; but the distribution of isobaric gradients on such a map over areas of the globe in high latitudes would present false and unnatural conditions, and would probably lead to erroneous deductions. This urgent question has again been referred to the principals of the chief meteorological services, and it is hoped that ere long the main difficulties will be removed, and that world-wide meteorological data will be available for discussion with the local current conditions. From these maps it is hoped that some indications may be deduced from which the character of the coming seasons may be anticipated.

From investigations of variations of barometric pressures made by Blandford, formerly meteorological reporter to the Government of India, it transpired that pulsations of pressure existed between Siberia, Indo-Malaysia, and Australia. Hildbrandsson subsequently discovered that several regions were subject to the same peculiarity. He found that while pressure was high in the Azores, it was correspondingly low in Iceland, and that similar relations were established between Siberia and Alaska, Tahiti and Terra-del-Fuego, India and Siberia, Greenland and Buenos Ayres and Sydney. These pulsations would seem from still later investigations to be but secondary effects, for Sir Norman Lockyer and Dr. Wm. Lockyer have established the main regions over which pressures interchange. The centre of the western field covers the whole of the western half of South America, Mexico, and the south-western parts of the United States. The eastern one covers India, Southern China, Australia, and the ocean intervening.

Since weather changes are dominated by differences of atmospheric pressure, and the seasonal shortage or abundance of rain depends upon the excess or decrease of pressure, it follows that if it is possible to determine the time and direction these atmospheric surges are taking, we shall be in a position to anticipate the general character of approaching seasons.

The periods of oscillation are only as yet approximately known. The interchange motion in the central regions mentioned takes an average of about four years; while outside these regions the period varies, generally to a lesser term, and is less regular.

A recent correspondent hints at experimenting for the production of rain by a means suggested by Professor Gregory; that is, of spraying clouds with liquid air from a Hargreave's kite. Although the Professor was at one time of the opinion that the artificial production of rain might be attempted, evidence is at hand to show that he has since modified his view, and is in no way confident of any result.

Many methods for rain-making have been advanced and tried, and many of them have a scientific basis, but they all must fail, not only because any forces we can bring to operate are puny when compared with the forces of Nature, but also because the process of natural rain-falling is not properly understood, and because the air intervening between the clouds operated on and the earth may be rain-resisting. As far as is known, rain is caused chiefly by moisture-laden air from the sea forced or lifted to more rarified heights, either by contact with land elevations or by ascensional currents due to thermal action.

So truly does this theory apply that anyone with a map of the world on which elevations and the direction of prevailing winds are shown can place his finger on the areas of continental country having heavy and light rains, consideration, of course, being allowed for tropical and seaboard areas. Thus in India we find that south-west monsoons precipitate the heaviest rains on the western shores and elevated parts of that country; while much of the valley of the Indus, which is low country, has under five inches annually. The Lake Eyre district, which is about 40ft below sea level, although only 250 miles from the ocean has the smallest mean annual rainfall in Australia. On the other hand, Geraldton, on the north-east coast of Queensland, and the west coastal districts of Tasmania receive the heaviest rains. At the firstnamed place, where the average exceeds 150 inches annually, the moisture from the south-east trade winds blowing in from the sea is intercepted and precipitated by mountains arising to an elevation of 5400ft. On the west coast of Tasmania, too, the moisture is condensed from the westerly trade winds by mountains of moderate elevation, but with very abrupt slopes. A glance at the isohyetal map of New South Wales will show that this State is largely controlled by physiographical influences. The southern mountains between Kiandra and the Victorian border, the Blue Mountains, the Canobolas, and Warrumbungle Ranges, will all be observed to receive more than their due quota of rainfall, while relatively depressed areas, such as the country between Cooma and Queanbeyan, the Nepean and Hawkesbury valleys, the Bathurst district, the northern country between Tamworth and Bundarra, and the Upper Hunter Valley, receive less than their proximity to the sea would lead us to expect.

While elevated country generally enjoys a liberal rainfall, the relatively low-lying areas have compensation for shortage, the evaporation in such parts being generally less. The low-lying areas receive the soakage from the surrounding hills, and records show that they are less subject to extreme departure from normal annual totals.

To produce rain artificially by convectional currents of air, Espy, in 1845, advocated the simultaneous burning of masses of timber every seven days in the west of the United States, in a line 600 or 700 miles long. He argued that a rain of great length would commence near or on the line of fire, and would not break up until it reached the Atlantic Ocean. The experiment has never been tried on the scale proposed, and, admitting the feasibility of the idea, which is, however, doubtful, the benefits doubtless would only last for so long as there remained timber to burn. The after-effects resulting from the destruction of the forests for fuel would be sure to leave the country in a worse condition for rain than nature originally provided. Various other methods for the production of rain have been advanced and tried, and some have been patented, but all have failed. Gathan, of Chicago, in 1891, proposed a method of rain production, which was to suddenly chill the atmosphere by the rapid evaporation of carbonic acid gas, liberated in the upper region of the air. Concussions by a variety of means, both from the earth and in the air, have found favour with the majority of experimentalists. The liberation of dust and smoke in great quantities has been suggested on the known fact that solid particles in the air facilitate condensation. Slight falls of rain are said to have resulted on obtaining electric connection with a cloud by means of a kite. In the early nineties the U. S. A. Congress voted 19,000 dollars for the carrying out of experiments in rain-making. These were made in Texas, and report on the results was adverse to the promoters. Since that time the idea of rain-making in America has been practically dead. And with this experience to guide us, there is nothing to be gained by reviving the idea in Australia.

As has been pointed out from time to time, Australia's weather is controlled by the great southern anticyclonic stream in which it lies. When the centre of this stream shows unusual activity, and its course is diverted to the south of the continent, the rains over Australia are generally good, for the reason that the wind circulation high-pressure units are distributing moisture-laden currents over Australia, the product of evaporation from the surface of the Southern Ocean. The monsoonal low pressures likewise are carried southwards, and operate over a larger area than when the centre of the high-pressure stream is passing over a low, or its normal, latitude (about 30 deg. S.). The Antarctic low pressures, too, during such favourable conditions assume a more acute form, and intrude further northwards, as distributing rain agents.

On the other hand, when this stream is sluggish, and passing midway from E. to W. across the continent, the wind circulates more continuously over the land surface, and has not the opportunity of gathering moisture from the surrounding ocean. This is the reason why in New South Wales the south to south-east winds in droughty times are more or less rainless. The controlling wind circulating agent is centred in the heart of the continent, of which it takes a somewhat similar shape, and its outside revolving limits are confined to the seaboard, or at most do not extend sufficiently far out to sea to gather enough moisture to precipitate.

It is very gratifying indeed to note the keen interest and comprehensive grasp which the people of New South Wales in particular have of Australian weather. This is undoubtedly largely due to the enterprise of the Sydney press, in so liberally publishing weather information. It is sincerely to be hoped that the leading newspapers in the other States—those that are not yet publishing charts—will be induced to do so, for it is by this means, principally, I believe, that a Meteorological Sir Isaac Newton or Lord Kelvin may be raised to us.

In conclusion, I would like to submit two questions for consideration, viz.:—

(1) Of what benefit would the existence of a reliable cycle be to our pastoralists and graziers, and in what way would a knowledge of the character of the coming seasons be of service, if, when this knowledge is forthcoming, we do not do as we should doubly do now—conserve our grass and water?

(2) Why have we allowed "the very life-blood of our country"—the waters of our inland rivers—to drain away into the ocean for the greater part of a century without any serious attempt to effective draining or locking?

THE GLORIOUS RAIN!

The Towny and the Wayback Shake Hands Over the Glorious Rain.

It glistens on the trees, it sparkles on the grass, and sends the rushing waters down the river bed with a musical confusion which sounds like a joyful chorus; it runs wildly along, skipping, laughing, dancing, and revelling in the wild excitement of its uncertain course, it puts heart into the farmer and grazier, it cheers the flocks and herds until their bleating and bellowing harmonise a happy song; it revives the crops, it refreshes nature, and makes the landscape beautiful under the setting sun. The children's glee and the toiler's lighter step tell of the heartfelt thanks for the blessing on the thirsty land. It instils confidence in our future, and while the State Treasurer smiles and the farmer's wife sees new dresses and other luxuries in the near future we are getting our Cameras ready to welcome our country customers.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

PARKES.—At their meeting on Saturday the Farmers and Settlers' Association decided to renew their lease of the grain shed at the local railway station for the ensuing season, and it was also agreed to approach the Commissioners with a view of obtaining a concession in the annual rental, owing to the limited prospects of the coming harvest. The association also decided to ask the Forbes P.P. Board to appoint a local resident, or someone readily accessible, as scalp receiver at Parkes.

PASTURES PROTECTION BOARDS.

QUEANBEYAN.—At the stock board's monthly meeting it was resolved to co-operate with the Gunnedah board in the matter of urging upon the Government the necessity of amending the P.P. Act to provide for the boards having sole control of the T. S. and C. reserves, and in asking the Government to establish a veterinary college. The board was unanimous in opposing the leasing of any of these reserves. A motion by Mr. Gibbs that the board pay a bonus on crows was defeated. The stock inspector reported that good work was being done in the destruction of rabbits.

THE HARVEST.

LEADVILLE.—Grasshoppers are bad and have to a certain extent been responsible for the present scarcity of feed. They have also done considerable damage to the wheat crop. In one instance they stripped a 20-acre paddock in a couple of days. The crop is a decided failure in this part of the State this season and only a very few growers will be able to get any hay at all. They have had to procure mowing machines for the purpose, as the reapers would not take the crop on account of the shortness of the stalk.

PARKES.—The Railway Commissioners have declined to supply increased loading facilities at Tichbourne siding at present, owing to the uncertain prospects of the season. They have also declined, in view of the necessity for economy, to extend the telephone at Parkes railway station to the goods shed. Grasshoppers are making their presence felt in some parts of the district, and have even attacked the hay crop in the sheaf, stripping the heads.

WELLINGTON.—It is now estimated that the Wellington district will obtain half a crop, and as prices are so good, farmers will fare pretty well. The rain has not only put new life into the growing crops, but into business generally, and people are in a most hopeful mood, whereas a week ago general depression was manifest.

DAIRYING.

RAYMOND TERRACE.—For the month of October the Raymond Terrace Co-operative Dairy Company manufactured 54 tons 8cwt. of butter, being an increase of 11 tons over the previous month. Suppliers of first quality butter were paid—October 1 to 15, 11 1-8d, 16th to 31st, 14½d per pound, less working charges. The number of cream suppliers is now greater than at any previous period, being 330. Land for the branch factory to be erected in the Paterson district has been secured at Gostwyck Bridge, and the building will be gone on with immediately.

THE SHEARING.

YERONG CREEK.—Shearing has been completed at most of the sheds, though a couple of contract sheds are still shearing. The clip will be fully 25 per cent. below last year's average. The wool is fairly well grown, light, and clean, and not very tender, considering the hardness of the winter. Most of the sheds are out fully a month earlier than last year, as no broken weather was experienced to retard operations.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

CUNDLETOWN.—Only a few points of rain have fallen since June. The outlook is serious for farmers and dairymen. All farming operations are at a standstill. Water for household purposes is very scarce.

WOLUMLA.—There is a noticeable growth of grass since the rainfall of 75 points on Wednesday night last. Owing to the prolonged dry weather, farmers are still unable to plough for crops.

METROPOLITAN MILK SUPPLY.

SUBURBAN DAIRYMEN'S POSITION.

Inquiries were made yesterday as to the probable effect the award delivered on Monday by the Arbitration Court was likely to have on the suburban dairymen. From what was said, it appeared as if those spoken to scarcely realised the full extent to which they would be affected, but all agreed that for every dairyman employing labour the result would be deleterious. Those who employed no labour at all would probably not be affected in any way, but those who might be called the middle-class suburban dairymen would find it very hard to carry on their businesses. One gentleman gave it as his opinion that some of those would probably be driven out of the trade. However, more will be known in a few days.

DANGER OF RESTRICTION.

Dr. W. G. Armstrong was interviewed yesterday relative to the decision of the Arbitration Court in the milk and ice carters' application for a common rule. Dr. Armstrong said:—

"All I can say is that I recognise that it will be most disastrous to the public health, and particularly to the young children in the population, should any combination of circumstances lead to a considerable reduction in the capacity of the suburban dairies for supplying milk.

"It is quite true that really new, fresh milk can only be obtained by householders in Sydney from dairies where the milk is produced within the area of the metropolis. The capacity for milk supply of these dairies is not increasing pro rata with the increase of population in the metropolis. On the contrary, the tendency is rather in the other direction. The number of registered dairies within the district over which I have sanitary supervision, namely the metropolitan combined district, has decreased during the present year from 452, which was the number in 1906, to 440. The population, on the other hand, shows a very considerable increase. These facts rather point to a continually diminishing supply of newly-drawn milk."

A CHALLENGE TROPHY.

APPEAL FROM GENERAL HOAD.

Last month Major-General Hoad forwarded the following to the District Commandant Brigadier-General Gordon:—

At the annual meeting of the Commonwealth Council of Rifle Associations, held at Brisbane on the 10th inst., it was suggested that the time was opportune for the people of Australia to provide the challenge trophy for the Empire match, which has been inaugurated by this council to encourage the visits of representative teams from the mother country and the British dominions beyond the seas.

The present occasion is unique in the history of the Empire, because of the fact that this is the first time on which a British rifle team has crossed the seas to Australia.

A beginning has been made of what is hoped is only a forerunner of a frequent interchange of such visits.

On the 28th and 29th of this month, at Sydney, representatives of the mother country, of the Dominion of New Zealand, and of the Commonwealth of Australia meet in friendly rivalry in the Empire rifle match. On future occasions it is anticipated that the Indian Empire, the Dominion of Canada, the South African colonies, the British colonies of Further India will be represented, and it may be confidently asserted that this is one of the best ways of linking the bond of kinship and loyalty.

It is, therefore, urged that you will use your influence, and open a subscription list—say, of a shilling subscription—so that the citizens of Australia resident in your State may heartily join in providing a trophy worthy of such occasion.

Lieutenant Dakin, secretary of the N.R.A., states that the following sums have been collected or promised towards the Empire trophy fund:—

Collected at N.R.A. smoke concert, October 19	£6 14 0
D. Storey and Co.	1 1 0
Brewarrina Rifle Club	1 1 0
Hillgrove Rifle Club	1 1 0
	£9 17 0

THE CHILDREN'S SAFEGUARD.

MIXING TOGETHER, THE CHILDREN NEED THE PROTECTION OF ZAM-BUK MEDICINAL SOAP.

Children who mix together in the street, in the playground, and in the classrooms at school, are especially liable to catch some distressing humour of the skin or scalp. In the past mothers have found it very hard to guard against such mishaps, but the advent of Zam-Buk Medicinal Toilet Soap ends the difficulty quite simply and thoroughly.

With the child's skin and scalp made disease-proof by washing or shampooing with Zam-Buk Soap, the most susceptible child is armed so effectively that the bugbear of infection ceases to haunt the mother's mind, and her rosy-cheeked offspring reap untold benefits. Get a tablet from your Chemist, Store, or direct from The Zam-Buk Mfg. Co., Sydney.—Advt.

HOLIDAY RAILWAY ARRANGEMENTS.

The King's Birthday holiday falling on Monday, affords an opportunity for metropolitan residents to spend a couple of days in the country, or country residents to take a trip to the seaside.

The Railway Department has provided a suitable train service, which will meet these requirements.

For those who desire to leave Sydney on the Friday night, the usual week-end trains will be found convenient, while on the Saturday, in addition to the ordinary trains, special trains at cheap fares will leave Sydney at 3.8 p.m. for Wollongong, 1.18 and 6.13 p.m. for Mount Victoria, 1.12 p.m. for Newcastle (1 p.m. from Milson's Point), and 3.5 p.m. for Moss Vale. The 2.28 p.m. ordinary Saturday train, Sydney to Moss Vale, will not run beyond Picton.

Those who can only spare the holiday away will find their requirements met by the Cheap Trains leaving Sydney at 7.20 a.m. for Nowra, 7.8 and 7.38 a.m. for Wollongong, 8 a.m. for Bundanoon, 7.35 a.m. for Gosford, 8.15 a.m. for Newcastle (7.46 a.m. from Milson's Point), 7.50 a.m. and 8.5 a.m. for Mount Victoria, 8.28 a.m. for Eskbank.

For the residents in the country who wish to visit Sydney, cheap trains will leave Orange at 11.20 p.m. on Saturday, and Bathurst at 11 p.m. on Sunday, 10th; from Mount Victoria at 6.15 a.m., Nowra at 4.35 a.m., Goulburn at 4.25 a.m., West Maitland at 5.45 a.m., and Newcastle at 6.30 a.m. on the morning of the holiday.

The usual combined rail and river excursions will be run to the Hawkesbury and Nepean Rivers.

A frequent service of trains will be run to Como, Oatley, Sutherland, and National Park, and to the Rosehill races.

Business people requiring to return to business on Tuesday morning will find their convenience met by the trains leaving Nowra at 4.35 a.m., Goulburn at 4.25 a.m., Gosford at 6.32 a.m., and Mount Victoria at 6.15 a.m. and 6.40 a.m. on the Tuesday morning.

In connection with the goods traffic, the usual arrangements will be made. The goods shed at Alexandria will be closed while the Sydney and Darling Harbour sheds will be open until 10 a.m. for the delivery of perishable traffic only. The goods sheds at other stations will be closed, except for the receipt and delivery of perishables.

THE WANDERING OF A TENT.

A REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.

On the 24th of last month a miner residing in a tent at South Clifton reported to the police that during his temporary absence his tent had been removed from the poles on which it had been fixed. All efforts to trace the missing property were futile, but the police obtained the description of two men who were seen in the vicinity. These men disappeared, leaving no trace behind them. Constable Dwyer, while making further inquiries yesterday, noticed a tent fixed on the poles from which the missing article had been removed. He found that the tent corresponded in every particular with the one stolen. A young man present claimed it as his property. The man who reported the loss recognised it as the tent which had been stolen from him. The other man stated that on Thursday last he left Kurri Kurri to come to South Clifton colliery to work. He bought the tent from two men on Newcastle wharf for 8s. His description of the men corresponds exactly with that given of the men who were seen in the vicinity of the tent at South Clifton. It is a remarkable coincidence that the purchaser of the tent should come direct here and place the tent in its original position.

TWO SIGNALS.

There are two serious signals of kidney ills. The first signal comes from the back with numerous aches and pains. The second signal comes in the kidney secretion; the urine is thin and pale, or too highly coloured, and showing brick dust like deposit. Urination is infrequent, too frequent, or excessive. You should heed these danger signals before the chronic complications set in—Diabetes, Dropsy, Bright's Disease. Take Doan's Backache Kidney Pills and the cure is simple.

Mr. John S. Broadfoot, 46 Elizabeth-street, Sydney, says on 9th May, 1899:—"For many years I suffered from a serious urinary trouble. I underwent an operation at the hospital, and got relief for a time, but the trouble returned. The secretions were partially obstructed, and the pain was intense. To add to my suffering I constantly had backache. But the best part is that Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have cured the urinary trouble and the backache. I will always speak well of this remedy, for I firmly believe in it as a cure for backache and urinary trouble."

On 2nd February, 1907, Mr. Broadfoot confirms the above:—"Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cured me of urinary trouble and backache eight years ago, and the cure still stands firm. I can honestly recommend this remedy to all sufferers."

The kidneys are most important organs of the body, because they filter the blood; then when you don't feel as well as you ought give your kidneys help by taking the great Kidney and bladder remedy—Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. They are sold by all chemists and storekeepers, at 2s 9d per box (six boxes 15s 3d), or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

Remember the name—Doan's.—Advt.

THE BALMORAL TRAM.

A meeting was held on Monday at the Mosman Town Hall under the presidency of the Mayor (Alderman P. Leahy), for the purpose of urging the Government to proceed with the immediate construction of the tramway to Balmoral Beach. The chairman said there was no question that the Mosman trams had paid, and if the Railway Commissioners only acceded to the requests of the council to improve existing trams, and grant an extension to the beach, the success would be beyond anticipation.

Alderman E. Macdonald moved in effect,—"That the Minister for Public Works be urged to extend the tramway system to Balmoral Beach." He was sure that if the Government could only see its way clear to make the extension it would soon be a remunerative one. Such a fine heritage should be made available and accessible to the large number of tourists and others who visited this popular and beautiful place of resort.

Alderman W. H. Smith seconded the motion. He was sure that if private companies controlled the tramway systems the tram to Balmoral would have been constructed years ago.

Mr. Allerdyce suggested that the motion might be amended so as to specify that the route should be via the Military-road.

Alderman Macdonald considered that the route should be left in the hands of the Government, and the residents should not tie the Minister down to any particular route. He was of opinion that the surveyed route would be as suitable as any other suggested.

The Mayor said while other councils had spent ratepayers' money in improving Bondi and Coogee beaches, the Mosman Council had done nothing to improve Balmoral Beach. He thought that the time had arrived when the council could fairly vote a sum annually for the improvement of Balmoral, and make it more attractive.

Messrs. S. Smith, E. M. Haymet, Pigott, Kitchen, J. Gannon, R. Shearer, and S. White also spoke to the motion, and suggested various routes. The motion was carried unanimously, and it was resolved to convey the resolution to the Minister for Works by deputation.

WOMEN'S POLITICAL EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE.

The fifth annual meeting of the Women's Political Educational League was held in the School of Arts on Monday. Miss Rose Scott (president) occupied the chair.

The annual report expressed disappointment at the unfinished work of the last session of Parliament. It was hoped that the present Parliament would do better in this respect.

The result of the local option poll was looked upon with feelings of satisfaction. The report was adopted.

Thanks were tendered to the Premier for introducing a bill to establish a public defender for the poor. It was resolved to ask the Premier to introduce a Girls' Protection Bill; a bill to provide for testators' families; the establishment of an inebriates' asylum, or a hospital, in order to carry out the whole of the provisions of the Inebriates Act; to alter and improve the law in New South Wales relating to the guardianship of children, and bring it into line with the English Custody of Infants Act, and also with the N.Z. Infants' Guardianship and Contracts Act of 1887; to bring in a bill to enforce the registration and inspection of all registry offices; and to establish a crematorium, in accordance with the recommendation of the Board of Health.

It was resolved "That the thanks of this meeting are due to Dr. MacKellar, M.L.C., for introducing a bill to provide for the registration of nurses, and the regulation and inspection of all private hospitals."

RAILWAY INTERLOCKING PICNIC.

The eighteenth annual picnic of the interlocking branch of the New South Wales Railways was held on Monday at Clifton Gardens, and was attended by over 1500 persons. Several steamers ran to the grounds at intervals throughout the day from Fort Macquarie. The general arrangements of the outing were in the hands of a committee, of which Mr. D. Childs was president, Mr. G. Poole secretary, Mr. G. Swinfield treasurer, and these gentlemen were largely assisted by Messrs. J. Bryden, J. Kuss, W. Whitehead, D. O'Loughlin, W. Rolston, and J. Thompson. A programme of sports was gone through, under the supervision of Messrs. W. Dredge and A. Warner (judges), W. Martin (starter), H. Hughes (referee), and M. Donnellan (master of track).

The committee and visitors lunched together in the main pavilion. Mr. D. Childs presided, and amongst the departmental officers present were Mr. C. Wilkie (interlocking engineer), Mr. W. K. Johnson, Mr. Pickles, Mr. W. Roscoe, Mr. D. Jones, Mr. H. Goold, Mr. D. Cotter, Mr. H. G. Henson, and Mr. H. Horgan. The chairman proposed the "Railway Commissioners," which was acknowledged by Mr. Wilkie. Other toasts honoured were "The Day we Celebrate," "The Visitors," and "The Chairman."

BROKEN HILL.

Chas. E. Carlisle, Convent Hill, Sulphide-street, Broken Hill, N.S.W., writes:—"I make state that I and members of my family have used several bottles of Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery, and have found it an invaluable remedy for Coughs and Colds."

Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds, and Consumption is an unequalled preparation for all Chest Complaints, and Lung Troubles.—Advt.

THE PUBLICATION OF THE YEAR.

THE SYDNEY MAIL ANNUAL,

NOW ON SALE.

AT ALL NEWS AGENTS. PRICE, ONE SHILLING.

THE RICHMOND RIVER EXPRESS SAYS:—

"The 'Sydney Mail' generally turns out good work, but an advance copy of THE 'SYDNEY MAIL' ANNUAL for 1907 excels all previous efforts. The illustrations descriptive of Australian life and scenery are veritable works of art, especially the colour views of a well-known waterfall in the New England district, and cattle mustering at Mount Kosciusko, 7308 feet above sea level. The letterpress is entertaining. Altogether the publication is a distinct advance upon anything of the kind yet attempted in New South Wales, and the proprietors ought to be able to dispose of thousands of copies to send as souvenirs to friends in distant countries, many of whom have little conception of what Australia really is."

COPIES POSTED IN SYDNEY UP TILL 2 O'CLOCK NEXT TUESDAY AFTERNOON WILL REACH FRIENDS IN ENGLAND ON DECEMBER 14.

MELBOURNE CUP MEETING.

SPLENDID DERBY DAY PICTURES.

PORTRAIT OF THE CUP WINNER AND PLACED HORSES—FINISH OF THE DERBY AND OTHER RACES—BEAUTIFUL LAWN PICTURES—OTHER NOTABLE FEATURES.

The SYDNEY MAIL this week has a splendid array of pictures illustrating the Cup Meeting at Flemington. Our Special Photographer sent over an excellent budget on Derby Day, including a capital picture of the finish of the race for the blue ribbon. The double page is occupied by a print from one of the best negatives ever made at Flemington. It is difficult to find a new point to place a camera, but this picture is unique, inasmuch as it shows not only the lawns, but the grand stands—a grand, comprehensive view. Next week we will be able to complete the series of illustrations of the Cup Meeting. Meanwhile, it will be conceded that our illustrations of Derby Day are extremely good. It is a "horsey" number, and the portraits of the greatest group of racehorses in Australia cannot fail to interest not only close followers of the sport, but all others who appreciate the beauty of a good horse. "Milroy" sends an absorbingly interesting letter and a description of the race.

There is much that is good in the issue apart from the Derby Day Pictures, and the portraits of the principal horses engaged in the Cup. Newcastle and Orange Eight-hour Days are illustrated. Our political series is continued with a large portrait of Mr. Waddell, the State Treasurer; there is a page of great interest to trotting sportsmen; the Bathurst British and New Zealand rifle match finds inclusion; and the Women's Page has two pictures of prize wood-carving exhibited in Melbourne. On the reading pages "Thormanby's" English Sporting Anecdotes, and Mr. E. Morey's Australian Pioneering Reminiscences, are sparkling contributions.

OUR ILLUSTRATED SECTION.

MOUNTAIN KING'S WIN.—A picture showing the desperate finish for the blue ribbon of the Victorian turf on Saturday last.
MOOLTAN AND MOUNTAIN KING.—Excellent portraits of the second and third to finish in the Cup race. There are also pictures of Tartan and Dyed Garments, Welcome Trist and Bendigo.
NUCIFERA'S WIN.—The finish for the Maiden Plate.
MOTHER GOOSE BEATS BORODINO.—An excellent snapshot of the finish for the Maribyrnong Plate.
OUR POLITICAL SERIES.—A large portrait of the Hon. T. Waddell, State Treasurer.
YACHTING, No. II.—Ford-Hand continues his brightly-written series on yachting in Sydney Harbour. It is well illustrated.
TROTTING STUD DISPERSAL.—A page of pictures of interest to many sportsmen.
GREAT RIFLE MATCH.—Group portrait of the competitors in the recent triangular match at Bathurst.
WOMEN'S EXHIBITION.—An illustrated article by "Vandorian."
PICTURESQUE QUEENSLAND.—A page of delightful views.
NEWCASTLE AND ORANGE.—A page is devoted to illustrating the Eight-hours Day processions and sports at these centres.

OTHER FEATURES.

Pastoralists will be interested in the subject of dual farming. "Lana" discusses this question at some length, and shows that wool and wheat may be profitably cultivated on the one holding. Notes from many sources will aid both the experienced sheep-farmer and others who have recently gone on the land to a better appreciation of their work, and possibly enable some to avoid pitfalls.

The Agricultural pages are of marked variety. In addition to the important subject of wheat and the crops generally, notes from the Commonwealth States will give our local farmers food for thought. "Moira" deals with Guernsey cattle in a practical way. The vegetable and flower garden and hothouse have received their usual careful attention.

On the Australian Short Story Page: "The Station Homestead," by Howard Doriemal, and several poems. On the Young Folk's Page:—"Achieving Valour," by Lilian Turner; also several poems.

The series of interesting reminiscences by "Thormanby," the famous English writer, is continued. "The Humours of Tommy Coleman," and "The Record of Captain Becher" are the subjects dealt with this week.

Mr. Edmund Morey's Australian pioneering reminiscences are continued.

There are Football Notes on the New Zealanders in England; Cricket News, by "Shortslip," relating to the Englishmen now in South Australia; also Australian first-grade matches, a table showing Saturday's best performances with bat and ball in the various States; Bowls, Tennis, and Billiard Notes; Golf Gossip; Dramatic and Musical Notes; Poultry and Kennel News; Stock Exchange News; Rifle, Rowing, and Swimming Notes; Literary Gossip; and City, Country, Interstate, and Foreign News.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1907.

REFORM AND AGRICULTURE.

The Premier moved the second reading of the bill creating a new Department of Agriculture last night in a short speech, which practically committed the Government to nothing on the question of cost. It is to be a matter for Parliament. Apparently Ministers are quite prepared to allow members in the Lower House to say whether a new salary shall be provided, and the Upper House will, as a matter of course, pass the requisite appropriation. It would be an unnecessary interference with the prerogative of the popular Chamber if the Legislative Council essayed to teach it what reform meant; and if the representatives of the people decided that the cost of government must be increased that would be the end of it. Now the clear issue before the country at the last two general elections was that reform must take precedence of everything. The late Premier recognised this in all his speeches. At the elections which returned him to power he never ceased to proclaim the need for strenuous economy, and during his three years of office he continually insisted that he was keeping his pledges. One of his admissions, as the second appeal to the country became imminent, was the need for redistributing the portfolios; and it was always understood that such redistribution would not, and should not, involve additional expense. Mr. Wade does not now seem quite to see his way. It is true that he does not repudiate the pledges of his predecessor, but he gives no lead; and reform on such showing may as well be dismissed as an obsolete plank in the Liberal platform.

Just what is involved may be seen at once in the speech of Mr. Nielsen, who followed the Premier last night, and who wasted no time in declaring that the cost of government was not excessive, offering in effect an open road to any increase that the Government might desire. This is, of course, the Labour policy. Everyone seems to be agreed that a Department of Agriculture on modern lines is necessary. It would be foolish to argue that such a department, properly controlled and staffed, would be a piece of extravagance even if two extra Ministerial salaries had to be provided. That is to say, the cost of a real live Department of Agriculture would be saved over and over again in the added efficiency it would secure in farming and other operations throughout the country. But it certainly would be extravagant to make the country pay for another Minister if a rearrangement of portfolios could be effected without reducing the general efficiency of the Ministry. This is precisely the point at the present moment. There has been a steady reduction in the number and weight of the responsibilities attaching to the portfolio of Chief Secretary. One department after another has been taken away—and the extension of local government may be given in illustration—until little is left. Mr. Carruthers has prepared the way for the new department by this handling of a reform problem, and Mr. Wade should have no difficulty in accepting the results now in evidence.

NEW PROTECTION.

The English papers, having received details of the new protection scheme, criticise it much on the lines laid down by observers in Australia, but with an added bitterness. We here knew what we were to expect from the eloquent speeches about preference with which the Prime Minister clothed his "scientific protectionist" designs, but the people in England thought that the next alteration of the Australian tariff would be on the lines of the Canadian in regard to British trade. The alteration was proposed sooner than was expected, and the disappointment in Great Britain was great in proportion to the hopes that had been raised. It is not surprising if such papers as the London "Times," which so easily persuaded itself that preference of a substantial character was to be conceded by strong protectionists, are inclined to regard Australia as a somewhat perfidious unit of the Empire, and to impart into comments on the new protection some of the resentment which they feel over the betrayal of their hopes in regard to the promised preference. Whilst one paper makes merry about Australia as being "so mentally disciplined and morally chastened as to cheerfully accept an earthly providence" in the guise of the new protection administered by an Excise Board, another bluntly calls Sir William Lyne's attempt to enact the ideas of State socialism as "a peculiarly Australian combination of false paternalism and bad economics." It is hard that Australia should get a bad name because Mr. Deakin promised more than he could perform, or because Sir William Lyne is in a position where he is able to deal with the Labour party.

Of course, it is true that the Labour party is behind the new protection. The manufacturer does not want the new protection; he would much prefer to receive all the benefits which the high tariff secures him at the expense of the consumer. But, under the new protection, he will have to share the spoils with the men he employs. He will naturally pass this on to the consumer, but that small section of the public which is engaged in his manufactory will have ostensibly a share in the plunder. For the Excise Board, empowered and directed to examine his books, will see to it that no manufacturer who does not comply with the labour schedule shall share in the blessings of the tariff. We do not know how this board will be manned, but the rumour that Mr. Watson was to be appointed chairman shows what is expected to be its composition; and, indeed, it is but reasonable to fear that the members of such a board, appointed by a Government which is under the whip of the Labour party, will be mainly labour in sympathies. The underlying theory of the new scheme, as the "Daily News" detects, is not the prevention of sweating, but the enhancement of protection in the eyes of the workers. The worker feels the pinch of the high tariff, and he observes that, whilst it must benefit the manufacturer, he is left out in the cold. No, say the new protectionists, your wages will be increased; and this pleasing consideration commends the tariff to him. He is apt, however, to forget the real position. He will, possibly, get the benefits of the new protection as a worker; but as a consumer he will assuredly feel the effects of the high tariff and of the new protection enjoyed by fellow-workers employed in other walks of life. Thus the artisan engaged in a furniture factory will only get the benefit of the new protection in that one capacity, whilst in his multiform capacity of consumer of many things he will have to pay for the new protection promised to the persons employed in their production. It all falls on the consumer, and the workers who form so large a part of the community will find that the heavy additional cost of living which a high tariff means is but poorly set off by the vaunted benefits of the new protection.

AMERICAN MONEY FAMINE.

Our cables this morning give a better outlook upon the financial position in America. We are told that there was a strong tone in Wall-street at the close of yesterday's business, and prices were maintained well above the London level. Matters are thus declared to be more hopeful, and President Roosevelt under the circumstances will not call an extra session of Congress. But there are indications that the money famine has not yet abated. Americans do not seem to have been reassured, and are still demanding gold when asked to accept the clearing house certificates. It may be explained that the examination of the position of banks as part of the clearing house system in America has been extended, and the "Bankers' Magazine" notes that "it promises to become an important means of improving banking conditions throughout the country." In a recent address before the convention of the Washington State Bankers' Association it was shown how expert examiners had been testing the financial soundness of various institutions in Chicago and Minneapolis, and the comment was made that "every thief and crook is a coward, and they won't stay around when they know someone in authority is looking for them with the 'big stick.'" Recent cablegrams have shown, however, that banks and trusts in good order have been examined by the clearing houses of which they are members, to obtain certificates of soundness; and the "big stick" is thus being used for purposes of legitimate defence. But Americans seem to have grown nervous, and the demand for gold is so insistent that the rest of the world has been obliged to hurry it across the seas in aid with consequent restriction and a rise in bank rates.

The special point of interest for Australia is the possibility of further demands for gold by America, and our probable relation thereto. It may be noted, in the first place, that the Canadian financial position is largely bound up with that of the States. The Canadian banks as a rule keep till money only, allowing New York to hold their gold at short call, and so making it productive. Should Canada want to strengthen her position the difficulties further south will increase. So it may be argued that Australian millions in London may have to be withdrawn, and difficulty would be added to difficulty. But this is a contingency hardly needing discussion. If gold were wanted in Australia our banks would find it much easier to stop exporting the precious metal, and there would soon be enough for all needs. We produce it to the value of more than a million sterling per month, and are in a position of special advantage in other ways. As a matter of fact, our bankers are holding more gold than they usually do, because the wool clip has to be financed, and they are so well seized of the whole facts that no unnecessary risks will be taken. Then so far as America is concerned it seems certain that the actual position is sound enough. There is a money famine, but the people generally were never so prosperous. We do not hear now as we did in 1893 of a farming community driven nearly desperate with heavy mortgage commitments. The farmers have been making money steadily for a decade, the railroads have been unable to carry all their produce to market, and freetrade throughout the greater part of a continent has made progress a marvellous and very satisfying reality. When the speculators have been driven out for a season confidence will be restored, and the efforts now being made to increase the flow of money will prove sufficient and be successful.

NEW CALEDONIA.

The movement for the repatriation of convicts in New Caledonia, of which we were advised from Noumea yesterday, is described as suggesting the beginning of the end. We have been led to believe that the colonists in that French possession look on convictism as almost essential to its effective occupation. There appears to be only one alternative, and that is substantial Government assistance from home to the nickel and mining industry generally, and the hope that British capital may be forthcoming. In the absence of both New Caledonia may be left for the exploitation of other capitalists, and already, as we have seen, there has been talk in Paris of parting with this possession for a consideration. Both New Caledonia and Tahiti are regarded as counters of exchange, said a Noumea paper from which we quoted recently, and the question seems only to be how to make the best bargain. So far as Australian feeling is concerned, the breaking-up of the convict settlement and system in New Caledonia cannot be regarded as otherwise than satisfactory. During a long series of years we have been entering protests against the danger to the Australian population created by this establishment within easy reach of our shores. The escaped recidivistes have required careful watching, and at the best it is not productive of a pleasant feeling to know that a group of islands off our coast is the dumping-place of the worst and most desperate class of French criminals. At present there are over 3000 in the islands, and the Australian community will learn with distinct relief of their being sent to French Guiana or anywhere else out of Pacific waters.

But the larger question that now suggests itself is one as to what is to become of French rule in the Pacific. At New Caledonia and Tahiti it is firmly established, and its grasp is growing stronger on the New Hebrides. Is there any connection between the present withdrawal of convicts from New Caledonia and the fact that as far back as 1886 France offered to send no more convicts there if she might be allowed without interference or objection to annex the New Hebrides? That request was refused, but since then mention of this group has been included in the Franco-British Agreement, and there is a well-grounded fear in Australian trading circles that we shall be shut out from these coveted islands presently. When in the early years of the present century French influence was actively at work again for the acquisition of the islands the evidences were that the British Government would have proved complaisant enough had the Federal opinion of this Commonwealth not made itself heard in stout protest. Since then the progress of events has been persistent though unsteady, and the tendency has been towards the establishment of French influence. To us as Australians the interesting fact is that matters are apparently in a state of flux and change in the Pacific, and the time is opportune for asserting our influence.

ENGLISH MUNICIPAL POLICY.

We are able to gather some valuable conclusions from the municipal elections in England and Wales last Saturday, though it would be misleading to reason too narrowly from municipal to political deductions on data of this kind. The municipal voter is not by any means identical with the holder of the political franchise. If that were the case the Unionist victory, totalling upwards of 135 seats, mostly in boroughs which returned Liberal members of Parliament at the last election, would be as a knell of doom in the ears of the Liberal Government. But we cannot draw conclusions on those lines. Another feature of the result is the set-back which the aggressive socialists have received. On October 21 it was cabled that the Independent Labour party was prepared to put 1200 socialist candidates in the field for these municipal elections. Whether that menace was carried out or not, the fact remains that the returns show the socialist candidates to have won only five seats, while four were ousted, and 27 new candidates severely defeated. There is no mistaking the meaning of this. Following on the verdict of London in the County Council elections in March last it is full of significance. On that occasion London rose in protest like a mammoth whose patience had been exhausted against the policy of the Progressives, which it took to be another name for the Socialist party. Organising under the designation of municipal reformers, it put forward 118 candidates, or one for every seat, out of whom 80 were elected. In the previous County Council only 32 members holding these views had sat during the previous three years, against 83 Progressives, of whom at the March election 49 were summarily dismissed.

When the municipal reformers in London organised against the domination of the Progressives the argument they used was that the policy of the latter was driving trade away from London and striking at the wage-paying and employment-giving classes. They complained of the high taxation rates, and Mr. John Burns countered this argument by alleging that the rates would not have altered much if it had not been for Mr. Balfour's charge of 3½d for education. But the vote of the ratepayers made short work of the contention. They returned one Independent and three Socialists or Labour nominees, while the controlling power in the new County Council went overwhelmingly to the municipal reformers. Now the country's verdict has confirmed London's decision. Against the Liberals' 22 seats, Labour 22, Independent 4, and Socialists 4, the Unionists score their majority of 135. That result must have a certain cautionary effect even in political circles, which can never afford to ignore any hint or suggestion of this nature. But more especially is it valuable as evidencing the trend of taxpayers' opinion on matters in which they are primarily interested. They appear to have had enough of experiments. It would be easy enough for a flourishing municipality to borrow money to carry out works, services, and improvements, and even to pay interest on such sums, if all concerned were satisfied that the system could be profitably carried on. But the experiences of the local councils prove otherwise, and the menace of socialism is already beginning to scare the public from rash experiments. One day we shall have the same awakening here, and then the reaction will come.

The "Sydney Mail."—The special photographer of the "Sydney Mail" was successful in securing a set of capital pictures at Flemington on Saturday, and these are published in the current issue of the popular weekly. Included among them are snapshots of the finishes in the Derby, the Hotham Handicap, Maiden Plate, and Maribyrnong Plate, and many illustrations of the crowds on lawns and grand stands. There are, in addition, large pictures of Mountain King, winner of the Derby, Apologue (who won the Melbourne Cup yesterday), Poseidon, Welcome Trist, Bendigo, Tartan, Dyed Garments, and Mooltan. The "double page" gives a capital idea of Flemington on Cup Day. "Milroy" contributes an exceedingly interesting budget concerning the racing in Melbourne, and many entertaining reminiscences. But, while the "Mail" gives much prominence to the Melbourne carnival, it has many other attractive features. A large "speaking" portrait of the Hon. T. Waddell, State Treasurer, is published. The series of illustrated articles by "Ford Hand" on "Yachting in Sydney Harbour, Past and Present," is continued, the picture of a yachting group in 1885 being of special interest. A page is devoted to beauty spots in "Picturesque Queensland." The Eight-hours Day demonstrations at Newcastle and Orange are pictorially dealt with; a group photograph shows the teams which competed in the triangular rifle meeting at Bathurst; and a page in connection with the Waratah Trotting Stud at Dubbo will interest horse lovers. The vice-regal garden party at Melbourne is also illustrated, and there are pictures of some of the prizes in carving at the Women's Exhibition. A brightly-written account of "Henley-on-Yarra" is printed, and among other special articles are a further instalment of "Thormanby's" reminiscences, and the second chapter of Mr. Edmund Morey's experiences in the early days of Sydney.

Legislative Council.—The only business on the paper of the Legislative Council for this afternoon is a motion by Mr. Dick to refer the Barrier Tramway Bill to a select committee. It is probable, however, that the Poor Prisoners' Defence Bill will come up from the Assembly, in which event the measure will be taken to the formal stage of first reading. The second reading may be moved to-morrow, and on that day the House will discuss the Nurses and Private Hospitals Bill, which is in Dr. Mackellar's charge.

Canberra Water Supply.—Some weeks ago the report of Mr. de Burgh, acting chief engineer for rivers, water supply, and drainage, on the water supply facilities at Canberra, Federal capital site in the Queanbeyan district, was published. Mr. de Burgh based his calculations as to the capacity of the Cotter River on estimates, no figures as the result of actual observation being available. Since the submission of the report instructions have been given by the Minister for Public Works for the gauging of discharge of the Cotter River at the proposed storage site to be carried out periodically during the ensuing summer. An arrangement is also being made for the establishment of a river gauge for the purpose of recording the river levels, and the appointment of a gauge reader to keep the necessary records.

Elections and Qualifications Committee.—A preliminary meeting of the Elections and Qualifications Committee was held at Parliament House yesterday. Mr. D. Levy was appointed chairman, and it was decided to meet at half-past 10 this morning, and open the inquiry concerning alleged irregularities in connection with the election of a member for Hartley.

Returned Soldiers Pay.—Some days ago Mr. Hollis asked a series of questions in the Legislative Assembly concerning the granting of Imperial and colonial pay to officers and men of the A Battery who went to South Africa. A return laid on the table of the House last night showed that 159 members of A Battery received both pays. The concession was granted only in cases where the claimants satisfied the Royal Commissioner that they were promised, and expected, before they left for South Africa, to receive Imperial and colonial pay. In all 502 claimants were so paid, the extra sum involved being £278,5—.

Insanitary Federal Parliament House.—One of the worst ventilated buildings in the Commonwealth is the Federal Parliament House, situated in the heart of Melbourne; and not only is the building badly ventilated, but the sanitation generally is in a deplorable condition. The necessity for something being done in the direction of making improvements has been impressed upon the State Government of Victoria, which has given definite instructions to radically alter existing conditions. Although the Parliament Buildings are practically in the centre of Melbourne, they have never been connected with the sewer, and they have no proper system of drainage. The cost of improvements in the ventilation alone will run into about £1200, while the sewerage works necessary will, it is estimated, cost £3800. It is proposed to wait until the recess before putting down the sewer. The Commonwealth Government has agreed to pay the State Government of Victoria 5 per cent. per annum interest on the outlay. It would have been very much cheaper and better to have provided for proper ventilation, and also laid down pipes for future sewerage connections, at the time the buildings were in course of erection.

Unexpended Civic Balances.—The works committee of the City Council yesterday considered the Lord Mayor's minute, with the city surveyor's recommendation attached thereto, in regard to the unexpended balances for the year. Mr. Gordon gave a list of works which he considered urgent, but the committee reduced them considerably. The committee recommended the carrying out of the following:—Storm-water drain, Surry Hills, £1200; reforming St. Mary's-road, £500; parks' footways, £500; Argyle-street, cube sets, £600; city footways, £1000; and Flinders-street, £200. The items postponed were:—Trachyte kerbing, £2000; Randwick-road, £3000; Moore Park drainage, £300; Moore Park-road, £200; tar-coating streets, £1000; Dowling-street, sheeting and gutter, £1000; William-street, cubes, £1000; Kippax Lake, £500; making roads, etc., Centennial Park lands, £5000. Alderman Allen Taylor said it had always been the custom to bring forward to the new year any balances left through works being incompleted, and it was unprecedented that at the close of the year sums should be allocated. Instead of the course proposed in this case being adopted, either the rates should be reduced, or the surplus added to a reserve fund, to be available in case of emergency.

Public Schools' Vacation and the Test Match.—At the last meeting of the P.S.A.A.A. it was pointed out that the first test match in Sydney was commencing on December 13. The week ending December 20 is the last school week of the present year. Teachers and pupils alike would be glad of the opportunity of seeing the test match, not merely for an hour or two each day, but throughout. It was therefore proposed that Messrs. Willis and Broome, of the P.S.A.A.A. council, lay the question of altering the date of Christmas vacation before Mr. Board, Under-Secretary for Education, so that schools might break up on December 13, and resume a week earlier in January. The matter is still under consideration.

Delinquent Orchardists.—Some fruitgrowers in the county of Cumberland are not accepting with a good grace the obligations imposed upon them by the Fruit Pests Act and its regulations. In one instance the resistance of an orchardist was so pronounced that the department determined to make an example of him. He would not gather up the "windfalls." The inspectors and the Act could go hang; the fruit and the orchard belonged to him, and he would manage his own affairs as he considered best. The officers endeavoured to point out the error of his ways, but their efforts had no better result than to increase the delinquent's anger. At last, to demonstrate the power of the law, the inspector put in an appearance with half a dozen workmen, and the gathering of the fallen fruit proceeded, at the expense of the orchardist. Still he declined to admit his obligations. The men worked on, and as the wages account grew, the orchardist began to reflect. At last he softened, and, calling in some of his own employees, joined with the Government gang in gathering the fruit. The experience is likely to prove profitable to the orchardist, for he will most likely keep his garden clear of windfalls in future at a much smaller expense than the work can be done by a gang of men brought along by the inspector.

Wire Netting.—The first contract entered into by the Government with an English syndicate for the supply of 4000 miles of rabbit-proof wire netting has now been practically exhausted. Only about 150 miles of the order have yet to be received, and that will arrive during this week in the steamers Suffolk and Buteshire. The orders in hand are sufficient to absorb the two shipments. Recently the Government placed an order with an English firm for the supply of an additional 1000 miles, to be delivered within six months.

Reasonable and Probable Cause.—The Full Court yesterday set aside the verdict found for plaintiff in the action Barker v Smith and others. The defendants were, at the time the action was commenced aldermen of the municipal district of Liverpool, and were sued for malicious prosecution in instituting proceedings against plaintiff for having, as they alleged, falsely sworn that he was the owner of certain land. The jury gave him a verdict of £325 damages; but the Full Court directed that finding to be set aside, and a verdict entered for the defendants. The ground of the decision was that there was no evidence to show that the defendants acted without reasonable and probable cause in authorising the proceedings complained of. In the course of his judgment, Mr. Justice Simpson said it was desirable, in the public interest, that it should be known that persons who honestly and in good faith and without malice, and having reasonable and probable cause for so doing, put the law in motion against people who were believed to have committed offences, deserved every consideration, and it was not in the public interest that actions for malicious prosecution should be brought against them.

Expulsion from Parliament.—Writing with reference to the suspension of the member for Camperdown in the Legislative Assembly last Thursday night, Mr. Holman, M.L.A., contends that Mr. Stuart-Robertson, after waiting for five hours for an opportunity to move a fair amendment, was twice defeated, in spite of strict compliance with Parliamentary forms and the chairman's directions. Mr. Holman admits that no blame attached to the chairman in the matter, but adds that it is no part of the chairman's duty to encourage sharp practice, nor assist even passively in an effort to deprive members of the opportunity to move new clauses. The heated remarks made by Mr. Stuart-Robertson might have been looked upon with a very lenient eye, Mr. Holman thinks, when the amount of provocation he received was considered.

Parramatta Trains.—"Distant Suburbs," writing with reference to the summer time-table, complains that the alterations in the morning and evening trains to and from Parramatta are not an improvement on the old service. At the department it was ascertained that the officials are watching the loading of all trains, and are prepared to remedy any defects that may be discovered. Passengers who have complaints to make should refer the matter to the railway traffic manager, pointing out any weaknesses in the time-table.

Gold Yield.—The usual return furnished by the Under-Secretary for Mines shows that the gold yield recorded for the State for October is 24,075oz crude, equal to 21,666oz fine, valued at £92,034, as compared with 40,723oz crude, equal to 33,908oz fine, valued at £144,031, for the same month in 1906. The yield for the 10 months is 239,382oz crude, equal to 204,140oz fine, valued at £867,121, as compared with 275,721oz crude, equal to 229,793oz fine, valued at £976,097 for the same period in 1906, thus showing a decrease of 25,653oz fine and £108,966 in value.

Jolly in Gaol.—Dr. Taylor, Government Medical Officer, giving evidence in the Quarter Sessions yesterday, said an accused Frenchman, named Louis Crosnier, "became depressed when he got into gaol." The man was an old offender, with convictions totalling 12 years' imprisonment, but Judge Rogers did not know of this at the time. His Honor therefore asked if most people were not depressed upon getting into gaol? The doctor replied: "Oh no, your Honor." "Would people caught at housebreaking, for instance, be depressed?" further inquired the Judge. "Not necessarily. Some people are jolly enough in gaol," rejoined the Government officer." The prisoner informed the Court that he was a victim of drink, and did not know at times whether he was doing right or wrong. He suggested that the best thing for him was to finish his days inside walls. He was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for breaking and entering, but the Judge ordered that the doctor's report should be sent along to the Governor of Bathurst Gaol.

Quirindi Murder.—The State Executive at its meeting yesterday approved of the recommendation of the Cabinet that the law should be allowed to take its course in the case of the young man, George Toffts, convicted at Tamworth on October, and sentenced to death for the murder of Maud Fletcher at Quirindi on July 29. The execution will probably take place at Tamworth Gaol about three weeks hence.

Whales on the Coast.—Yesterday morning a large school of whales was sighted by the signalmaster at South Head coming up the coast. Early in the afternoon the whales passed the Heads, being about four miles off, and when last seen they were still going northwards.

A Cape Horn Tragedy.—Details of terrible sufferings undergone by the crew of the American barque Prussia were available upon the arrival at Plymouth of the White Star liner Oceanic from New York. As the liner was about leaving the latter port there were landed there six members of the crew of the American barque Prussia, who had been cast away on a lonely island at the extreme south of South America for weeks (states the London "Shipping Gazette") and reduced by hunger to the necessity of chewing sealskins to keep themselves alive. The seamen owe their lives to the ingenuity of the ship's carpenter—Carl Stark, a Norseman—who constructed a little sloop, and with two others undertook in it a venturesome voyage for succour. The distance to New Year's Island was about 100 miles by boat, as they had to skirt the shore, running in and out along the coastline, but they made the voyage successfully. It was just one week later when a whaleboat, under command of Lieutenant Delgado, and manned by five volunteer lifesavers, rounded the point of rocks and was spied by the castaways. Their troubles, however, were not at an end. The rescue boat had met adverse winds, and took five days to make the trip. The store of provisions the rescuers were bringing for the men of the Prussia was more than half consumed. Then a gale sprang up, and it was six days later before the whaleboat could be launched and the start made. In the interval all the food brought by the rescue party was consumed, and on the way back to the meteorological station all had to eat limpets.

The Victoria College, Wellington, New Zealand, invite applications for the position of Dean of the Faculty of Law at £800 a year.

Mrs. A. H. Henderson advocates the establishment of a home for stray dogs, together with a lethal chamber, where, after a reasonable period of detention, the unclaimed animals might be destroyed. The correspondent declares that the absence of such an institution is a disgrace to the people.

Mr. A. E. Stuart, writing from Wentworth Falls, complains that the Saturday railway service to the mountains is not now so convenient as formerly, and he urges the reintroduction of the 1.10 p.m. train from Sydney. It is understood that the alteration made by running the train at 2.25 was introduced to meet the convenience of a large number of persons who do not cease work till 1 o'clock on Saturday.

According to a correspondent signing himself "Ashfield," the first train from the main suburban line, which reaches Sydney at 5.40 a.m. daily, arrives too late to enable workmen to travel to Miller's Point or Woolloomooloo Bay in time to start work at 6 a.m. He suggests that it should be timed to arrive at 5.35, to give waterside workers an opportunity of catching a tram to Miller's Point, which passes the railway station at 5.39 a.m. It is, however, believed in official circles that the train run as at present meets the convenience of a great majority of the travellers, and the alteration suggested would make it too early. It is also pointed out that trams leave the railway for Circular Quay at 5.40 and 5.45 a.m.

The following candidates have passed the examinations mentioned hereunder. The names are arranged in order of merit:—Legal history: H. W. Baum, W. E. Matthews, C. F. Giugni, E. North Ash, F. W. G. IN PARLIAMENT.

An attempt was made in the Legislative Assembly yesterday to discuss the extent to which ratepayers are disfranchised by the Local Government Act. Mr. Dacey, who moved the adjournment, said the present Mayor of Ashfield and three of the aldermen found themselves disfranchised by reason of the fact "that they resided in houses owned by their wives." The Minister for Works interposed with a point of order that Mr. Dacey could not proceed, inasmuch as the whole Local Government Act was subject to review in the debate on the budget speech. The point of order was upheld. Mr. Griffith thereupon moved that a second motion for adjournment be taken, but this proposal was rejected on division by 35 to 20.

Mr. Fitzpatrick moved the second reading of the Testator's Family Maintenance Bill, urging that from time to time the just rights of members of a family were trampled on in the making of a will. Mr. Price moved that the bill be referred to a select committee, and Mr. Mahony and Mr. Norton condemned the measure as one that would do far more harm than good. Mr. Norton concluded his speech at the tea adjournment, and the time set apart for private members' business having thus been exhausted, the debate stands over for a week.

There was a free discussion on the second reading of the Department of Agriculture Bill. Sixteen members took part in the debate, and expressed approval of the proposal to place the agricultural industry under the direct care of a responsible Minister. Mr. Nielsen, who by his own admission has no sympathy with the cry for economy in the administration of public affairs, hoped that nothing more would be heard of the proposed abolition of the portfolio of Chief Secretary, and Mr. David Storey expressed the view that Ministers should receive adequate salaries, and not waste their time on matters of detail. A warning note was sounded by Mr. G. Miller, who pointed out that the Department of Agriculture, as proposed, "would cost not £10,000, or £20,000, but hundreds of thousands of pounds per annum," and in support of this opinion he reminded the House that the Lands Department last year cost £325,000, and the Mines Department £157,000. He was not opposed to the proposed new department, but savings should be effected by cutting out one of the existing portfolios. The second reading was agreed to, and the bill passed through committee without amendment. The House adjourned at ten minutes past 11 till four o'clock this afternoon.

PERSONAL.

The fact that the State Chief Justice (Sir Frederick Darley) left the Full Court bench somewhat hurriedly on Monday afternoon appears to have given rise to unfounded apprehension that his Honor was seriously ill. The fact is that he was affected by a chill which caused some temporary pain. Dr. Fiaschi, his Honor's medical adviser, has recommended Sir Frederick to rest for a day or two, and it is hoped he will by that time have regained his normal state of health. Yesterday afternoon he was much easier.

Mr. Meyer Blashki, formerly a student of the National Gallery, Melbourne, is at present one of the most successful artists in New York, where he has been working for the last eight years, and last month one of his pictures was purchased by the Worcester Museum of Massachusetts, which possesses one of the finest collections in the United States.

Professor Sale, Professor of Classics at the University of Otago (writes our New Zealand correspondent under date, November 1), has just completed a long career of usefulness. It is 37 years since he first joined the University, and he is now retiring, owing to failing health, and will leave shortly for England, accompanied by Mrs. Sale. On Wednesday there was a notable gathering in the southern city, when Professor Sale was presented with a handsome silver salver and a purse of sovereigns in recognition of his long tenure of office, and his valuable services to the cause of higher education.

Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. Rupert Carington, C.V.O., D.S.O., and Captain C. H. Brand, I.S., left by last night's northern mail for Tenterfield to attend the military tournament there to-day.

Dr. Percival R. Cole, M.A., Sydney, opened his course of lectures on the history of education at Columbia University, N.Y., with about 200 in the undergraduate and over 60 in the past graduate class. Dr. Cole is in charge of the department, in the absence of Dr. Monroe.

The citizens of Yass and district on Monday night entertained Mr. N. R. Nielsen, M.L.A., the member for Yass, at a complimentary banquet in honour of his return as the representative of the electorate. Councillor J. Cusack occupied the chair. Messrs. M'Gowen, M'Garry, and Burgess, Ms.L.A., were present.

The death of Mr. M. H. Bowmaker was referred to at the meeting of the New South Wales Alliance Council on Monday, and it was resolved to place on record the Alliance's sense of the loss the cause of temperance had sustained by the removal of one of its oldest and most efficient workers. For over 40 years Mr. Bowmaker was identified with temperance organisations, in which he proved a valuable and successful champion.

At the opening of the police court at Cooma on Monday, Mr. F. H. Galbraith, police magistrate, on behalf of the police officers of the Cooma district, presented Sub-Inspector Travers with a gold-mounted malacca cane walking-stick, on the eve of his departure from Cooma and retirement from the service after 35 years' service.

WHO'S WHO?

MIXED MARITAL RELATIONS.

COURT BEATEN.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Nov. 1.

A contractor named Charles Enticott petitioned to have his marriage with Christina Enticott (formerly Christina George) annulled, on the ground that at the time of their marriage she was already the wife of Ernest Francis Raston.

The respondent denied that she was lawfully married to Raston, inasmuch as when she went through the ceremony with him, in July, 1902, he was already the lawful husband of Minnie Henrietta James, to whom he was married in Adelaide in 1875. Minnie Henrietta James (or Mrs. Raston, as the case may be) was living at the time of the marriage of Christina George to Raston, and had since proceeded against her husband (if Raston is her husband) on a charge of bigamy. Miss George (or Mrs. Raston, or Mrs. Enticott, as the case may be) further stated in her reply that when she became Mrs. Enticott (if she is Mrs. Enticott, and not Mrs. Raston or Miss George) she was unaware of the existence of her predecessor in the affections of Raston—that is, the aforesaid Henrietta James (or Mrs. Raston). However, Miss George (or Mrs. Raston) told Enticott at the time she consented to share his name that she had "gone through the form of marriage" with Raston, and now claimed that the fact that her marriage with Raston being null and void by reason of the existence of the former Mrs. Raston, made her—that is, the lady who at one time was Miss Christina George, and subsequently Mrs. Raston—now really and truly and lawfully Mrs. Enticott.

When counsel for Enticott inspected the evidence on behalf of Miss George, or Mrs. Raston, or Mrs. Enticott, he told Mr. Justice Cooper he could not see his way to proceed, and asked permission to withdraw the petition.

After a little argument, his Honor dismissed the petition, on the ground that no evidence had been adduced to support it. But now the questions seem to arise: Is Raston married or single? If the former, who is his wife, or how many wives has he? Also, who is Christina George's husband? Also, has Enticott a wife? And, in any case, who's who?

COLD KILLS SHEEP.

HEAVY LOSSES AT BATHURST.

BATHURST, Tuesday.

In consequence of the heavy rain on Sunday and cold weather since, several sheepowners at Bathurst have suffered severe losses. Of sheep shorn late last week, one owner lost between 300 and 400. All signs of rain have passed away, and the weather has turned extremely cold.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

While the attention of all Melbourne was concentrated on Flemington this afternoon 42 members of the House of Representatives met at the hour the horses were being saddled for the great sporting event of the year, and just about the time when the Cup race started the committee divided on the question of the duty on infants' foods. There was doubt expressed yesterday whether a quorum would be present to-day, in which case the adjournment would have taken place till the evening, but out of a full complement of 75 there appears to be a majority of non-sporting members. Either that, or they were anxious to show that they were earning their higher salary, voted to themselves at the beginning of the session. All Ministers were present, but needless to say the galleries were empty. A few minutes were spent on questions, during which the Prime Minister made it apparent that he is prepared for a reassembling of Parliament in January or February, and the committee then plunged into consideration of a number of items which were postponed last week. Sir William Lyne was in good humour, and in fact all members were, for matters proceeded rapidly. Fifteen minutes elapsed, and the first division was taken on an amendment by Mr. Johnson for a reduction of duties on groceries, which was lost by the freetraders, and the Treasurer conceded an exemption on infants' foods, though he would not budge on foods for invalids, standing figuratively on the report which he had obtained from the Board of Health officer in Melbourne.

Mr. Catts made a try for free rice. The committee warmed to its work, and the atmosphere was lively with interchanges. Mr. Catts and Mr. Joseph Cook disagreed upon the subject of truthfulness. Nothing happened, however, and Mr. Catts proceeded to table his amendment. Free rice was denied, and two or three other amendments for lower rates than the Government's imposition were taken in quick succession. The races were all over by the time rice was finished with, or thereabouts, and the voice of Mr. Reid was heard from the table. Sir John Forrest and Mr. W. H. Irvine also made their appearance. From soap the committee went on to starch, which gave Mr. Harper the opportunity to address himself to the subject, and Mr. Page to direct some hot remarks to the Government about their regard or disregard for primary producers. He spoke strongly about wages paid to starch makers' employees. When an amendment proposed by Mr. Bruce Smith to limit the excise on starch made from rice the product of imported material, had been negatived, Mr. Page jumped to his feet. As far as protection was concerned, he said the Treasurer was one-eyed. A manufacturer here in Melbourne could get it, but the farmer and primary producer in the country had no chance. If the Government did not give the primary producer some attention they would get no support from him.

Later on Mr. Page asked the chairman if he could move that excise should not be paid to manufacturers whose employees' wages did not average £2 a week, but he was ruled out of order.

After this outbreak another excise item was dealt with, and one in connection with saccharin was postponed. The items coming under the heading agricultural products and groceries are now concluded.

TATTERSALL'S AGENCIES.

The Crown Solicitor has recommended the Postmaster-General to "put the question" to a certain bank in Tasmania in relation to its business with "Tattersall's." It is understood that among the documents placed before the Crown law officers was an affirmation, and according to the Postmaster-General it will depend upon the nature of the bank's replies to questions to be asked as to what action will be taken. There has been a marked diminution in the correspondence of bookmakers through the post since the prohibition orders were issued recently.

BROUGHTON ISLAND RABBIT EXPERIMENTS.

Mr. Thomas Brown (N.S.W.) asked Sir William Lyne in the House of Representatives to-day whether he had received any report from the officer who supervised the Danysz rabbit inoculation experiments on Broughton Island. The Treasurer replied that Dr. Tidswell had promised to send him one directly the cattle on the island had been ordered to be destroyed.

MAIL CONTRACT.

QUESTIONS IN PARLIAMENT.

SOME OF THE CONDITIONS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Prime Minister stated in the House of Representatives to-day that he was unable to make any announcement in connection with the mail contract. Mr. Edwards asked for information as to the prospects of Brisbane being included as one of the ports of call, but Mr. Deakin said he could give no information on any one point until the whole contract was settled.

Mr. Wilks: Have you inserted a provision or, if not, will you do so on the question of vessels being docked in Australia?

The Prime Minister: That is one of the matters that has been under consideration, and I hope to put the hon. member out of his suspense to-morrow.

It has transpired that under the contract about to be signed between the Commonwealth Government and the Orient Company a maximum rate of freight for carriage of fruit will be stipulated, as well as for the conveyance of butter and other perishable produce. This is one of the details the consideration of which has prolonged the negotiations. The Orient Company, it appears, will reserve to itself the option of landing mails at Brindisi or Naples, and the exact amount of subsidy is stated to be £175,000 per annum. The new contract, which will not come into operation until February 1, 1909, will provide for Brisbane as a port of call, and in the interim an arrangement will be entered into between the Commonwealth and Queensland Governments for a continuation of the extension of the service to Brisbane now being carried out under a separate subsidy from the Government of the northern State. Three of the vessels at present employed in the Australian mail service, including the Orontes, will continue on the line, and the Orient Company will build five new mammoth steamships to meet the special requirements of our trade.

OUTBREAK OF ANTHRAX.

SHEARERS AFFECTED.

CONDOBOLIN, Tuesday.

Within the last fortnight several cases of anthrax poisoning were admitted to the local hospital. Henry McGillivray and Timothy Evans, shearers, evidently got infected while shearing. Another man was admitted yesterday, suffering from anthrax. All three are from the same shed, and will doubtless recover. Jeremiah O'Keefe, while opening a dead sheep at Vermont Hill, became infected, and when brought to the hospital it was found necessary to amputate his finger.

A PUNTER'S LUCK.

ACCIDENT AT FLEMINGTON.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Luck was with Ernest Batten at the Flemington racecourse to-day, when he put his money on Apologue for the Melbourne Cup, but fortune's smiles changed to frowns, for as he was hurrying to collect his winnings a drunken man lurched and fell heavily against Batten's leg, with the result that Batten came down with a fractured ankle. The injured man was admitted to the Melbourne Hospital.

FIRE AT NOWRA.

NOWRA, Tuesday.

A fire broke out at four this morning in a weatherboard shop occupied by Miss Collis, fruiterer and confectioner. The building was gutted. It is supposed that the fire originated in the kitchen. The fire ignited the stables of the Albion Hotel, and also charred some wood work below the roof of the City Bank, and an adjoining building owned by Messrs. J. and J. Morrison. The shop was insured for £60 with the North Queensland Company, and the stock and furniture for £50 with the Norwich Union Company.

CURRENCY DEADLOCK.

BETTER TONE IN NEW YORK.

RESORT TO PAPER MONEY.

PALLIATIVE MEANS SUGGESTED.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

The Comptroller of the New York City, the United States Steel Corporation, and many large private firms, are paying their employees by cheque. Banks in St. Louis and Kansas City are circulating cheques and notes for small amounts as money.

Nov. 5.

Bankers in New York advanced money subject to certain conditions, bringing the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust Company successfully through the ordeal.

There was a strong tone in Wall-street yesterday at the close of business, and prices were well above London's level.

Including yesterday's arrangements for the import of £500,000 of gold to New York, the total movement of gold to America aggregates £6,500,000.

Mr. G. W. Smalley, New York correspondent of the "Times," telegraphs that Mr. W. B. Ridgely, Comptroller of Currency, suggests that the Treasury should now utilise the wide interpretation always given to the words of the law, viz., that the Treasury's deposits in the banks shall be secured by United States bonds or otherwise. Thus State and municipal bonds which are legal investments for the savings banks of the several States might be used in addition to United States bonds as a sound basis for note circulation by national banks to the full extent of their powers.

EFFECT IN LONDON.

AN ALL-ROUND DECLINE.

HINDERING GOLD DEPLETION.

Consols were quoted yesterday at £81 10s, a fall of 15s since Thursday. There was an all-round decline in stocks, especially in Americans.

The rise in the bank rate to 6 per cent. was due to the anticipation of extensive withdrawals for America. The rise was earlier than expected, because the issue of Clearing-house certificates has not reassured Americans, and gold is being hurried across the Atlantic, £4,500,000 having been withdrawn from the Bank of England and the money market here within a few days.

There will be a further rise in the bank rate if the money famine continues.

AUSTRALIAN SILVER COINAGE.

THE WORN CURRENCY.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

The "Economist," writing of the proposal to coin silver in Australia, says that the Commonwealth wants to shunt old and worn current silver at its face value. In order to make the profit more equitable the London Mint should accept such coin merely at bullion value.

The journal adds that a special Australian silver coinage would have to be quite distinct, and only allowed as legal tender within Australia.

SWISS MILITARY SERVICE.

BURDEN ON YOUNG MEN.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

A referendum which has been taken in Switzerland by 326,102 votes to 264,183 has ratified the new law throwing the chief burdens of military service on young men.

The new law, which has been accepted by the Swiss people by a referendum, increases the training of recruits from 45 days to 70 days for the infantry, from 55 days to 70 days for artillery and engineers, and from 80 days to 90 days for the cavalry, with an annual repetition training of 11 days for all arms, instead of the present course every two years. To some extent the conditions of the Landwehr and Landsturm have been modified, a man being released earlier in life in return for the somewhat enhanced conditions of training that the law is to exact.

RAILWAY CRISIS.

COMPULSORY ARBITRATION PROPOSED.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

Mr. R. Bell, M.P., secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, unofficially learns that the proposals of Mr. Lloyd George, President of the Board of Trade, for the settlement of the railway difficulty, may suggest a conciliation board or compulsory arbitration.

GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTER.

IMPORTANT ADVANCEMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

It is officially announced that the German Emperor has conferred on Herr von Schoen, the new Minister for Foreign Affairs, the right of representing Prince Bulow in the domain of Foreign Affairs.

The Secretaries of State of the German Empire do not form a Ministry or Cabinet, but act independently of each other, under the general supervision of the Chancellor. The cable would seem to indicate that in his domain, that of foreign affairs, Herr von Schoen is independent of the Chancellor.

MASSACRE BY MALAYS.

POLICE PATROL KILLED.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

One hundred natives in the Island of Flores, in the Malay Archipelago, massacred an armed police patrol and 19 men; also eight women and children.

THE GATESHEAD MURDER.

BLACKSMITH ARRESTED.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

Joseph Noble, a blacksmith, who has a wound on the head, has been charged with burglary and murder at Gateshead.

The wound on the blacksmith's head has no doubt been the cause of his arrest. Two committeemen of a co-operative store at Gateshead secreted themselves in the store in order to detect the robber of their goods. They saw a masked burglar enter, and seized him. The man turned on them, shot one dead, wounded the other, and escaped.

FISHING SCHOONER FOUNDERS.

EIGHTEEN LIVES LOST.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

The fishing schooner Orion foundered with 18 hands in a gale off the Newfoundland coast.

THE NEW PROTECTION.

SARCASM OF ENGLISH PRESS.

"THE ALL-WISE STATE."

LONDON, Nov. 5.

The "Times" describes the Commonwealth's experiment in tariff protection to manufacturer, workman, and consumer as equally interesting and adventurous. The "Times" sees the Labour party behind the Excise Board, and also expatiates on the assumed all-wise omniscient State and the assumed human perfectability of the entire community so mentally disciplined and morally chastened as to accept an earthly Providence.

The "Tribune," writing in the same connection, says that Sir William Lyne's is one of the most daring attempts on record to enact ideas of State socialism. It is a peculiarly Australian combination of false paternalism and bad economics.

The "Daily News" writes that the scheme of the new protection is intended not so much to abolish sweating as to make protection attractive to the workers by giving an appearance to the instrument of industrial betterment behind a higher tariff wall. It is to be something like sharing the plunder, manufacturers taking the lion's share and the workman what organisation can secure for him.

RUSSIAN REVOLUTIONARY METHODS.

ASSASSINATING PRISON GOVERNORS.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

It has been discovered that the woman who assassinated State Councillor Maximowsky, of the Prisons Department, St. Petersburg, was an instrument of the Socialist Revolutionary party, who have already killed six governors of prisons.

SENSATIONAL FORGERY CHARGE.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

John Ayling, a stepson of Mr. John Morley's, and formerly a partner in the firm of Constable and Co., has been remanded on further charges of forgery involving £10,000, in addition to the £6000 with which the former charges were concerned.

THE GERMAN SCANDALS.

TITLED OFFICERS ON TRIAL.

EMPEROR'S INTERVENTION.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

Military Courts of Honour, with closed doors, will investigate the offences alleged during the Moltke-Harden trial against Count Wilhelm von Hohenau, Count Lynar, and other titled officers.

Universal astonishment is manifested in Berlin at the intervention of the Public Prosecutor in the Moltke-Harden case. The intervention is attributed to the German Emperor's orders.

PEEL RIVER RESUMPTION.

THE VALUE OF THE LAND.

MORE EXPERT EVIDENCE.

TAMWORTH, Tuesday.

The witness Black, in cross-examination by Mr. Gordon, said in Lower Bullock paddock there were 10 to 12 acres of good lucerne land which he valued at £30 per acre.

Mr. Cuthbert Fetherstonhaugh stated that he had about 50 years' experience in the pastoral world, occupying every position, from jackeroo up. He recently made an inspection of the Peel River estate, and was 28 days in the field. In 1902 he started to value the estate for the land tax, but after he had valued some of the agricultural land the company accepted the office valuations. He divided the estate for the present inquiry into three areas, the first being 91,907 acres of agricultural land, the second, a section of mixed farming, of 62,612 acres, and the third, a division of purely grazing and mountain land, of 100 730 acres. He valued the estate purely pastoral country, at £2/10/ an acre. Taking the three sections as one, the average per acre was £3/4/5, or a total value of £821,786. Witness gave the following valuations of the different paddocks:—Wallsmor Paddock, £7/10/ per acre; Lower Bullock, £10; Bullock, £15; Blackfellow, £4/2/; East Main Camp, £3/17/; West Main Camp, £4/4/7; North Playbole, £3/15/10; South Playbole, £4/4/4; Duri, £3/10/; Currabubula, £4/8/; Lower Timbumburi, £6/13/6; Portions 5 and 6, £3/13/7; West Timbumburi, £3/18/; East Timbumburi, £4/2/4; load paddock, £3/9/10; basket yards, £4/5/6; dam, £4/0/8; Nine Mile, £3/10/2; North Triangle, £4/2/6; Middle River, £3/1/1; South Triangle, £3/17/4; South River, £2/18/6; South River Flats, £8; Washpool, £8; Shingle Hut, £4/18/3; North Black Jack, £2/17/1; Reedy North-east, £2/5 and £3/14/1; Reedy North-west, £2/13/6; Pocket end Spring Creek Plains, £2/15/; Round Hills, £2/12/7; North Camp, £3/4/9; South Camp, £3/3/8; One Mile, £1/18/3; Little Washpool, £4; Spring Creek, £3/1/1; Reedy South-west, £2/10/10; Lower Middle Brook, £3/1/6; Four Mile, £2/15/9; East Hills, £2/12/; West Hills, £3/1/; Log, £3/10/2; small paddocks around homestead, £3/17/3; Currajong, £3/6/2; Bournes, £3/7/; Middle, £3/9/4; North Swamp, £4/1/5; South Swamp, £3/10/; Sugarloaf, £3/1/2; West Middlebroom, £3/2/7; Middle Blackjack, £2/15/5; East Blackjack, £1/12/; West Blackjack, £1/7/6; Reedy South-east, £1/18/8; South Black, £1/12/4; North Gap, £2/4/4; South Gap, £2/4/10; Nundle-road, £2/7/1; North-east-south, £2/12/11; Goat Mountain, £1/15/3; Racecourse, £2/2/; Cann's, £2/8/10; Cann's Plains, £4/4/10; Nundle and frontage, £2; South-east-south, £2/8/9; South Upper Middle Brook, £2/6/6; North Upper Middle Brook, £2/10/7; East Middle Brook, £2/10/; Middle South, £3/6/7; South-west-south, £2/9/; North-west-south, £2/15/; Benana, £2/4/2; a couple of paddocks totalling 4255 acres, £3/3/7.

Witness then gave the gravitation of each paddock.

The inquiry adjourned till to-morrow.

RACIAL ANTAGONISM.

WASHINGTON EXPELS HINDUS.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

Five hundred trade unionists at Everett, Washington State, drove 41 Hindus into British Columbia after demolishing their quarters.

The "Times" reports that Mr. U. L. M. King, Deputy Minister for Labour in Canada, is inquiring into the Vancouver employment agencies and the methods of organisation of the immigration of the Japanese.

Senator Flint, of California, has prepared a bill to prevent the influx of Hindus into the United States, and will introduce it at the next session of Congress. The country, he says, must be protected from fakirs and mendicants who comprised a large part of the immigrants.

The great influx of Japanese into Canada has been through the employment agencies, who have brought the Japanese from Hawaii, which was simply a place of very temporary abode to get over the difficulty of passports. Japanese direct from Japan would require a passport. A stay of a few months at Hawaii obviated the necessity of their production. But this subterfuge has now been blocked. The Dominion Immigration Agent recently issued instructions notifying all steamship and other transportation companies engaged or likely to be engaged in carrying Japanese to Canada that no Japanese would be admitted unless they carry passports made out specifically to Canada. "At last," writes a Canadian contemporary, "something practical has been done. It is a certainty that this step will come as an unpleasant surprise to the existing interests whose chief business is the wholesale importation of the brown men via Honolulu, for the regulation will absolutely stop the dumping of shiploads of Japs in British Columbia from the Hawaiian Islands, and effectively prevent the evasion of the agreement with Japan."

KURRI DISTRICT COLLIERY.

MINE DAMS REPLENISHED.

KURI KURRI, Tuesday.

All the district collieries now working recorded full time during the past fortnight, with the exception of Stanford Merthyr, where a day and a half was lost owing to a dispute about shiftmen's wages. Hebbern is, of course, still idle. The orders in hand are sufficient to keep the various collieries working at full pressure for some time.

The main topic of conversation in all quarters is the possibility of a general strike. After the abrupt conclusion of last week's conference a strike was believed to be imminent, but a slightly more hopeful feeling now prevails. The majority of miners who have settled in this district, and are making comfortable homes, are naturally averse to an industrial disturbance if it can be honourably avoided, and many are hopeful that a way out of the difficulty will be found.

The rain which fell on Sunday night has materially replenished the supply of water in the colliery dams. It was most welcome at the Pelaw-Main mine, where the water in the dam was exhausted a fortnight ago. Since that time the water pumped from the mine had been used, but owing to the highly mineralised nature of this water it was proving destructive to the boilers, and had not rain come the work of the largest colliery on the field might have been seriously impeded.

As a result of the recent stoppage at Stanford Merthyr for an advance in the wages of shiftmen a conference between representatives of the employers and employees has been held, at which the wages difficulty and other matters, including the classification of shiftmen, were discussed. Although no final decision has been reached, it is probable that some of the employees affected will receive a higher shift wage.

The men formerly employed at Hebburn have received permission to remove their tools from the pit. This points to a virtual closing-down of the mine for the time being.

MUSWELLBROOK TO MERRIWA LINE.

MUSWELLBROOK, Tuesday.

The Chief Commissioner of Railways, accompanied by Mr. Harper, Traffic Manager, received a deputation at Eaton's Hotel this morning representing municipal shire councils and leading residents, who supported a proposal for the construction of a railway line from Muswellbrook to Merriwa. There were present:—Mayor, J. C. Luscombe, president shire council, Mr. E. Bowman, Messrs. R. G. D. Fitzgerald, M.L.C., J. C. White, J. N. Humphries, Thos. Blunt, E. Higgins, E. C. Brecht, and N. T. Parkinson.

Mr. Fitzgerald explained the advantages of the line suggested. Messrs. White, Humphries, and Brecht endorsed the remarks of Mr. Fitzgerald. Mr. T. Blunt said that there was no better dairying country in the States than that in the Hunter Valley and between Muswellbrook and Merriwa.

The Chief Commissioner, in reply, said he would not be able to decide the matter, but he would examine the route and consider the effect the construction of the line would have, not taking altogether the narrow view whether it would pay in the near future, but the effect it would have in the development of the resources of the country it would pass through, and thus expand the productiveness of the State.

SOUTH COAST COLLIERIES.

CLIFTON, Tuesday.

All the local collieries commenced briskly for the present week. South Clifton despatched an order of 7000 tons for shipment to Pyrmont. The North Bulli output is still going to the private hoppers. The Port Kembla and Coal Cliff colliery is pushing on with improvements work, and increasing the number of employees.

Notwithstanding the closing of several smelting works there is still a heavy demand for local coke, and the works are kept going at high pressure to supply orders. There is also a large quantity of Bulli coke passing through, en route to Sydney for shipment per s.s. Ardova for the Broken Hill Proprietary Company.

Owing to the existence of fresh water springs along the foot of the Illawarra range not only have the Clifton and Scarborough mines been supplied from this source, during recent dry weather, but it is understood one of the leading collieries on the South Coast obtained their supply from one small spring, and although heavily taxed the inrush of water was estimated at 1000 gallons per hour.

The members of the commission of inquiry into electricity in coal mines visited North Bulli colliery yesterday, where three electric coal-cutting machines are in use. The members, together with the colliery representatives, Chief Colliery Inspector Atkinson, and District Colliery Inspector Hindmarsh, visited workings and inspected the electric machines at work.

A TEMPESTUOUS VOYAGE.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

The iron barque Weathersfield, 1047 tons, reached Fremantle from Puget Sound last evening. She left Bellingham Harbour on March 7, with a shipment of lumber for George Wills and Co., Fremantle, and was not seen again until August 29, when she reached Largs Bay in a disabled condition, her sails having been entirely blown away. The whole of the crew left the ship at Adelaide, together with the officers, with the exception of the captain. The Weathersfield was almost abreast of Albany early in August, when she encountered a terrific gale, which carried away almost all her sails, and as she could then not make headway, she was turned round, and ran for Largs Bay, where she anchored on August 29. A new crew was shipped at Largs Bay, and a new suit of sails was also obtained. On October 1 she resumed her voyage to Fremantel. On October 11 she encountered heavy weather, which continued until November 1. On October 24 a gale was blowing, and the decks were continuously flooded by heavy seas, which broke over the vessel. When the gale was at its highest, the topsail yard was carried away, taking with it the lower topsail. A couple of days later another gale was encountered, and the main topmast staysail was blown away. The vessel rounded Cape Leeuwin on Saturday, and from that point she had a good run to port. The barque, which was built in 1865, berthed at North Wharf to discharge a cargo of lumber. She presents a battered appearance. Below the waterline she appears to be covered with barnacles. A new crew will be required, as the present one only signed on for the voyage from Adelaide to Fremantle.

ELECTRICITY IN MINES.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

The committee of inquiry investigating the use of electricity in mines arrived last night for the purpose of continuing their investigations. To-day the coal-cutting machines at Mount Kembla were inspected. The inquiry will be continued at the Court-house on Thursday.

THE COAL CRISIS.

MASTERFUL INACTIVITY.

LOCAL DISPUTES AT COLLIERIES.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

Nothing of consequence occurred to-day to affect the general situation, but this notwithstanding the crisis in the northern coal trade still wears as serious an aspect as at the end of last week.

The committee of the Colliery Employees' Federation has not since met, and the question arises whether this is a form of "masterful inactivity" is part of the course mapped out by the miners' representatives. The president of the Federation (Mr. Peter Bowling) has at intervals taken a tour of the Newcastle district, visiting various centres where local disputes exist. The secretary (Mr. Curley) is a member of the board of inquiry which is now sitting in the South Coast district, obtaining evidence regarding the use of electricity in coal mines. His absence at such a critical period in the history of the northern mining district has caused some adverse comment amongst a large section of Newcastle miners, who rely on his long experience in dealing with an acute situation. Most of the other members of the committee of management are at their respective centres, and the date of their next meeting has not been fixed. It is probable that the meeting will be deferred until the return of the delegates now visiting the southern and western coal mining districts, when certain information as to the attitude of miners in those centres will be available.

It is not improbable that definite steps will shortly be taken with the object of reaching a settlement of the yardage rates dispute existing at Burwood and Lambton B Collieries, and the suggestion has been made to the proprietors that an independent umpire be appointed to adjust the affair. The matter is now receiving consideration by the Proprietors' Association.

The coal shipping trade has not suffered to any great degree, most of the vessels in port being able to get the usual despatch with their cargoes. The prospective trade is, however, suffering from the uncertainty of the outlook, as chartering is practically at a standstill, or what business is being done in this direction is under the risk which attaches to the possibility of a strike.

The general outlook from the present deadlock is made more gloomy by the local disputes at a number of the collieries, the effect of which is to make the general body of workmen, whose demands have been refused by proprietors, still more restive. At Burwood and Lambton B work continues only in the wide places, leaving about half the miners idle of their own free will. The Northumberland colliery entered on its second day of idleness to-day, the shooters and fillers there refusing to work under the wages offered, although they are identical with those ruling at neighbouring collieries. The Hebburn colliery in the South Maitland district, has been idle for several months, the 600 workmen being sustained by levies made on the general body of miners. Back Creek and Duckenfield collieries have been idle this week but arrangements have been made to allow of work being temporarily resumed.

BACK CREEK AND DUCKENFIELD.

A meeting of wheelers, trappers, and flatters lately employed at Back Creek and Duckenfield collieries, who refused to work yesterday, was held at Minmi to-day. The position was explained to them by the lodge officers, who advised them to resume work for a time at least, when their grievance would be taken before the management by the district officers with a view to an agreement being arrived at. A vote of the youths was taken, and the majority voted in favour of work being resumed to-morrow or on Thursday. As a protest against the refusal of the management to grant certain increases to the wheelers, they decided to give at the same time 14 days' notice of their intention to cease work. This notice will, of course, not be acted on should a settlement of the dispute be made.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD.

A few months ago a conference of delegates representing the northern, southern, and western miners was held in Sydney for the purpose of discussing the advisability of an amalgamation of the three colliery employees' associations. The question was raised at the conference whether the Northern Miners' Federation should be affiliated with the Industrial Workers of the World, an American brand of unionism, whose tenets are of the aggressive socialistic order. Subsequently a ballot of the whole of the miners' lodges of the northern district was taken to ascertain the feeling of the miners on this point. The question when brought before the lodges was explained by the president of the federation (Mr. Bowling), who is a strong advocate of the principles of the new unionism. The general secretary (Mr. Curley), on the other hand, strenuously opposed the introduction of the Industrial Workers of the World doctrine, and his active resistance to the proposal secured its rejection by many of the Newcastle lodges. The actual result of the lodge voting never transpired, as there appeared to be an irregularity in the carrying out of the ballot. The majority of the Newcastle lodges were, however, opposed to affiliation with the I.W.W., but the South Maitland lodges were, it is believed, almost unanimous in favour of it. The federation then decided to take an individual ballot of its members on the subject, but effect has not yet been given to the decision, as the ballot-papers have not been issued yet.

DELEGATES MEET IN SYDNEY.

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

In connection with the dispute which has arisen in the coal trade of the Newcastle and Maitland districts, an important conference of delegates from the Northern, Southern, and Western Miners' Federation was held at the Trades Hall yesterday. The Northern district was represented by Mr. Amram Lewis, the treasurer of the union, and Mr. J. M'Williams, a member of the committee of management. The Southern district was represented by Mr. Hicks (president) and Mr. Morgan (secretary) of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Federation, and the Western District Miners' Union was represented by Mr. W. H. Delaney (treasurer).

It was explained by the last-mentioned delegate that the miners of the Lithgow district had an agreement with the Lithgow Coal Association which he thought would stand good for next year. The southern delegates explained that their federation was moving for an advance in wages. The northern delegates put the position of their members in a forcible way, and had the sympathy of the other delegates, particularly on the question of some adequate payment for small coal.

The conference sat for an hour before lunch, and terminated at 4.30 p.m.—in time for the delegates to catch the evening trains to their respective headquarters. There was no further information made available. A statement was, however, dropped by one of the number that the outlook was "decidedly ominous at the present juncture."

The delegates are to report to their unions. What the next move will be will depend largely upon the action to be taken by the committee of management of the Northern Colliery Employers' Federation.

THE ENGLISH CRICKETERS.

SODDEN GROUND.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

For the first time since the English cricketers set foot in South Australia they struck weather to-day when there was no necessity to go out with overcoats. They have been so far quite unable to have anything more than fielding practice. The ground this afternoon was so soddened from rains that have fallen that nets were not even erected. The Englishmen feel their limited exercise keenly, as they looked forward to almost a full week's work prior to their first serious engagement.

It was their only opportunity, weather permitting, for long and consistent practice. Previous teams have learnt the necessity for a few days to enable them to become accustomed to the light and acquainted with the pace of the wicket.

The weather to-night is beautifully calm, and there is every prospect of the visitors and the home team being able to indulge in form-producing work to-morrow. Notwithstanding the heavy rain, the caretaker of the ground has already begun to cover the wicket with canvas, a custom not followed in Melbourne or Sydney. People are disappointed in not having an opportunity for judging the batting and bowling styles of the Englishmen.

THE NEW BRUNGLE COPPER MINE.

WARDENS IN CONFLICT.

GUNDAGAI, Tuesday.

Further developments have occurred in connection with the conflicting claims for possession of the Brungle copper mine, and the case promises to develop into one of the most extraordinary in the mining history of New South Wales. Briefly the situation is: the Tumut mining warden placed W. Keith in possession of the property, whilst the Gundagai warden gave possession of the property to J. M. Dodd. Keith is in possession, and refuses to give up the property. Warden Maitland will hold a special inquiry at Gundagai on the 10th inst to inquire into the conflicting applications, and to report to the Minister. Dodd is also instituting proceedings against Keith, alleging damage to property.

THE EYESIGHT TEST.

The Treasurer, Mr. Waddell, in his capacity as Minister for Railways, has written to the Tramway Employees' Union declining to receive a deputation from the union respecting the eyesight tests. He refers the union to the Chief Commissioner for Railways, saying this is a matter of railway administration, and not one of policy.

The union has decided to send a deputation to interview Mr. Johnson on his return to Sydney.

MYSTERIOUS SICKNESS.

NUMBER OF PEOPLE AFFECTED.

A FATAL CASE.

WALCHA, Tuesday.

While shearing was proceeding at Mr. Fred. Hogno's homestead on Port Stephens-road, the men and family were taken ill. They thought it was nothing serious, but some sought medical advice. Dr. Stephens found symptoms of poisoning. John Hoy has recovered, but Fred. Hogno, who came to town, died last night. Some of the family are still very bad. Dr. Walley arrived this morning to act with Dr. Stephens. Mrs. Hogno is said to be dying.

Later.

The Coroner (Mr. M. J. Walsh) commenced an inquiry to-day into the cause of the death of Fred. Hogno. Dr. Stephens stated that the deceased's illness dated from 24th ultimo. On that date a visitor, who had a meal at the house, had a similar attack. The doctor was suspicious of poisoning, but could find no clue. Dr. Walley assisted at the post-mortem examination to-day, and on the recommendation of the medical men the internal organs are being sent to the Government analyst. The deceased was a wealthy sheep-owner.

PROPOSED ELECTROLYTIC WORKS.

PROBABLE REMOVAL TO QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Referring to the statement that Captain Richards, of the Mount Morgan Company, was negotiating with the Government in regard to the establishment of electrolytic smelting works at Pinkenba, Mr. Kidson to-day confirmed the statement. He said that negotiations were now proceeding between the Government and certain persons, who were submitting the proposal, and he expected some definite conclusion to be arrived at within a day or two.

AN INVETERATE THIEF.

WOMAN 30 YEARS IN GAOL.

At the Central Police Court on Monday Sarah Clifford, 75, a widow, was charged with stealing a purse containing £1 9s 10d from the person of Frances McDougall on the 2nd inst. Evidence was given by the arresting constable to the effect that he caught the accused in the act of going through one of prosecutrix's pockets as she was looking into a shop window. When charged at the station, the accused said, "You got me fair, and I plead guilty." The magistrate, on asking if the accused was known, was told by the police prosecutor that she had had convictions against her covering over 30 years in gaol. One sentence accused served was 10 years for stealing from the person.

A sentence of three months' imprisonment was imposed.

CURED BY STRYCHNINE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Dr. Johnson was driving home to Yackandandah when he saw a large brown snake on the track. He told his driver to pull up, but he was too late, for one of the ponies trod on the tail of the snake, which sprang up and bit the animal on the breast. They drove on, hoping to get home before the poison would have any serious effect, but before they had gone two miles the pony fell as if it had been shot. The doctor had the late Dr. Mueller's strychnine cure with him, which he injected, and this had the desired effect, for the pony got up, and was led home, where it was further treated, and has quite recovered.

RIOT AT A BOXING CONTEST.

POLICE CLEAR THE RING.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

Ted Nelson and Ted Whiting, both well-known in metropolitan boxing circles, fought at the Theatre Royal last night. Nelson was apparently getting the worse of the encounter in the ninth round, when the referee declared Whiting fouled, and awarded the fight to Nelson. Whiting approached the referee as if to assault him. Blows were exchanged, then the seconds and supporters interfered.

A general melee was in progress when the police took a hand, and promptly cleared the ring. A number of chairs and seats were broken, and a few folk showed slight scratches as the result of the disgraceful occurrence.

A PLEASED PROTECTIONIST.

OPINION OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Victorian Chamber of Manufactures last night the president, Mr. J. M. Joshua, reported that the conference of the Federal Council of Australian Chambers of Manufactures, recently held in Sydney had proved a great success. In the past New South Wales had shown somewhat a cold shoulder to the manufacturers, but he felt it had now made amends. The attitude of the people in relation to Australian manufactures had altered enormously during the last two or three years in New South Wales. This was the first time he had known the New South Wales Chamber of Manufactures to be unanimously in favour of protection. Wherever he went in Sydney he had found friends for Australian industries. The general feeling seemed to be entirely in favour of Australian manufactures, and an enormous number of people in New South Wales had apparently recognised that the fiscal question did not now exist, and that protection was the policy of the country.

THE MELBOURNE CUP

APOLOGUE WINS.

A RECORD ATTENDANCE.

SPLENDID WEATHER.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The day broke fine and clear, and the welcome showers of yesterday had purified the atmosphere and freshened everything. The city was early astir, for it is a public holiday, and long before noon a big proportion of the Cup visitors have been conveyed to the course. The scene at the Spencer-street railway station was one which will not readily be forgotten, for the transportation, within an hour or two, of sufficient people to populate an important city is no small task. Still, the work was successfully grappled with, and, happily, no mishaps were recorded. Once at Flemington the pleasure-seekers moved about with ease and comfort, and entered right royally into the spirit of the occasion. The picturesquely-laid-out grounds appeared at their best on such a delightful spring-like day, and a gentle breeze tempered the heat of the sun's rays. There had been many misgivings yesterday as to the state of the weather for Cup day, but visitors could not have been more fortunate.

Vice-Royalty has never been more largely represented than it is to-day, for the Governor-General is here, as well as three State Governors, a Lieutenant-Governor, and the Admiral commanding his Majesty's fleet in Australian waters. It is in every sense of the word a representative assemblage. Premiers, Ministers, and Lord Mayors, politicians of various shades of opinion, commercial men, bankers, professional men, naval officers, and squatters are here in full force. Law and medicine are especially well represented; while the Speaker, by strolling along the lawn, might easily secure a full quorum of the House of Representatives. High protectionists, moderate protectionists, and freetrade members converse together, and even the Labour party is in evidence; but the subject of the tariff is tabooed. The crowd includes many thousands of people who never enter a racecourse except upon Cup day. They regard the event in quite a different light to that of the regular attendant, for to them it is a huge social function, and a day of fashion as well as a day of sport. They agree with Wordsworth that "there's something in a flying horse;" but that does not constitute the sum total of their day's pleasure.

It is indeed appropriate that on such an occasion as this the sweetest singers of the earth should grace the gathering by their presence. Madame Melba is here, and so is Clara Butt, accompanied by Kennerley Rumford. They were received with tumultuous applause, and were specially accommodated with seats within the Vice-Regal enclosure on the grand stand. The Governor-General is accompanied by Lady Northcote, the Governor of New South Wales by Miss Rawson, the Governor of Tasmania by Lady Strickland, the Governor of Queensland by Lady Chelmsford, the Lieut.-Governor of Victoria by Lady Madden, and Vice-Admiral Fawkes by Lady Fawkes. Vice-royalty evinces as keen an interest in the gala day as the average visitor, and the progress of each race is watched by all with pleasure and enthusiasm. "He wins! He wins!" is shouted from a hundred thousand throats, and the suspense as the Cup favourite approaches the winning post is intense. The numbers are up, and the enormous concourse cheers wildly. There is unbounded enthusiasm, for a new hero has been created, and Apologue is worshipped. The excitement is contagious, and the ladies clap their hands and show their delight in many charming feminine ways; while the sterner sex resort to the waving of hats preparatory to a general rush to the betting ring to collect the dividends. Everyone is happy; but thrice happy are those whose foresight was sufficiently clear to enable them to financially benefit by the result. The victor makes his appearance after the race, and still greater enthusiasm is displayed.

Now a dramatic incident occurs in striking contrast with this remarkable scene. While the cheering is at its height, the jockey staggers as he dismounts, and a moment later his prostrate form lies at the feet of Apologue. The scene is changed. The applause hushed, enthusiasm gives place to anxiety, and the sudden and deep silence is only broken by inquiries made with bated breath as to what has happened. Perhaps he has only fainted as a result of the excitement and exertion. It is young Evans's first great victory, and nature, unduly taxed, has demanded retribution. Medical men and officials rush to his assistance, but he is quite unconscious. He is gently raised, and, while still in a swoon, is tenderly laid on the scales to weigh in. Now the red flag is hoisted, and the ring begins to disperse. The sympathy of the entire assemblage goes out to the lad, and, under the best skill available, he eventually regains consciousness, and is conveyed from the scene of his victory to the quietness of his home. The verdict of the medical profession is that he suffered from a temporary suspension of the heart's functions. It is the reaction after many weeks of intense anxiety and incessant attention to his work.

To-day is a day of records. The attendance has never been exceeded since the inauguration of the fixture 46 years ago, and only twice during that lengthy period has it been approached, in Mentor's year (1888), which was also the occasion of the Centenary Exhibition, and in 1890, the year of Carbine's sensational victory. The official figures are not yet available, but the estimates of officers of the Victorian Racing Club all exceed 100,000, and range up to the astounding total of 130,000. Never in our history has there been such evidence of prosperity—a sufficient refutation in itself of the slanders recently uttered at home concerning the industrial conditions of Australia—and then again, on no previous occasion has there been such an influx of visitors from the whole of the States in the Commonwealth, both Sydney and Newcastle being especially well represented. The railway authorities, too, report a record for this year's Cup. The official returns supplied to-night show that 33,420 persons were carried to Flemington from the city by rail alone, as compared with 26,907 last year—an increase of upwards of 6500. The receipts from combination tickets reached a total of £11,039, as against £8604 on the occasion of last year's Cup day—an increase of £2435; but by far the greatest percentage of Cup visitors reached the course by other means. The vehicular and motor car traffic was of enormous proportions; the tramways were taxed to their utmost capacity; while tens of thousands wended their way to Flemington on foot.

And in the racing itself there were records. The time for the Cup, 3min 27¼sec, has never been beaten, and only once equalled—by Blue Spec, two years ago. The weather conditions, too, may be said to constitute a record. It has been a delightful day—a cool, invigorating, bright, clear day—and has, perhaps, been more thoroughly enjoyed by Sydneysiders than by others, because the conditions contrast so vividly with those which have prevailed of late in New South Wales. The Melbourne Cup of 1907 will go down to history as the most successful function that has yet taken place under our southern skies. Will this great record under ideal conditions ever be eclipsed?

The unusual feat of accurately placing the first three horses in the Cup was successfully performed this year by the "Herald" sporting editor.

THE DRESSES.

Cup Day, 1907, was one of the most delightful ever experienced at the Flemington Racecourse. There was an enormous attendance, partly owing to the great influx of interstate visitors at present in Melbourne killing two birds with one stone, visiting the Exhibition of Women's Work and attending the Cup week festivities. The most sensible women were those who donned dainty light washing gowns, for they were cool and fresh-looking, if crushed and crumpled at the end of the day. It is most noticeable that as each Cup day comes round muslins, linens, and cambrics are seen in greater evidence than previously. For all that hundreds of exquisite gowns are still worn, and fashion fancies are so very liberal just now that it was difficult to pick out any mode that was general. Perhaps the most noticeable was the latest fad of having gloves, parasol, veil, hose, and shoes all en suite. Also noticed was the fanciful veiling which men liken to hanging meat safes; and certainly the simile is not bad, for these net veils hang loosely round the hats. Some have deep hem borders, others are embroidered, while others again are of the most costly lace. One worn is known to have cost six guineas. The hats this season are very wonderful confections of the milliner's needle, and as a rule are vastly becoming, especially to bright young faces, for worn poised at the back of the head, their large drooping brims wreathed with flowers and feathers, they make a charming framework for the face if it be not lined or careworn. One of the most noticeable hats was a large white Tagel straw, with groups of red purple wings. These outspread pinions were caught in front with a velvet knot and buckle, and the brim was lined with mauve silk and had roses en suite. Another of alternate bands of blue and white lace was embellished with the new floral trimming and blue Convolvuli in rich shading. These choice flowers are just now rather scarce, and a hat adorned with them may cost anything from six to twelve guineas. One of the latest modes for gowns is to wear the contrasting cutaway coatee of silk. One costume noticed on Tuesday was of ivory Irish lace, the coatee being of deep purple silk, and the hat of the same rich hue. By the way, purple hats are the prevailing fashion in London society, and Sydney milliners must have got the whisper from a little bird, for the majority of these hats on Cup Day were worn by Sydneyites.

The Vice-Regal dining rooms were both beautifully decorated with palms and flowering pot plants and ferns, and the dining tables were a feast of floral art.

Her Excellency Lady Northcote wore striped satin chiffon, showing the palest of sea foam green tints, the trimmings were of rare white Indian lace and pipings of black satin. The large Leghorn hat was lined with black glace and a knot of similar silk with pink roses and white ostrich feathers formed the embellishment. Lady Fawkes was attired in foxglove purple silk, with a yoke of ecru lace and crepe silk; her black hat had tulle and coq plumage as trimming, and she wore on arrival a frielle coloured lace coat. Miss Rawson's dainty gown of ivory ninon and tambour lace was worn with a white tulle hat, clustered with white shirley poppies. Lady Edeline Strickland wore ciel blue Oriental satin, with entre deux of cream lace, a white hat with lace drape, and blue ostrich feathers caught with a bunch of tawney roses. Madame Melba was in cream embroidered mousseline de soi, trimmed with exquisite Irish crochet lace, white chip hat, clustered with cerise poppies. Madame Clara Butt's uncommon gown was of cream satin, veiled in wood-brown chiffon, the skirt showing gold-laced panels, and the bodice and vest of cream lace, and insertions of the new tusca net in gold thread, tuscan hat, swathed with gold tissue and chiffs and drooping feather. Her sister (Miss Hook) wore a cream spotted muslin and lace frock, leghorn hat, with shaded pink feathers and roses. Mrs. Lionel Halsey, turquoise blue crepe cloth, large cream hat with pink roses. MELBOURNE CUP.

The Melbourne Cup this year went to a strong public favourite. If ever a horse looked a "paper" certainty for an important race Apologue did for this year's Cup, and form was vindicated when he passed the post the winner with three-quarters of a length to spare. Apologue, after he had run such a fine race against Mooltan in the A.J.C. Metropolitan, was elected one of the Cup favourites, and his Caulfield running further showed the New Zealander in the light of a good horse; and his price thereafter shortened considerably. There have been other Melbourne Cup favourites, but few have been more backed than the New Zealander, whose victory, coming after that of his stable companion, Poseidon, another hot favourite in the Caulfield Cup, is likely to be long remembered by members of the ring, for Earnshaw's powerful Sydney stable struck them heavily in both cups. When the starting bell for the Cup rang the starters had dwindled down to 19; two of them—Socialist and Mazarin—were withdrawn on the course. Since Dunlop won in 1887 there has not been a smaller Cup field, though in 1901 the number of starters was the same as to-day. On the whole, the Cup field this year was a good one. It contained a horse, in Poseidon, considered by some people to be the equal of Carbine, while Tartan, who followed him on the card, is a horse of quite exceptional merit. Then there were a few other old horses of average quality, and at least one good three-year-old. The different candidates were well looked over in the paddock, and none attracted more attention than Poseidon, who was looking a picture, and was, probably, never better in his life. Tartan looked full of condition, and Melodrama wore the famous "Tom Payten polish. Apologue was regarded by some of the spectators as wearing a somewhat stale look, but this may have been only fancy. Mooltan appeared bright and well, while Mountain King, Peru, and Welcome Trist looked none the worse for their exertions in the Derby. The rather significant Lady Diffidence appeared trained to the hour, and two horses from Caulfield in Bendigo and Dyed Garments, attracted particular attention of [illegible] of the [illegible]. Bendigo had [illegible] great preparation, and looked well on it, while Dyed Garments, though fine drawn, seemed as hard as nails. Another that looked to have done plenty of work was the South Australian mare, Spinaway. The veteran of the race, Proceeder, attracted some attention because of the battles he had fought and won, and the good-looking Tulkeroo had a circle of admirers. Little attention was, however, paid to Ellis, Thackeray, Knox, Moani, or Lady Esme.

The bookmakers were out on the course early, and at once got to work on their Cup books. Apologue was for the greater part of the afternoon at 5 to 2, and it was only a few minutes before the start that he eased to 3 to 1. The price, however, differed in various parts of the ring, some of the bookmakers being able to find customers at 2 to 1. Poseidon for a time was very firm, as short a price as 3 to 1 being accepted; but backers seemed to realise at the end that the colt was being set almost an impossible task to win under 10st 3lb, and he eased at the barrier rise to 9 to 2. Mooltan had a numerous following, and he hardened to 7 to 1; while Mountain King, Welcome Trist, and Dyed Garments were best backed of the others. The question of Mountain King starting was not decided until this morning. The race was fairly easy to follow. Lady Esme was responsible for most of the early running, and when she dropped out at the back of the course, Knox took the field along at a great bat. He dropped out at the turn, and Mountain King, who had never been far from the front, was left in charge, with Mooltan and Apologue handy. The three lastnamed had the finish to themselves. Mountain King struggled on to the distance, where it was seen that he was beaten, and the final issue lay between Mooltan and Apologue—the Metropolitan Stakes battle over again. For a few strides it looked as if Mooltan would prevail, but Apologue, without much assistance from his rider, asserted himself in strenuous fashion, and gained the judge's verdict by three-quarters of a length. It was an interesting finish, and there was a scene of great enthusiasm as the pair flashed past the post. Mountain King was three lengths behind Mooltan, and the others were altogether out of it. Tartan, who was placed fourth, was quite 10 lengths away. Melodrama was next; so that the first five horses were from Sydney stables—a rather significant commentary on the quality of the Victorian representatives in the race. There was a somewhat similar tale to tell last year, when the three leading places were filled by Sydney horses—Poseidon, Antonious, and Proceed. It is understood that the stable threw in for a good win in bets over Apologue's victory. He was well backed, straight out and also in doubles, with his stable companion, Poseidon in the Caulfield Cup. It is a big coup for I. Earnshaw to bring off, but probably the tales told as to the amount of money won by the stable connections over the double have been greatly exaggerated. One thing is certain, however, that many Sydney men outside of the stable supported Poseidon and Apologue in doubles spiritedly, and the bookmakers have, undoubtedly, been hard hit this spring. Both Cups were, however, good betting races, and it may be, the losses of the ring are not so serious after all. Considering the pull Apologue had in the weights over Mooltan it was rather surprising to see Mooltan backed in such a confident fashion by the stable; but Mooltan was believed to have come on since the A.J.C. meeting, while many people had a doubt as to Apologue's behaviour, if tightly pinched. Mooltan's rider stated, after the race, that he had Apologue beaten for a few strides at the distance, where Evans, who was weak from wasting, momentarily left off riding. Apologue, however, took it upon himself to settle the question, and that he did in decisive fashion. Earnshaw is no great believer in spurs, and Evans was without them in the race—he carried a whip, but did not once use it. Poseidon and Welcome Trist were never dangerous, and their running was disappointing to a great number of admirers. The time for the race, 3m 27½s, was equal to the previous record, which was made by Blue Spec, two years ago. Mr. Heath, the official timekeeper, recorded 51s for the first half-mile—the best he has ever timed at the beginning of a big race—the next four furlongs took 53½s; the succeeding half-mile 52¼s, and the concluding half-mile 50¼s; the last five furlongs occupied 1m 3s, and the last 6 furlongs 1m 16½s.

Betting: 3 to 1 v Apologue, 5 to 2 v Poseidon, 7 to 1 v Mooltan, 8 to 1 each v Mountain King and Welcome Trist, 10 to 1 v Dyed Garments, 16 to 1 v Tartan, 20 to 1 each v Bendigo, Spinaway, Lady Diffidence, Melodrama, Tulkeroo, and Peru, 100 to 1 each v Proceeder, Ellis, Thackeray, Moani, Lady Esme, and Knox.

THE RACE.

The weighing out of the 19 starters was accomplished in good time, and, a quarter of an hour before the advertised time of starting, Spinaway led the procession on to the course, followed at short intervals by Proceeder, Melodrama, Welcome Trist, Thackeray, Peru, Mooltan, and the remainder, the last out being Dyed Garments, Knox, and Moani. Poseidon was cheered from all parts of the course as he appeared on the track.

The preliminaries having been taken, the horses made their way to the starting point down the straight. The barrier was lowered on time, and old Proceeder took the position on the inner rails, with Poseidon, Tulkeroo, and Welcome Trist next to him; the central division included Dyed Garments, Apologue, Bendigo, and Spinaway; while, on the extreme outside, Mountain King occupied a conspicuous position.

Mr. Godfrey Watson got the field away without much trouble, and the despatch was a good one. The white jacket of Spinaway was the first to break the line; while Proceeder, Mountain King, Apologue, Lady Esme, Melodrama, Bendigo, and Welcome Trist were smart to find their feet, and Moani was the last to move off. As the field reached the junction of the two courses Spinaway was making play from Lady Esme, Bendigo, Mountain King, Knox, Poseidon, Tulkeroo, Apologue, Melodrama, Mooltan, and Lady Diffidence; while Tartan was last of all. On reaching the distance post Mountain King had taken command, Lady Esme being almost on terms with the Derby winner; then in close order came Spinaway, Tulkeroo, Peru, Mooltan, Lady Diffidence, and Poseidon; while Dyed Garments had joined Tartan in the rear. Lady Esme led Mountain King half a length past the judge's box, Bendigo and Spinaway being close up next; then in close order succeeded Peru, Knox, and Mooltan, the tail of the field being composed of Proceeder, Dyed Garments, and Tartan. Lady Esme made the turn out of the straight without losing any ground, Mountain King being in her wake, with Bendigo close up, Spinaway (who ran out a little) next; then Knox, Mooltan, Peru, Tulkeroo, Apologue, Thackeray, Lady Diffidence, and Welcome Trist, with Poseidon among a group a little further back, and Tartan still in the rear.

As they ran along the racing stretch at the river side Lady Esme was showing the way to Bendigo and Mountain King, who were together, Knox, Spinaway, Mooltan, Peru, Welcome Trist, Apologue, and Tulkeroo being the handiest of the others; while Tartan had not improved his position. Knox was being ridden hard to get to the front, and at the bridge was alongside of Lady Esme, with Bendigo, Mountain King, Mooltan, Spinaway, and Welcome Trist the nearest of the others, and the field commencing to spread out. Knox, continuing his run, was four or five lengths in advance at the back of the course, Bendigo and Mountain King still running together next, with Lady Esme, Mooltan, and Peru all well up; Apologue had made a forward move, and was just behind this batch, while Welcome Trist headed the others; Tartan had worked his way up to the middle of the field, while Lady Diffidence and Proceeder were last. Knox had increased his advantage to six lengths at the abattoirs, Mountain King, who was on the rails, being at the head of the others; then coming Lady Esme, Mooltan, Bendigo, Apologue, Melodrama, and Welcome Trist. Knox had commenced to come back to his horses at the sheds, and as the home turn was commenced he was not more than two lengths ahead of Mountain King and Mooltan, who were running well together, with Apologue just behind them; then coming Melodrama, with Tartan moving up, and Lady Diffidence making a fast run.

Mountain King, who had kept his position on the rails all the way round, and was always in the leading division, swept into the straight just in advance of Mooltan, with Apologue's red jacket conspicuous on the outside of them; Melodrama and Lady Diffidence were next, two or three lengths behind, and then came Tartan, Knox, and Melodrama; while Dyed Garments was moving up. Mountain King only had a slight advantage from Mooltan and Apologue as they came up the straight, and at the distance the three were practically in line; the others were well away, and the race was confined to the three. Tartan and Melodrama headed the others, with Dyed Garments, Tulkeroo, and Poseidon the nearest of the rest. Mountain King was the first to give way, and then Mooltan and Apologue came on together for a few strides. Evans, riding in "Tod Sloan" fashion, was right down on Apologue's neck, and it looked certain, if he were strong enough to ride out, that the favourite would win. As the half distance was reached Apologue had his head in front of Mooltan, and finishing well he won a splendid race by three-quarters of a length. Mountain King was three lengths away third; after a gap of 10 lengths came Tartan (placed fourth by the judge), a head in front of Melodrama; Dyed Garments was four lengths away sixth, Thackeray seventh, Poseidon eighth, Bendigo ninth, Moani tenth, Tulkeroo eleventh, Lady Diffidence twelfth, Proceeder thirteenth, Knox fourteenth, Peru fifteenth, Welcome Trist sixteenth, Spinaway seventeenth, Lady Esme eighteenth, and Ellis last. Time, 3m 27½s.

APOLOGUE.

Apologue was bred in New Zealand, and is by Phoebus Apollo—son of St. Simon—from Miss Gladys—dam of the erstwhile good performer Gladsome—by Cuirassier (son of Musket) from Sybil, by Leolinus. His best effort as a two-year-old was to win a Nursery Handicap at Auckland, and though he appeared 14 times under silk as a three-year-old he failed to earn a winning bracket, but was placed on half a dozen occasions, including third to Mutiny and Master Delaval, in the Great Northern Derby, a similar position behind Nightfall and Mahutonga in the Auckland Plate, second to Parititu in the Auckland Autumn Handicap, 1¼m, and with 9st 2lb up was a close second to Waikato in the Prince of Wales Handicap, 7f, at Auckland. During last season Apologue won twice and ran into places four times. He won the Birthday Handicap, 1¼m, at the Auckland Spring Meeting, carrying 7st 8lb, beating Master Delaval, 7st 10lb, and Geordie, 7st 1lb; and the Spring Handicap, 1m, at Takapuna, carrying 9st 2lb. He made his first appearance on the Australian turf in the Final Handicap of the A.J.C. Autumn Meeting, under 7st 12lb, and finished fifth to Fez, and later on he failed to score in the Newcastle Cup under 8st 3lb, having started favourite. It was at the late Spring reunion of the A.J.C. that Apologue began to loom largely in the public eye. In the Spring Stakes, w.f.a., 1½m, he finished just behind Poseidon, and on the second day he suffered defeat by Mooltan in the Metropolitan by the merest trifle. Crossing the Murray he gave Victorians a taste of his quality by securing the Coongy Handicap under the steadying burden of 9st 5lb, and his final effort in the Caulfield Cup, in which he played second fiddle to his stable mate, Poseidon, will long be remembered by the spectators. In the meantime he has indisputably held the position of first favourite for the Melbourne Cup, and fully justified his position by annexing the valuable stake. Apologue is the third New Zealand-bred horse to win the Melbourne Cup, Martini-Henry having been successful in 1883, and the celebrated Carbine seven years later.

"FOR NEW ZEALAND'S SAKE."

Mr. R. L. Cleland, the owner of Apologue, is a New Zealander, and came over to Melbourne specially to see his horse run in the Melbourne Cup. "I am more than ever certain now that he ought to have won the Caulfield Cup," he said to-night. "I think he was a better horse than Poseidon at the weights. Of course I am pleased at having won the race, though I have not made much out of it, except the stake. I did not put much money on him myself, but I am pleased for New Zealand's sake. He is the first horse bred and owned in New Zealand that has won the big race, and they will be much pleased over there. I am not going to take him back again. I'm going to sell him by auction next week, and it's very doubtful if he will start again before then. He is not entered for any of the weight-for-age races at this meeting, and I suppose they'll crush him out of the handicaps. I'm not going to risk breaking the horse down if they do."

THE TRAINER'S VIEW.

"What did I think of the race?" Ike Earnshaw, the trainer of Apologue, said, "Well, it was a good race, well ridden and well judged, and the best horse won. We reckoned all along that he would win at the weights if the race was run to his liking, and it was run just exactly as if we had ordered it for him—fast right through. My instructions to Evans were to take him along gently for the first mile, and move into a good position, and let the horse run on. That's exactly what Evans did, and Apologue smothered them all with his finish. We're all sorry Poseidon finished so far back, but the best horse can be crushed out with weight, and that is what happened to him; the fact that the race suited Apologue was what killed Poseidon."

JOCKEY COLLAPSES.

There have been many jockeys who have won the Melbourne Cup, and they have comported themselves in many ways. Some have been vain and boastful, some have been taciturn and sulky, and some have been bashful and shy. W. H. Evans, who rode the favourite to victory to-day, was like none of these.

He heard nothing of the applause that rang from hill and stand, and lawn as he rode Apologue back into the weighing enclosure. As he came back with the clerk of the course he was swaying in his saddle, while his face was white and drawn with exhaustion. He rode into the enclosure, however, and then, instead of dismounting, slipped from the horse's side to the ground a limp heap. Earnshaw, the trainer of Apologue, sprang to the jockey's side, and lifted him up. The boy was in a fainting condition, but he had not played his part right out yet. He still had to weigh in before the horse could be declared the winner. He was carried to the scales, and, half sitting on them, half propped up against them, with his saddle beside him, he managed to hold out long enough to have the weight checked. It was all right, and at the announcement of this, the jockey's last ounce of nervous energy deserted him, and he sank to the floor in a dead faint. There was consternation for a minute or two—nobody knew exactly what had happened. Evans was carried into an inside room, where Sir Thomas Fitzgerald examined him, and he found that the boy was suffering merely from weakness and exhaustion, and ordered stimulants and rest.

The collapse was caused by Evans wasting too much. He was stated to have taken off 5½lb this morning and 5lb yesterday in a Turkish bath. After resting in the casualty room for a while, Evans recovered sufficiently to be removed to his lodgings at Newmarket. Sir Thomas Fitzgerald has enjoined on him the necessity for rest and quiet.

Evans had sufficiently recovered to-night to come into the city and attend Wirth Bros.' Olympia, where he was presented with a gold-mounted whip by the management, as a token of his prowess.

THE MINOR RACES.

The three miles Cup Hurdle Race, which set the ball rolling, only attracted eight starters, but quality was well represented by Bribery, who has a V.R.C. Grand National Hurdle Race and a Caulfield Grand National Steeplechase to his credit. He was looking much fuller than in the winter, Price having succeeded in building him up a good deal; but he was muscular in appearance. The grey Destinist, from Adelaide, was responsible for most of the pace. He jumped fairly well, but lost ground through bungling at a hurdle about seven furlongs from home. Bribery was always going nicely on the rails, and, given his head at the last hurdle, he quickly had the others in trouble, and eventually won hard held, by a length from Redfly, who showed signs of lameness before going out. Burn rode the winner, as only Burn can ride. It was an object lesson in patient and skilful horsemanship, and the length by which Bribery won, might, had Burn liked, have been indefinitely extended. F. Burn was fined £1 for being late at the post. F. Koops, the rider of Lava, who fell, received a bruised arm and slight shock.

The Railway Handicap, run over six furlongs up the straight, attracted 17 runners. Tangaroa was always a good favourite, and he eventually went out at 7 to 4, True Scot and Barrenjoey being most fancied of the others. True Scot practically led from start to finish; and made light of his 9st 7lb. Barrenjoey finished fast; but could not get on striking terms, True Scot passing the post with three-quarters of a length to spare. Tangaroa always held a forward position near the outer rails, but he did not go with his usual dash. His Derby race, probably, took more out of him than was supposed.

The Nursery Handicap was run over five and a half furlongs around the turn. Wai-ila, a member of Scobie's team, was favourite, and there was plenty of money on Bobby and Black Range. Vavasor made the pace, and Wai-ila was first into the straight; but Bobby took command before reaching the distance, and won rather easily by three-quarters of a length from Pendil, a neat Bobadil colt. The winner is also by Bobadil, and he is a good-looking bay colt, owned by Mr. J. Wilson, jun. Bobby was nicely ridden by the Sydney light-weight, J. Pike. Wai-ila was never dangerous, and could get no nearer than sixth at the finish.

The scratching pen was so freely used that a possible field of 33 for the Cup Steeplechase was reduced to 11. A favourite was speedily found in Camelot, but the New Zealander, Phaetontis, however, came in for support. Camelot was most fancied of the others. Camelot justified his position as favourite by leading practically all the way, and winning easily from Boisdale and Boomerang. Phaetontis did not find the fences to his liking, and lost ground through jumping stickily. He made a run at the leaders at the turn, but his weight began to tell, and he faded out at the finish.

Backers had been waiting for Seddon, and when it was seen that he would be produced in the Yan Yean Stakes, they installed him a hot favourite, 5 to 4 being accepted about him. Bon Grafton and Sivori were the best backed of others; but neither could get a place, and it was left to Charmant and Topedi to chase Seddon home. Seddon was quick to begin, and won from end to end in a canter. He has evidently picked up a lot since his return from Sydney.

The Black Dove, on the strength of her forward running in the Maribyrnong Plate, was in strong demand for the Encourage Stakes, but she ran badly. The race proved a runaway affair, as Cleis began fast, and, never being headed, won in a canter from Azurine. Cleis is a smart half-sister to Master Foote, from Wigelmar, and she evidently inherits his share of the family pace.

Betting: 5 to 4 v Bribery, 7 to 2 v Destinist, 6 to 1 v Deering, 8 to 1 v Red Fly, 10 to 1 v others.

Destinist was the first to make play from Manason, Lava, and Bribery. At the bridge Destinist showed the way to Bribery, Manason, and Deering, the last being Kuala Lumpur. After passing the sheds Lava fell, while Destinist was still in charge from Manason and Bribery. Destinist continued in the van past the judge's box, a neck in front of Red Fly; then came Deering, Manason, and Bribery, with Kuala Lumpur still in the rear. The pace had been very slow, but it improved going out of the straight. Along the back Red Fly went to the front, being just clear of Deering; three lengths further back were Bribery and Destinist, together; while Sea Swell had dropped back last. Destinist ran into second place to Deering at the abattoirs, with Red Fly, Manason, and Bribery in close attendance. Destinist again went to the front on entering the straight, followed closely by Bribery, who was leading Sea Swell and Redfly. Bribery led over the last hurdle, and won comfortably by a length from Red Fly, who was a length and a half in front of Deering. Destinist was a good fourth, Sea Swell fifth, Manason next, and Kuala Lumpur last. Time, 6m 4s.

True Scot, Picturesque, Le Jeune, and Pink 'Un on the inside, and Tangaroa on the outside, were first away. On reaching the course proper True Scot was just in front of Pink 'Un, Kyeadgerie, and Nucifera, while Pretty Polly, Two Step, and Tangaroa were well up on the outside. True Scot was still in command at the distance, with Kyeadgerie, Picturesque, Equiform, The Amazon, and Tangaroa in close attendance. Vavasor, Thistlebrook, and Wai-ila were the first to make use of an excellent start, the last away being Dame Wallace. Coming round the turn Thistlebrook was a length clear of Vavasor, who was followed by Black Range, Boldrewood, and Wai-ila. Vavasor led into the straight, followed closely by Wai-ila, Black Range, and Boldrewood, while Bobby was coming very fast on the outside. Before reaching the distance Bobby ran to the front from Vavasor, Pendil, and Boboli, and coming on won by three-quarters of a length from Pendil, a length and a quarter separating second and third. Boboli was fourth, Antonina fifth, Wai-ila sixth, and Black Range next; while the last two to pass the post were Soma and Dame Wallace. Time, 1m 9s.

The order at the first fence was Emperor, Camelot, Boomerang, and Divham. Racing out of the straight, Camelot took charge from Officer, Boisdale, Divham, and Boomerang. Camelot was still in front at the bridge, where Warfield came to grief. Officer was lying second, with Emperor, Boomerang, and Alcine next. Emperor fell at the back, where Camelot continued in command, from Officer, Boomerang, and Phaetontis. Camelot and Officer were together at the turn, followed, several lengths away, by Boisdale, Boomerang, Alcine, and Phaetontis. Camelot led over the last fence, and won easily by four lengths from Boisdale; Boomerang was three-quarters of a length away, third; Officer fourth, 50 lengths away; then came Alcine, Phaetontis, and Divham, with Maine last. Time, 4m 12½s.

Seddon, Bon Grafton, and Maltine were the first to find their legs, and, racing along the back, Seddon was in charge of affairs from Bon Grafton, Maltine, and Sivori, with Pierus last. Monody ran into second place at the sheds, where Seddon was still in command, their nearest attendants being Miss Maltster and Sivori. Seddon led into the straight from Bon Grafton, Saraband, Sivori, Topedi, and Charmant. The lastnamed put in a fine run from the distance, but could get within only a length and a half of Seddon. Time, 1m 3½s.

CUP DAY IN SYDNEY.

The recent anti-gambling legislation has brought about a decided change in city sporting resorts on Cup Day. Heretofore it used to be a difficult matter to walk along the section of Pitt-street between Market and Park streets, but yesterday there was little to indicate that the big race of the season was about to be decided at Flemington. The police were vigilant in the vicinity of the sporting clubs, but their duties were merely perfunctionary. There was a small gathering just about the time a wire might have been expected with the result of the Cup, but it soon dispersed. But, though there was very little wagering in the city, business was pretty brick at Ascot, where the N.S.W. Trotting Club held its customary meeting, and at Wollongong, where a race meeting under the management of the local jockey club took place. At both centres the bookmakers and their clients assembled in full, and as at both resorts full information of Cup matters at Flemington was available speculation was rife.

HARBOUR FATALITY.

ANOTHER BODY RECOVERED.

A man named Valentine Scholtz, 56, a resident of Bank-street, North Sydney, went out fishing on Sunday morning, and as he did not return, the matter was reported to the police. The water police commenced dragging yesterday morning, and after three hours' work, the body of the missing man was discovered not far from Pinchgut, and removed to the morgue. Scholtz was a hairdresser by trade, and leaves a family.

THE TARIFF.

CONSIDERATION IN PARLIAMENT.

POSTPONED ITEMS DEBATED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

There was a large attendance of members when the House of Representatives resumed consideration of the tariff this afternoon, the postponed items under the division of agricultural products and groceries being taken.

The ball was opened by an amendment on the item, "Oilmen's stores, n.e.i., being groceries, including culinary and flavouring essences, non-spirituous, soap dyes, condition foods, and other preparations used in the household, including food for birds," 20 per cent. ad valorem, 15 per cent. preference; former duty, 15 per cent. Recommendations of the Tariff Commission: Protectionist section, 15 per cent.; freetrade section, 15 per cent. Imports last year, dutiable £70,324, free, £58,135; duty paid, £9754.

Mr. JOHNSTON (N.S.W.) moved that infants and invalids' foods should be exempted from duty.

The TREASURER (Sir William Lyne) read a report from Mr. Morris, chairman of the Board of Health, Melbourne, which stated that the public were victimised by many importations, and that if they were admitted at all they should not be free, as they could be made here; and that if there was to be any admissions they should be limited to infants' food suitable for children under 7 months of age, and with certain stipulations as to their composition. The Treasurer said it would be unwise to exempt these foods.

Mr. WATSON (N.S.W.), advised that there should be an exemption for infants' goods, which should be allowed to come in free under certain prescribed conditions.

The TREASURER said he was agreeable.

Mr. JOHNSON withdrew his amendment, and moved that the duty should be 15 per cent.

The amendment was negatived by 24 votes to 14, the minority being Messrs. M'Williams, B. Smith, Johnson, D. Thomson, J. Cook, Wilks, Edwards, Knox, Hedges, Fowler, Sinclair, Brown, J. T. Brown, and Bowden.

Mr. J. COOK (N.S.W.) moved for 10 per cent.

The TREASURER then moved the addition of a sub-section providing that infants' foods should be admitted free as prescribed by the departmental bylaws.

Mr. WILKS (N.S.W.) raised the question of feasibility of the Customs officers being able to carry out the provision. It would be putting too much on the shoulders of the department. It should be allowed to stand over until the Pure Food Bill was brought in.

The TREASURER said the department would carry out the practice of consulting with the officials of the Boards of Health with State concurrence, as in the past.

Mr. JOHNSON (N.S.W.) moved to have invalids' foods included in the sub-section.

The amendment was negatived by 26 votes to 12, the minority being Messrs. Fowler, T. Brown, Sinclair, Edwards, D. Thomson, B. Smith, Wilks, J. Cook, Bowden, Johnson, Fysh, M'Williams.

Rice:—

(A) Uncleaned, 3s 4d per cental; former duty, 3s 4d. Recommendations of Tariff Commission: Protectionist section, 3s 4d; freetrade section, 3s. Imports last year, 264,198 centals; duty paid, £33,528.

(B) Rice for use in the manufacture of starch may be delivered free, as prescribed by departmental bylaws. Former duty, nil. Recommendations of Tariff Commission, nil. Imports last year, 5829 centals.

(C) N.e.i. including rice meal and flour, 6s per cental; former duty, 6s per cental meal, and flour ½d per lb. Recommendations of Tariff Commission: Protectionist section, 6s; freetrade section, 3s 9d. Imports last year, 279,522 centals, duty paid, £47,613.

Mr. CATTS (N.S.W.) moved that rice should be admitted free. It was a necessity of life for many poor people, and he was prepared to vote for a substantial bonus for rice-growing, but he was against the duty, which was a revenue one only.

The TREASURER said that Mr. Catts seemed to forget that the bulk of the rice imported was for starch-making. He wished to carry out the recommendations of the Tariff Commission. There was an excise duty proposed for starch made from imported rice.

Mr. FOWLER (W.A.) said very little evidence was obtained by the commission. He believed personally that it was an article of food that should not be taxed.

The TREASURER said the duty was not a high one. It was under a half-penny a pound.

The amendment was negatived by 27 votes to 15, the minority being Messrs. T. Brown, Fowler, B. Smith, Carr, Thomas, Catts, Poynton, J. Cook, Watson, Wilks, Batchelor, D. Thomson, Bowden, Hall, Johnson.

Mr. JOHNSON (N.S.W.) moved that the duty should be 2s on uncleaned rice.

The amendment was negatived by 23 votes to 19, and subsections A and B were then agreed to.

Mr. FOWLER moved that the duty on rice, n.e.i., in subsection C, should be 4s per cental.

The amendment was negatived by 23 votes to 19, and the whole item was then agreed to.

Salt and table preparations thereof in packages of any description not exceeding 14lb net weight, 15 per cent. ad valorem. Former duty 12s 6d a ton, or 15s per ton as oilmen's stores. Recommendations of Tariff Commission: Protectionist section, 15 per cent.; freetrade section, in parcels under 4lb 15 per cent. Imports last year included under rocksalt.

Mr. J. COOK (N.S.W.) moved that the duty should be 12s 6d per ton.

Salt: (a) Brown or dark red rock, free. Former duty, nil. Recommendation of Tariff Commission: Free. Imports last year, 150,111 cwt. (b) N.e.i., including pink rock, 20s per ton. Former duty, 12s 6d per ton. Recommendations of Tariff Commission: Protectionist section, 20s per ton; freetrade section, 5s per ton. Imports last year, 175,931cwt; duty paid, £7274.

Mr. WILSON (Vic.) moved that the duty on subsection (b) should be 12s 6d per ton.

Mr. FOWLER (W.A.) said that under the old tariff of 12s 6d, which it was now proposed by amendment to revert to, the manufacturers in Australia had progressed enormously, and were exporting salt. The whole of the trade had practically been secured, the imports being insignificant. To increase the duty would be a tax on the butter industry.

Mr. WILLIS (N.S.W.) said that the industry was thriving. Why should the duty be increased?

Mr. CROUCH (Vic.) said the salt outside Australia was controlled by a world-wide trust. Dairymen should be protected.

Mr. WISE (Vic.) said the difference in the duty would be infinitesimal in connection with butter-making. Evidence had been given before the Tariff Commission to that effect.

The amendment was negatived by 31 votes to 12, the minority being Messrs. T. Brown, Fowler, Sinclair, Edwards, Wilson, Foxton, J. Cook, Reid, Archer, M'Williams, Bowden, and Johnson.

A further motion to make the duty 15s was negatived on the voices, and the whole item was agreed to.

Soap, 25 per cent. ad valorem; former duty, perfumed 3d lb, other ½d lb. Recommendations of Tariff Commission, protectionist section 25 per cent., freetrade section 15 per cent. Imports last year, 2,038,002lb, value £79,482; duty paid, £13,906.

The TREASURER moved the addition of the following subsections:—(a) Toilet, fancy, and medicated, ad valorem 25 per cent., or 4d per lb, whichever returns the highest duty; and (b) n.e.i. ad valorem 25 per cent.

This was agreed to.

A motion by Mr. Johnson (N.S.W.) for preferential duty of 20 per cent., or 3½d per lb, whichever is the highest, was negatived by 30 to 19, and the whole item as amended by the Treasurer was agreed to.

Starch and dextrine, general tariff 2½d per lb, preferential tariff 2d; previous tariff, starch 2d, dextrine free. Recommendations of Tariff Commission: Protectionist section, starch 2d per lb, dextrine free; freetrade section, starch 2d per lb. Imports last year, 1,470,213lb; duty paid, £11,952.

On the motion of the Treasurer, dextrine was struck out.

The item as amended was agreed to.

An amendment by Mr. Johnson to make the duty ½d was negatived on the voices, and the item was agreed to.

Excise duty on starch was then taken, on the item starch, subsection A, made from rice, 1d per lb (former duty, 1d), and on which the Tariff Commission recommended no alteration.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH (N.S.W.) moved that it should apply to starch made from rice or other materials imported. The amendment was negatived by 34 votes to 13.

Mr. PAGE (Q.) said if the Government did not give the primary producer some protection they would get no support from him.

Sub-section A was agreed to.

Sub-section B, made from materials grown in the Commonwealth, free; former duty 1d; no Tariff Commission recommendations. The sub-section was carried on the voices, and the item was agreed to.

Excise on new item.—Amylic alcohol and fusel oil, 12s per gallon. Commission recommendations nil. The new item was agreed to.

Progress was reported, and the House adjourned at 11 p.m.

FISHERMEN'S NETS.

Mr. John Thomson (N.S.W.) presented a petition to Parliament to-day from a number of New South Wales fishermen, their wives and dependents, praying that the duties should be remitted on fishing nets, as petitioners were threatened with starvation on account of the high price of fishing gear.

CHRISTMAS ADJOURNMENT.

The PRIME MINISTER replied: "Inquiry is rather early, but I should hope that we should conclude the tariff at least a week before Christmas, and then adjourn over January and meet as early in February as members find convenient."

By this it was understood that Mr. Deakin anticipated the tariff schedule being finished within the House of Representatives by Christmas time, after which it has to go to the Senate.

IMPORTED CONDENSED MILK.

The Treasurer has been informed that only about one-fifth of the condensed milk imported into Australia from England was made from milk produced in the United Kingdom, and the question has arisen whether foreign milk producers should come under the preferential tariff. Sir William Lyne said to-day that he is of opinion that milk being manufactured in England entitled it to preference.

NEW SOUTH WALES PARLIAMENT.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

QUESTIONS.

The CHIEF SECRETARY, replying to Mr. Meagher, said that no action had been taken in the direction of permitting contracts for the supply of fodder to be suspended owing to the high price.

The MINISTER FOR MINES, replying to Mr. Kelly, said Mr. J. L. Fegan had been chairman of the Mining Accident Relief Fund Board since the formation, but had not drawn fees while a member of Parliament. He had now applied for fees.

The CHIEF SECRETARY, replying to Mr. Fitzpatrick, said the numerical strength of the police force in this State was 2275. Of this number 934 were ordinary constables, of whom 280, with seven years' service and upwards, who had not received promotion, were recently given an increase of 6d per day.

The MINISTER FOR PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, in reply to Mr. Beeby, said that during the last 12 months 21 public, 26 provisional, 32 half-time, one house-to-house, and four evening Public schools had been closed, owing to the attendances falling below the required average. Up till recently 75 schools were without teachers, but a number had been obtained, and many of these schools would be reopened next week. Forty-three male teachers were available for vacant schools, and would be appointed, while an examination would be held next month of candidates for the positions of teachers of small schools. As a result of the examination the department expected to have teachers available for all schools. Twenty-six subsidised schools were discontinued during the past 12 months on the proposals of the families concerned.

BETTING IN SYDNEY.

Mr. E. M. CLARK asked the Premier if the police were doing anything in regard to betting in Sydney? He quoted from a paper to show that business on the Melbourne Cup was brisk here, and pointed out that the names of the horses were published in the order in which they were most fancied for the big event. Were the police aware that betting took place in Sydney?

The PREMIER said he could understand Mr. Clark speaking with some feeling in view of the developments of the last hour. (Laughter.) He had no doubt that both betting and bad language were indulged in in Sydney. The publication of the horses' names in the order pointed out by Mr. Clark was not in itself in contravention of the Act.

CASE OF DESTITUTION.

The CHIEF SECRETARY, replying to a question asked by Mr. Morton, said that having ascertained that the widow of the man Baxter, hanged for murder at Newtown, was said to be in destitute circumstances, he made her a small cash advance at once, and arranged that she should be given a monthly allowance. (Hear, hear.)

REGULATION OF REGISTRY OFFICES.

Mr. E. M. CLARK brought up a bill to regulate registry offices. The measure was read the first time.

DISFRANCHISED ALDERMEN.

Mr. DACEY moved the adjournment of the House to call attention to the number of persons disfranchised under the Local Government Act. Unless something was done before November 14, no relief could be afforded. There was the case of the Mayor of Ashfield, a man who had devoted not only his time, but his money, for the benefit of the ratepayers, and because he resided in a house owned by his wife, he had to stand aside. He (Mr. Dacey) also found himself disfranchised, because the house in which he lived was owned by his wife.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS took the point that Mr. Dacey was out of order, on the ground that the whole question could be discussed during the financial debate on Thursday.

Mr. GRIFFITH moved that the second notice of motion for adjournment in the box be taken, but this was negatived by 35 to 20.

TESTATOR'S FAMILY MAINTENANCE BILL.

The second reading of the Testator's Family Maintenance Bill was moved by Mr. Fitzpatrick. He explained that he did not know until after the initial steps had been taken by him that Mr. Griffith had introduced an almost identical measure during last Parliament.

Mr. PRICE moved.—"That the bill be referred to a select committee for inquiry and report."

Mr. MAHONY said that the bill was in effect a proposal to interfere with testamentary dispositions on ex parte statements, and without knowing the reasons which prompted the making of a will in a particular form. He regarded it as a most mischievous proposal.

Mr. NORTON spoke in opposition to the measure, thus exhausting the time set apart for private members' business.

GRANTING CERTIFICATES OF TITLE.

The PREMIER moved.—"That leave be given to bring in a bill to provide for the issue of certificates of title to certain land purchased, appropriated, or resumed by the Government, and to amend the Real Property Act, 1900." The bill was for the purpose of giving a proper title to purchasers of land under the Darling Harbour Resumptions Act in pursuance of a promise made.

Mr. M'GOWEN said the House ought to hesitate before giving the power sought. It appeared that while the Government had power to resume the land, and sell it, it had no power to give a good title. The land was originally resumed for public purposes, and the Government would take a retrograde step by selling it.

The PREMIER: The land has been sold.

Mr. GRIFFITH said that was done without the consent of Parliament.

Mr. M'GOWEN said that if the Government had sold the land behind the back of Parliament, and contrary to the will of Parliament, it had sold it illegally.

The PREMIER: No; we have sold within our power.

Mr. M'GOWEN: Then why come to Parliament in regard to title?

The PREMIER: In order that these people who have purchased may get a title under the Real Property Act.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill read the first time.

STAMP DUTIES REPEAL BILL.

The PREMIER moved.—"That the House on its next sitting day resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the expediency of bringing in a bill to repeal the stamp duties on bills of exchange, promissory notes, drafts, and receipts, to amend the Stamp Duties Act, 1898, and the Stamp Duties (Amendment) Act, 1904, and for other purposes."

The motion was agreed to.

DEDUCTIONS IN INCOME TAX.

The PREMIER moved.—"That this House on its next sitting day will resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the expediency of bringing in a bill to provide certain deductions in respect of income tax; to amend the Land and Income Tax Assessment Act of 1895, the Land and Income Tax (Declaratory) Act, 1898, and the Land and Income Tax (Amendment) Act, 1904; and for purposes consequent thereon or incidental thereto."

The motion was agreed to by 36 to 22.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE BILL.

The PREMIER moved the second reading of the Department of Agriculture Bill. In view of rapidly increasing settlement, and the importance of encouraging the production of cereals, it was desirable to have a separate department.

Mr. NIELSEN raised a point of order that as the bill would amend the Constitution in the direction of creating another office of profit under the Crown, it should have been specifically stated in the title.

The SPEAKER overruled the point of order.

The PREMIER said that it was quite within the power of the Government to make the appointment by Executive action. The bill did not touch the question of salary at all. In providing for the new department the Government would see how far it could reduce the cost of government in other directions, and Parliament would have a full opportunity of seeing what the proposals of the Government were in view of the readjustment of portfolios. Then, if a salary was required for the new Minister, every opportunity would be afforded the House of passing an opinion.

Mr. NIELSEN said that although he considered it necessary to raise a point of order in the interests of the bill itself, he was not opposed to the purpose which it was intended to carry out. He, however, objected to doing away with the office of Chief Secretary.

Mr. DAVID STOREY said that the bill would have the approval of every thoughtful person, but the emolument of the new Minister should be fixed by statute. Incidentally he mentioned that Ministers were not paid nearly enough.

Mr. BALL: What about raising the salaries of members?

Mr. STOREY: Well, I'm not coming to that now; that would be out of order. (Laughter.)

Mr. GRIFFITH hoped when the department was established it would embrace forestry and have complete control of all irrigation works. He also suggested that under it there should be a board of exports that would see that every facility was given producers to get in touch with oversea markets. This State had lost a magnificent opportunity when the big mail contract fell through because the late Premier was acting as a tout for the Orient Company.

The SPEAKER: Order! The hon. member must withdraw that.

Mr. GRIFFITH: Why?

The SPEAKER: The hon. member is offensive.

Mr. GRIFFITH: To whom?

The SPEAKER: The hon. member is offensive to a member of this House, and must withdraw.

Mr. GRIFFITH: I have had much more offensive things said to me, and you have taken no notice.

The SPEAKER: Order! Will the hon. member resume his seat? He must withdraw that remark. I will put the Standing Orders in force if he doesn't mind.

Mr. GRIFFITH: If you tell me to I'll withdraw; but I say it is a great pity that this State should have, through the action of——

The SPEAKER (sternly): Order! The hon. member must withdraw unreservedly, and address the question.

Mr. GRIFFITH: Very well, I'll withdraw; but is the late Premier to be held so sacred that we can't——

The SPEAKER: Order!

Mr. MEAGHER welcomed the proposal to establish a Department of Agriculture.

Mr. HINDMARSH gave his warmest support to the bill; but if the new department did not administer all the Acts relating to live stock it would fail in its object.

The debate was carried on by Messrs. Price, O'Sullivan, Ball, Scobie, Norton, Beeby, Hall, Burgess, Downes, G. Miller, and Kelly, all of whom spoke in support of the Government proposal.

ADJOURNMENT.

A STORMY PASSAGE.

The Star of New Zealand arrived at Melbourne on Sunday. She left New York on September 14, the Cape of Good Hope was sighted and passed on the morning of Oct. 11, when exceptionally heavy weather commenced, gale succeeding gale. On the 14th the direction was SW, but the violence of the seas decided Captain Beck to heave the vessel to for several hours. Next day the vessel passed close to Marion Island, and on the 17th, in 49 south and 48 east, a large iceberg was in view. Easting was made on the parallel of 50½ south, the gales continuing, and the thermometer seldom rising above freezing point. On the 26th the barometer gave warning of a severe disturbance, falling to 27.80, and all articles of light construction about the decks were doubly secured. Next day a westerly gale swept up, squalls of snow enveloping the steamship, and by evening the mountainous seas made progress so difficult and dangerous that the ship was again hove to. Bad weather afterwards accompanied the vessel until within two days' steaming of Cape Otway.

FIRE ON A SCHOONER.

Another fire broke out on the auxiliary schooner Endeavour at Auckland on Oct. 26. The fire, which was located in the cabin, gained a firm hold, but after a considerable quantity of water had been poured into the vessel the flames were extinguished. The damage was estimated at considerably over £100, the cabin being completely ruined. On Oct. 13 a fire occurred on the same vessel, and the major portion of the cabin was destroyed.

At the coroner's inquiry the jury returned the following verdict:—"We are of opinion that both fires were wilfully caused by some person or persons intimately connected with the ketch Endeavour; also that there is not sufficient evidence to enable us to determine by whom the fires were originated."

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The Navigation Department notify that the barquentine Kate Tatham capsized in the North Harbour, Newcastle, 300ft west of No. 5 Stockton dolphins. The vessel is 183ft long, and lies east and west in 13ft, low water springs. The hull is showing 8ft above water. The position indicated by a red flag during the day, and two red lights vertical at night. Masters of vessels are warned to exercise care in passing to the eastward, as the tide sets across from the derelict to No. 5 Stockton.

FINANCIAL.

HEAVY BANK CLEARINGS.

The clearings of the Sydney banks during the week ended November 4 totalled £6,215,901, against £5,124,179 for the corresponding week last year. A very substantial increase. For periods from January 1 to nearest dates in the undermentioned years the following comparison may be made:—

January 1 to November 9, 1903	£152,626,408
January 1 to November 7, 1904	147,450,279
January 1 to November 6, 1905	154,658,844
January 1 to November 5, 1906	178,622,337
January 1 to November 4, 1907	195,602,577

There has thus been an increase of £16,980,240 up to date this year, against last. The clearings of the Melbourne banks from January 1 to October 28 totalled £189,728,479, an increase of £16,643,849. It looks as though the Sydney clearings will exceed those of the Melbourne banks after all this year.

COLONIAL MUTUAL FIRE.

Smaller profits were made by this company during the year endede September 30. The net profits, according to the balance-sheet just issued, amounted to £31,572, which with the balance brought forward made £42,154 available for distribution. The board recommends a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, absorbing £8000, and a bonus at the rate of 12½ per cent., absorbing £20,500, that £10,000 be added to the reserve, and £11,654 carried forward into next account. The following comparison may be made:—

SYDNEY AND LONDON AS WOOL CENTRES.

The Sydney and London wool trades take, as might have been expected, very different views of the merits of their respective cities as wool-selling centres. There has been some discussion on the subject in the financial supplement of the "Times." "A Member of the Trade" upholds the pre-eminence of London, and says that those who speculated in Sydney of late years and shipped to London for resale did well out of the business. "A few Australians," he writes, "who were well posted as to the condition and prospects of the wool industry in Europe, were among those who took advantage in successive years of favourable opportunities, but, naturally, the vast majority of Australian growers did not possess the knowledge of the position of the wool trade which enabled French, German, and English buyers to operate extensively in colonial markets, showing an eagerness in purchasing which was justified by the knowledge 'that whatever happened they couldn't lose.' Similarly at the close of 1905 some New Zealand owners, when crossbred wool was sold in London at the second and third series of 1906 at 1s per lb which a few months previously had realised 8d per lb at the local auctions, were wise enough not only to ship their own clips to London, but to purchase wool from their neighbours. I am well aware that I am recapitulating facts well known to those engaged in the wool trade, and that it is unnecessary to prove that the only reason which induces wool buyers to travel thousands of miles to the Australian colonies is that they appreciate the advantages of lessened competition which the numerous and widely scattered selling centres, where large quantities of wool are offered practically simultaneously, ensure."

THE STATUS OF ACCOUNTANTS.

Now that a Federal body of accountants has been formed, amalgamating the leading institutes of the various States, no time should be lost in obtaining legislative protection. What is wanted is not monopolistic rights, but the power to prevent unqualified men from undertaking the technical work of accountancy. In the early days the doors of this body will of necessity have to be kept wide open, but as the years roll on, the next generation will benefit from the labours of those few enthusiasts now endeavouring to raise the status of the profession. It is not here only that the legislature is being invoked. Mr. Woodburn Kirby, at the annual meeting of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of London, demanded a legislative recognition of the profession. The educational training of the accountant ran on similar lines to that which qualified the solicitor and medical man, both as to period of preparation and drastic character of qualifying examinations. This training was common to the Institute of Chartered Accountants and some other societies of accountants, but there were certain minor bodies of men, who, having been presumably unable to qualify for membership of the recognised bodies, had associated themselves under various titles. It was high time, he thought, that the public were guarded against these unqualified free lances. The difficulty in the way of legislative recognition had hitherto been the want of cohesion among the qualified bodies. Surely the time had arrived when the various qualified bodies of accountants, while agreeing to preserve their respective organisations, privileges, and titles, should work hand in hand to settle a scheme which would justify the Government in carrying through Parliament a bill to recognise the status of public accountants, and confer on them the right to the exclusion of all others to practise as such, whether as auditors of public companies and of municipal or other bodies, or as liquidators, receivers, or trustees of bankruptcies and otherwise. He exhibited the misleading business cards of some of the reprobated free lances, certain of whom he stigmatised as pirates. One of these had to confess in a court of law that the "C.A." after his name merely signified "collector of accounts." There was, he thought, urgent need of educating the public mind in regard to all these matters. The position in England is evidently exactly on all fours with that here.

VICTORIA ENVIOUS.

The budget proposals to decrease taxation in the way of stamp duty on promissory notes, bills of exchange, and so forth has already attracted envious attention from neighbouring States. The Melbourne "Age" remarks with reason that in these days of keen competition every fraction of cost that can be saved is of importance, more especially in cases where the world's prices have to be accepted. It may be thought that such an item as 2/ per cent. is not felt in commercial transactions, but this charge for stamp duty represents in the aggregate a tax of £7000 on the export wool trade of Victoria last year. The representatives of foreign houses who come out here every season are always watching for chances to economise, and if Sydney offers better financial facilities than Melbourne purchasers will undoubtedly favour the former city whenever practicable. The attendance at the Sydney wool sales will consequently be better than elsewhere, with the result, the "Age" fears that wool will be deflected to that centre, to the detriment of Melbourne selling firms and financial institutions. So far from encouraging the oversea trade of Victoria, the State authorities are about to impose further disabilities thereon in the shape of the Stamps Act Amendment Bill. Thereby it is proposed to coerce foreign customers into effecting their marine insurance under open policies with local companies. The direct gain to the State is set down at £3000 per annum, but on the basis mentioned in the bill less than half that sum would accrue to the revenue. For the sake of this paltry amount, purchasers of Victorian products are to be subjected to an irritating interference with their own business methods, which is calculated to drive them to other financial centres. In view of the action of New South Wales referred to above, the Melbourne journal urges that perhaps the Premier of Victoria may think it wise to abandon the Stamps Amendment Bill. The state of the revenue at all events, it thinks, offers no justification for any penurious treatment of local traders.

THE CUSTOMS AND THE IMPORTER.

Yesterday's "Herald" gives an account of the Customs Department taking a shipment of Japanese goods at the declared value with 10 per cent. added, which is permitted under section 161, the Customs Act, 1901. Looking at this procedure in a cursory way, it would appear to be legal and just, and the importer has no right to complain. But if a little consideration is given to this matter, it will be at once seen how unjust and oppressive the exercise of this section of the Customs Act can be made. The Customs Act requires the importer to declare the value of his goods at the port of export, and at the fair market value ruling there, which, with 10 per cent. added, is the sum the Act requires him to pay duty on. Merchants endeavour to buy goods in the cheapest market, so that their trading operations may have the element of profit. This is what is termed "well bought," and is a perfectly legitimate proceeding. Yet if the Customs Department can see its way to make the profit instead of the merchants, it can, under this section of the Act, take the goods and sell them after ascertaining that there is a sure profit and no risk. So all the merchant's forethought, labour, and business acumen merely goes to swell the exchequer. It is the intention of the Federal authorities to limit an importer's profit to 10 per cent? Japanese goods are bulky, the freight and other charges before they reach the market swell the cost to the merchant, but it is the declared net invoice value, plus 10 per cent., the Customs are giving, and so get a considerable advantage, even the duty paid at the time of declaring cannot be demanded as a refund. Any goods could with advantage be taken over by the Customs if the sum paid for them is the invoice cost, plus 10 per cent., and retention of the duty paid. The merchant has to pay sea freight, insurance, commission and other charges, which considerably reduce his profit. All these the Customs Department would escape. The additional 10 per cent. paid by the Customs would not nearly cover the charges. That such a section of the Act should be availed of except in cases of a glaring attempt to get at the revenue, would thus be a grave scandal. Even in such a case the department, if it can prove the correctness of its suspicions, has other and effective remedies.

HARRISON, JONES, AND DEVLIN.

The annual report of the above company covering the 12 months ended September 30, shows a net profit of £17,766, to which £5231, the balance from the previous year, being added, made £22,997 avilable for distribution. The board recommended a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, absorbing £7000, writing £5000 off premises, etc, transferring £5000 to the reserve fund, and carrying £5997 forward. The following comparison may be made:—

The report and balance-sheet were adopted at a meeting held yesterday, under the presidency of Mr. Richard Jones, M.L.C.; and Mr. J. T. Walker was re-elected a director, Mr. Richard Jones managing director, and Messrs. G. R. Harrison and E. H. Sully auditors.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The wool market was somewhat easier yesterday, except for superior descriptions. In all, 6053 bales changed hands.

Mr. William H. Perry, F.S.I.A., has admitted Mr. Milton F. M. Johnson as a partner in his business as accountant, etc.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have sold 10 shares in the "Daily Telegraph" Newspaper Company, Limited, at £70 per share.

Gold imports into the State during October are returned by the Customs Department as £333,273, while exports during the same period totalled £158,984.

The net import of gold was thus £174,289, which, together with the local production for the month, represents approximately the addition to the State's stock of the precious metal for the period.

"QUACKERY PREVENTION BILL."

Traders in proprietary medicines and the like will be interested in the measure now before the New Zealand Parliament, entitled the Quackery Prevention Bill. A select committee has recommended that the bill in its present form be not proceeded with; but that, instead, legislation be passed this session to prevent the advertising and supply of any medicine or appliance alleged to be for the prevention, alleviation, or cure of any human ailment or physical defect that, in the opinion of a Judge of the Supreme Court, is harmful to health, or of a fraudulent nature, or of such character that it cannot have the effect claimed for it, or cannot effect the purpose for which it was supplied. Further, that the formulae of preparations be published on the labels, except in the case of—(1) doctors' prescriptions; (2) where it can be proved to a Supreme Court Judge that a preparation is original and a secret one, and that it is (a) not harmful to health; (b) not of a fraudulent nature; (c) that it is of such a character as may have the effect claimed for it; (d) that it may be safely used by uninstructed persons. Still further recommendations are that no deceptive name shall be given to any preparation, such as "Dr. ——'s Patent Cure;" and that no person other than a qualified medical practitioner, or qualified veterinary surgeon, be permitted to sell or supply any preparation which may be used for preventive purposes. "Appliance" or "preparation" is to be defined by "Gazette" regulation.

THE BEET SUGAR CROP.

Herr Licht, on September 18, published the commercial estimates of the coming beetroot crops. These gave a range of 6,230,000 tons to 6,700,000 tons, and indicated a probable crop of about 6,450,000 tons, against 6,790,000 tons last campaign; but since the publication of these figures, the fine weather of September has greatly improved crop prospects all over Europe. The saccharine contents of the roots are now much the same as at the corresponding period of last year, although weights were still about 5 per cent. deficient a month ago. The steady decline in quotations since Herr Licht's estimate was published suggests that the weather during the past month has favoured larger production.

DESPATCH NOTES FOR SPIRITS.

It has been decided that when Australian spirits are forwarded under bond between ports, or interstate, the despatch notes must show the dates on which the spirits were placed in wood, so that the officers at destination may be enabled to see, with regard to clearances for home consumption on and after January 1, 1908, that the provisions of section 12 of the Spirits Act, 1906, are complied with.

THE RISE IN COCOA.

According to the London "Grocer," raw cocoa has not been so dear as it is to-day since 1878. In December of that year superior Trinidad realised 121/ to 125/ per cwt, as compared with 118/ now, the latter figure representing about double the price of 15 months ago. The rise in value is due entirely to the failure of crops last year, and although a similar experience is not anticipated this season, the production of cocoa cannot be estimated with any accuracy until the harvest is well advanced. How far prices will decline will depend upon the quantity of supplies offering, but many manufacturers are entirely out of stock, and will probably be anxious buyers. A move of this kind would help to keep values up to the present level for some time to come. The Commonwealth imported in 1906 cocoa beans and manufactured cocoa to the extent of 7510cwt, and cocoa and chocolate weighing 28,586cwt.

DEARER WHISKY.

No alterations have been notified in the spot whisky quotations, but when the mail left Scottish and English grain whisky distillers were intimating an advance in the price of their product of 2d per gallon, while the Irish distillers were to raise prices by 3d per 28 o.p. gallon. The reason given for the advance is the higher cost of coal, maize, and other materials. This development was fully expected in the trade, and blenders have been preparing for it. Two years ago the price was advanced 1d per gallon.

BREADSTUFFS.

Wheat was in an moderate position. There were buyers at 5/, but no declared sellers below 5/3.

Flour had very little attention. Leading brands were still quoted at £12, but some good second quality was seeking buyers at £11/10/.

Wheat and Flour by Rail.—The receipts of wheat and flour by rail at Darling Harbour and other metropolitan stations during the week ended November 2 compare with those of the previous week and the corresponding week of last year as follows:—

	Wheat. Tons.	Flour. Tons.
Week ended November 2	1331	517
A week previous	903	380
A year ago	2859	539

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Tea.—The market was strong, though less active. Sales were reported of 150 Ceylons and Indians at /8 to /10, 350 Ceylons at /8 to 1/2, 420 Indians at from /7½ to /8.

Tarrant and Co., in their market report for September, say that the immediate prospects were generally unfavourable, heavy rains and high winds having been experienced in most of the planting districts. Shipments from the first had been very light during the month, flush having been considerably retarded in most districts, owing to the gales and heavy rains which had been experienced. Prices were, in consequence, considered likely to remain firm.

Groceries.—400 cases of new season's dates landing sold at /3½ and 25 boxes of Jordan almonds, 24 to the ounce, went at 2/. Distributing trade was steady, and quotations generally without alteration. Cream of tartar was weaker in tone in consequence of cables intimating that shipments were coming forward as usual this month.

Oils.—Linseed oil was variously quoted at 3/7½, and 3/8 for Blundell's raw and 3/9 and 3/10 for boiled; but collected sales were reported of 300 drums of Blundell's and Ferguson's on the basis of 3/7 and 3/6 for raw respectively. Five casks of Ferguson's also went at 3/5 and 3/7. Thistle also was sold at 3/6. It is improbable, however, that much of Blundell's raw oil could be purchased under 3/7½. Hubbuck's was sold to arrive on the basis of 3/6 and 3/8. Castor and China were neglected, and most other lines were quiet at late rates.

Metals.—G.C. iron is easier. Prices on the local article have been reduced nearly 10/ all round, and there has been a corresponding fall in the prices of imported brands. Orb, in short lengths, had quotations in parcels at £22/15/, Redcliffe at £22/5/, Dagger at £22, Globe £21/15/, and Emu £21/15/. Netting in assorted sizes is also down a little, being quoted at 27½ off list. Rabbit sizes are also easier. Lysaght's prices for 42 x 1½ x 17 being down, although not for the time being quoted firm. B. and F. was quoted at £34/10/, B.B.B. £35/10/, heavy German £37/10/, White Cross £41/10/. Tinplates were worth 16/11 to 17/ on spot, and had sales at 16/9 to arrive ex Suffolk. Bar iron sold at £10/15/ for parcels and £11 for smaller lots. Sheets were quoted at £11, plus the usual extras, under 3-16ths. American barbed wire was quoted at £16/10/ for 12 and £18 for 14, but some Victorian brands were offering at £15/15/ and £17/10/ respectively. German fencing wires sold at late quotations.

Jute.—A sale of cornsacks made late on the previous evening was reported at 6/1 slings. Otherwise they were offering at 6/3 to 6/4 delivered. Melbourne might have been heard further from had it not been a holiday over there. Sales of wire-end packs were reported at 2/8 and 2/8½. Fast ends were firm at 2/10. Branbags sold at 5/4, but some holders were asking 5/8½.

BUTTER SHIPMENT.

The steamer Banffshire, which sailed for London, via ports, yesterday, carried 1064 boxes of butter for the home market, consigned by:—N.Z. Loan and Mercantile Agency, 45 boxes; Dalgety and Co., 50; R. Hay, 319; Farmers and Settlers' Association, 537; Hawken and Vance, 74.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

Closing quotations are:—

Bar silver is quoted to-day 2/3¾ per ounce standard.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

The wheat market continues to be somewhat demoralised. Interstate buyers are not eager for supplies, as London this morning was advised to be weaker. The price of old wheat was reduced 1d to 4/4, being the price also for new. Farmers are not inclined to meet the market readily, and business is quiet. Flour is unsettled, leading brands being still quiet at £12. Bran and pollard is worth 1/5. No alteration has yet been announced of chaff. Farmers are not selling hay with any freedom. Toos /10½ to /11½. Eggs cleared /7½.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

About 4000 bags of wheat sold at 5/ for shipment, the market closing unsettled, sellers asking 5/. The association basis for flour was reduced by £1 to £11/10, and bran and pollard were unchanged at 1/7. Algerian oats were slightly weaker in sympathy with other lines. Good milling to 3/8 a truck, good feed sold 3/6½. Maize was weaker and irregular at 4/3 to 4/4, and occasionally to 4/6. Peas were irregular at 4/3 to 4/6. Chaff receded; prime £5/17/6 to £6, good £5/15. Prime potatoes in small supply and steady; Redsoil sold up to £5/5, Pinkeye to £5. Snowflake up to £4/10. Inferior were in heavy supply down to £2. Onions were weaker and irregular, nominally £6 to £7.

Business in tea covers 300 packages Ceylon to /11, and 800 half chests China. 50 chests dedicated coconut sold. 25 boxes of Jordan almonds sold. Cornsacks were firmer owing to improved crop prospects, nearly 1000 bales being sold, prices advancing from 6/3 to 6/5½, and at close 6/5 to 6/6 was quoted. Branbags were 5/3½ to 5/4, woolpacks 2/11 to 3/. Fair business was done in tinplates. Denaturated China oil sold at 3/3.

MELBOURNE FRUIT MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Queen Victoria Market to-day fruit sold as follows:—Apples, 4/ to 8/6 case; cherries, /5 to /6 per lb; gooseberries, ripe, /1 to /2½ lb; oranges, 5/6 to 10/ case; lemons, 3/6 to 7/ case. The following prices ruled in the Western Market:—Local strawberries, /8 lb; gooseberries, 6/, 7/ case; cherries, 6/ to 8/ half-case; apples, eating, 7/ to 12/6 case; ditto, cooking, 6/, 9/ case; lemons, 3/ to 4/6 case; passionfruit, 9/, 11/ case; Mildura oranges, 10/ to 12/ case; ditto, navels, 12/, 14/ case; ditto lemons, 6/ to 7/6 case; Tasmanian apples, eating, 7/ to 11/6 case; ditto, cooking, 7/6, 9/ case; N.S.W. oranges, 7/ to 9/ case; ditto, navels, 9/ to 10/6 case; ditto, mandarins, 6/ to 7/6; ditto lemons, 3/ to 4/ case; ditto loquats, 5/ to 7/; case; ditto passionfruit, 9/ to 14/ case; tomatoes, 7/6 half-case; Queensland pines, 8/ to 10/ double-case; bananas, 15/ to 17/ double-case; ditto, 4/6 to 5/6 bunch.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX STREET.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

The maize holders picked themselves up after Monday's tragedy, and the signs of panic abated a little. Some of them were strong enough to quote again, and to declare that the recent reverse was but a temporary victory for the watercart. These hardy veterans are certain that the grain will rise again to 4/6 a bushel. Meanwhile they quote 4/3; while other timid souls obtrude their anxiety to sell at 4/.

Of other grain, oats are dull at 3/6 to 3/7; chickwheat and barley remaining nominal.

Bran and pollard continue their downward career, 1/3 being considered a high price. Some sales were actually made at 1/1, while others were rumoured at a shilling. But for practical quotations 1/2 to 1/3 give the strength of the market.

In fodder lines, owing to the causes set forth in yesterday's issue, prices remained fairly constant. Lucerne might be obtained on the wharf at £6/5/ a ton. Chaff, Western Australian, dropped only 5/ of its late value, while the other grades and varieties suffered in about the same ratio. There was a good demand, and it went off pretty well at the prices given below.

The Victorian shipment of oaten, being merely in process of unloading, was hardly quotable, but what figures were given ran from £5/15/ to £6 a ton.

AUCTION SALES.

MARKET STILL DECLINING.

Buyers turned up in fairly good numbers at the railway auction sales, when 80 truckloads of mixed produce were submitted. It was rather a slow sale, only 19 lots being disposed of. Chaff made 7/ for extra prime, 6/ for prime, good 5/7 to 5/9, rough 3/6 to 3/11. Ten lots sold out of 14. Of the lucerne hay, six trucks came forward, and four sold at the following rates: medium small bales, 5/ to 5/3; inferior large 3/1 to 3/11. Two oaten hay lots were offered, and both moved. Old prime from Newbridge realised 6/6, new green from Cowra, 3/3. Some more quill reeds from the Hawkesbury met a similar fate to the last, only 2/7 being offered. Good chick wheat brought 5/1, and maize passed at 4/1. Some medium Brownell potatoes brought 5/5. Every line of produce showed a decline on the previous day's sale, which in turn was much lower than a week ago. The market is thus getting nearer to normal conditions.

For the sale of November 7, 384 sheep vans, 76 D trucks, and 61 cattle waggons; for November 11, 378, 56 D trucks, and 127.

CITY YARDS.

At yesterday's pig sales, nearly 1700 were yarded, the heaviest supply penned for some considerable time. All classes were well represented. A great many, however, were of only medium quality. Buyers were in the usual attendance, but as the number proved ample for the requirements, competition was not so spirited as of late, and values ruled lower all round.

The following prices were realised:—

Backfatters: Prime heavy £4 to £4/10/, odd higher, good £3/10/ to £4, medium £3 to £3/10/, rough sorts from £2/10/. Baconers: Extra prime and heavy £3 to £3/6/, good and weighty £2/10/ to £3, prime light £2 to £2/10/, medium quality from £1/15/. Porkers: Extra prime and heavy £1/10/ to £1/14/, good £1/5/ to £1/10/, medium £1 to £1/5/, prime light 15/ to £1, inferior lower.

SYDNEY WOOL SALES.

Sales were held yesterday at the Sydney Wool Exchange, Bridge-street, when the quantity catalogued totalled 7288 bales, and the sales, including private transactions, amounted to 6053 bales, as under:—

Broker.	Offerings.	Sales. At Auction.	Privately, ex Catalogue.	Privately, Uncatalogued.	Total Sales.
Schute, Bell, and Co.	1,301	1,079	26	76	1,181
John Bridge and Co., Ltd.	4,267	3,048	385	24	3,457

As compared with last week the market was easier, only superior free wools of fine quality holding their own. Good wools were easier, and average to medium grades decidedly lower. Well-grown pieces and broken were a shade weaker, and faulty bellies, unless very fine, also easier. Good crossbreds ruled very firm, but burry sorts were dull of sale.

Schute, Bell, and Co. offered a catalogue, including some wools of very nice quality, although in many instances of unsound staple, and carrying burr. The bulk of the wool came from the southern and central-western districts of the State, the Mudgee district being represented by the AXN/Grattai brand, which opened up in very attractive condition. In the grease the highest price was /14, paid for 16 cbk of JH/C (Coolingatta), a wool of good useful quality, in nice condition. MINING INTELLIGENCE

THE SHARE MARKET.

The buoyant tone of the last few days, with an upward tendency in prices, gave place yesterday to a feeling of lassitude, with share values weakening in the majority of cases. It is difficult to account for the sudden change, except it may be due to a weakness in metal values, and a growing belief that a period of dear money will have a restrictive effect upon the London Stock Exchange. It is just possible, also, that the financial troubles in New York have a more far-reaching effect than is generally believed.

In the copper section, Mount Elliots sold on six weeks terms, at 56/6 and 55/6. Mount Molloys eased from 11/ to 10/6; O.Ks. from 5/10 to 5/8, and Wallaroo and Moonta from 41/ to 39/6.

Holders of silver scrip did not experience a happy time, for B.H. Souths (paid) dropped from £5/1/ to 98/, and the contributing scrip from 90/6 to 85/; whilst B.H. Proprietary receded from 64/ to 61/, and B.H. Junction North from 25/3 to 24/. Sulphides held steady at 11/3.

Tin shares were represented by a transaction in Smith's Creek Tin at 5/9, a decline of /6. A fair amount of business was done in gold stocks at steady rates, the mines dealt in being Araluen Central, Great Northern, Mount David, and Associated Gold Mines.

The afternoon was practically a dead letter as regards the amount of business transacted. This was possibly due to the fact that the Melbourne Stock Exchange had adjourned for the Melbourne Cup, and the Adelaide Stock Exchange members were apparently in no mood for business for the same reason. Hence the exchange of telegrams was very slight. The most noticeable changes recorded were a further fall in B.H. South, paid, from 98/ in the morning to 94/, and in the contributing scrip from 85/ to 84/. A prompt transaction in B.H. Junction North was booked at 23/9, which indicated weakness. Both tin and gold stocks were neglected.

MINING NOTES.

The gold yield of the New Hillgrove Proprietary mines for October was 501oz from 197 tons of ore.

In London, on Monday, lead was quoted at £18/5/, a decline of 2/6 per ton, copper at £65/12/6, a fall of £1/7/6 per ton, and tin at £142/15/.

Both plants of the Bourke's Hill Tin-sluicing Company, Emmaville, are running on payable wash. A very satisfactory yield for this month is expected.

The Ferris Tin-sluicing Company, Stannifer, has finished up a month's run, and expect a fair yield. The ground is slightly hard but can be dealt with by the nozzle.

Prospecting work on the Wolfram leases of the Elliott Tin-mining and Sluicing Company, at Torrington, is being carried out, pending the appointment of a new manager.

It is expected that the plant of the Brookman's United Gold-mining Company, Wyalong, will be completed in a few days, when development work in the mine will be pushed on.

The Golden Alexandra Company (Charters Towers) reports a crushing of 637 tons, for gold valued at £3300, and the Mills' United Company 1300 tons, for gold valued at £10,180.

London quotations, dated November 4, received by the B.H. Proprietary give the official quotations for silver at 2/3¾, and the buying price for lead £18/5/; company's shares 60/, and spelter £22/2/6.

The general manager of the Myall and Peak Hill gold mines reports as follows:—"For the four weeks ended October 5, a profit was made of £273 at the Peak Hill section, and £51 at the Myall."

The No. 2 plant of the Elsmore Tin-sluicing Company has been shifted to a new position, and has resumed sluicing. No. 1 plant was blown in on October 31. Pumping has been restarted, and everything is running well.

The No. 1 dredge of the Amalgamated Tin-dredging Company sluiced 138 hours last week for 3½ tons of tin. The water supply is fair. No. 2 dredge started sluicing on the 5th inst., on overburden, with a fair water supply.

Private cables state that amongst the shares quoted on the London Stock Exchange on Monday were the following:—B.H. Block 10, s 72/6; B.H. Block 14, b 22/6; B.H. Proprietary, 60/7½ (m); B.H. South (paid), b 96/3; B.H. North, b 52/6; B.H. South Blocks, b 19/; Mount Elliotts, b 53/6; Chillagoes (contg.), 5/3 (m); Mungana, 8/3 (m).

The Stannum Lode Tin-mining Company, Stannum, is, in Warrell's shaft, driving south on shoot of ore of excellent appearance carrying 40 p.c. of tin. The stone at grass will be put through battery at once, and is expected to yield 6 tons of tin concentrates. Work in Judge's section has been suspended temporarily, and the men concentrated in Warrell's section.

The Commonwealth Silver Lead Co., Ltd., has been formed, with a capital of £20,000, in 40,000 shares of 10s each, to acquire certain mineral rights on section 2728, Strathalbyn, South Australia, and to carry on mining operations generally. The registered office will be in New South Wales. The Conqueror Copper-mining Company, No Liability, has been formed, with a capital of £1000, in 100 shares, to conduct mining operations near Illewong, New South Wales, or elsewhere. MOUNT MORGAN GOLD-MINING COMPANY.

INCREASED TONNAGE, DECREASED METAL VALUES.

MINING IN THE STATE.

DEEPWATER, Tuesday.

A general meeting of shareholders in the Stannum Vale Deep Lead Tin-mining Company was held at Deepwater on Saturday, Mr. R. Macansh in the chair. It was resolved that 150 further shares of £5 each be issued to the present shareholders, at the rate of our new share for holders of two £5 paid shares. This will enable the company to register 450 shares of £5 each, the capital being £2250, out of which £1500 have been expended in developing the mine. The shaft has been sunk through basalt to 160ft, and equipped with an up-to-date plant. Lignite has been met with, consequently sinking is proceeding apace, and bedrock appears within easy reach. About 40,000 gallons of water are pumped in 24 hours.

TIN-MINING INDUSTRY.

TINGHA, Saturday.

The Melbourne Cope's Creek Tin-dredging is still operating on overburden. A clean-up was made during the week, and it is estimated that the returns for the month will total 10 tons of tin. The first portion of machinery for the No. 2 plant has arrived, and the remainder is expected on the ground in a few days. The plant, which is a portable one, will be erected about a quarter of a mile down the creek from the present barge.

The Tingha Consolidated Tin-dredging Company's No. 1 dredge has washed up about one ton of tin for the week, bringing up the month's output to 4 tons 9cwt. No. 2 cleaned up 1 ton 15cwt for about 10 days, sluicing work having been resumed as soon as the injunction granted against them was removed. No. 3 will have about 4 tons 6cwt when the wash-up is completed in a few days. No. 4 has washed up for 6 tons 10cwt approximately for this week, which will make about 12½ tons of tin for the month. No. 5 cleaned up on Friday night for about 2 tons of tin for a fortnight's run, making a yield of 5 tons 16cwt of tin for the month.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The milling operations of the Broken Hill mines last week are shown in the subjoined table:—

—	Ore Treated.	Concentrates.	Assay Value, Lead.	Assay Value, Silver.	Assay Value, Zinc.
Central	3740	588	55.5	31.1	10.2
B. H. North	1563	251	59.8	27.4	5.5
B. H. South Blocks	4806	602	70.1	20.0	5.8
British B. H.	2600	423	61.2	28.5	9.6
B. H. Junction	1459	177	57.9	28.4	3.4
B. H. Block 14	1559	173	61.8	28.0	5.8

During the past week the Cockle Creek works of the Sulphide Corporation produced 578 tons of bullion, containing 1177oz gold, and 55,976oz silver.

The B.H. Junction mine last week raised 1473 tons, chiefly from No. 8 level. The working stopes show no material change.

The B.H. Junction North mine was idle on Saturday owing to a breakage in the water service. The electric pump is expected to be complete next week, when such troubles are expected to be avoided. Although plenty of ore is available the mine has continual trouble with its truckers, which prevents the raising of ore. Some 19 men pulled out last week.

Several of the mine made small despatches of concentrates last week, under buyers' orders. The carbonate stopes show but little change. In the sulphide section, the 300ft level ore bodies still show 30 to 40 feet wide. Large supplies of milling ore continue to be drawn from the 400ft level. The 500ft level stopes for the week averaged 13.8 p.c. lead, 10.6oz silver, and 12 p.c. zinc. A development of some importance occurred at the 400ft level, where the bore put out east is in 6ft of payable ore. Bore is still in ore, and judging from the stope below, should disclose a large and important body.

The B.H. South mine's old mill has been connected with the electric power plant to drive a tube mill and Gates breakers. The diamond drill No. 47, at the 970ft level, was extended to 104½ft, and stopped. The first 47ft were in rich ore, then followed 27ft of barren ground, succeeded by 21ft of medium grade ore. The last 9½ft was again in barren ground.

ORE DESPATCHES.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The output of the B.H. Proprietary for the four weeks ending October 30 totalled 49,381 tons of crudes, the increased quantity being due to the work of the new air compressor. The mill treated 46,462 tons of crudes, producing 7118 tons of leady concentrates and 6383 tons of smelter slimes. The retreatment plant dealt with 6987 tons of ore, producing 340 tons of leady concentrates, and 613 tons of zinc concentrates, and the acid plant 405 tons of strong acid. A total of 6302 tons of raw slimes was built into kilns at the sintering works, and 6615 tons of sintered slimes were sent away.

The B.H. Junction North's despatches last week were 415 tons of concentrates, leaving 332 tons on the floors. The ore raised for the week totalled 1500 tons, 426 tons from No. 8 level, 555 tons from No. 9, and 519 tons from No. 10. All the stopes are in a fair producing condition on No. 8 level. A west crosscut put in at section 23 met the hanging wall at 16ft. The ore passed through was too poor to be of any value. The ore in the winze in this section is of better grade.

THE LUCK OF MINING.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The Mines Department has received a report from the police at Roeburne of the discovery of gold 12 miles from that town. Sergeant Pilmer, who reports on the subject, states: "A payable gold-bearing reef has been discovered 12 miles west of Roebourne. I visited the locality, and found that a reward lease had been pegged out by the prospector. The reef is easily traceable for 16 chains. Hays, the prospector, has sunk nine feet, and driven on reef nine feet, which is 2ft 6in wide, and worth 7oz to 10oz to the ton. On each side of the reef, there is a foot of formation carrying fine gold, and giving splendid results in the dolly pot, though nothing can be seen in shape of gold with the naked eye, reef and formation.

In connection with the same discovery, Sub-Inspector Osborne writes from Roebourne, that it was made only a few feet from old workings, where a lot of money had been sunk. The original owner is said to have abandoned work only three feet from where the discovery was made.

LUNATIC ASYLUMS.

EX-PATIENT'S ALLEGATIONS.

James Augustus Hall Poulton desires the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire respecting the management of the hospital for insane.

According to his petition, presented to the Legislative Assembly last night by Mr. Fitzpatrick, he on January 17, 1888, completed a term of imprisonment of two months in the Orange and Bathurst gaols "for singing hymns on the Molong railway platform." Instead of being released from custody, he was subjected to examination within the precincts of Bathurst Gaol, with a view to proving him insane. After, he was removed to the Parramatta Lunatic Asylum. "Both these proceedings," the petitioner remarks, "were direct breaches of the Habeas Corpus Act." He was detained in the three asylums for a period of 16 years 10 months and 25 days. Whilst an inmate of those asylums, he was "subjected to many serious assaults from demonaic patients," whereby his life was frequently endangered. He alleges that his injuries are so serious that he is rendered "utterly unfit for the performance of his duties as a minister of religion." Mr. Poulton asks for a Royal Commission to inquire into the hospital management.

The Legislative Assembly formally received the petition.

SOCIETY FOR CHILD STUDY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Society for Child Study was held last evening at the Royal Society's Rooms, Elizabeth-street.

Dr. Chisholm Ross, the retiring president, spoke on the objects of child study, and reviewed briefly the work of the year. He referred to the potential capacity of the average child, the maternal influence on the unborn child, and the care of the mother. The development of children and the necessity of educating will power were touched on. He deplored the lack of reverence becoming more pronounced each year in children, and at the same time the value of inculcating obedience and developing individuality was referred to. Advice was also tendered to parents on the training of children in order and method.

The annual report was adopted.

The following were elected as office-bearers:—President, Mr. Board (Under-Secretary for Education); vice-presidents, Drs. C. Ross, J. Marden, Mackellar, M.L.C., R. Roth, Professor M. W. MacCallum, Mr. Fell, M.L.A., and Mrs. M. W. MacCallum; council, Dr. Grace Boelke, Messrs. D. J. Cooper, E. J. Forbes, A. Giles, R. D. M'Lelland, H. Parkinson, P. E. Quinn, E. A. Riley, J. M. Taylor, J. D. Fitzgerald, Dr. Donald M'Master, Mrs. Macphillamy, Mrs. J. T. Wilson, Mrs. Septimus Harwood, the Misses Arnold, Beaumont, Gether, F. Hooper, and Jenkins; hon. secretary, Mrs. G. Birrell-Robertson; assistant secretary, Mr. F. J. Wallis; hon. treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Forbes.

LOST USE OF SPEECH.

"When I was only a girl I met with an accident that affected my spine," said Mrs. Ellen Chapman, 17 Wyndham-street, Alexandria, Sydney. "I had three doctors and they agreed that I was suffering from weakness of the spine. The lower part of my back was badly affected—but worst of all was the agony I endured in the back of my neck. When I wanted to turn my head it seemed as if my neck had got out of joint. It made a crackling sound and caused the most terrible pain. The doctors wanted to operate, but I would not let them. My tongue grew thick and I lost my speech. Although I would not consent to an operation I was doctoring for fifteen years—a great part of this time was given to hospital treatment, but it was all to no avail.

"Then I got to know how much good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done Mrs. Williams' little girl, so I decided to give them a trial. I took nearly two courses before I obtained any relief. But after that I grew better. I was stronger and my back did not give me nearly so much trouble. I was determined now to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for all they were worth. By the time that I had got through another two courses, my speech had returned. I took one more box, making twenty-five altogether, and now I am perfectly cured. Instead of being a miserable wreck I am a healthy woman."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. Anaemia and irregularities are both caused by bad blood, and so are indigestion, headaches, backaches, kidney trouble, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, nervousness, failing powers, general weakness, decline and the special ailments that women-folk know. For striking at the one cause in the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all these. Sold by chemists and storekeepers, or sent direct by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Sydney. Price 2s 9d a box, six boxes 15s 3d, post free. Write for hints as to diet, etc.—Advt.

CYCLING AND MOTORING.

TARIFF RAISES B.S.A. PRICES.

A result of the new tariff of £5 on bicycles is that the biggest manufacturer of parts in the world, the B.S.A. and Eadie Co. (Eng.), has intimated that it proposes raising the price of its sets 16 per cent. No reason is given for the increase. The new tariff plays into this company's hands, for the duty of £5 per machine means that the cycle will not be able to compete with the locally-made machine assembled from imported parts.

The strange part of the business is that the price is not to be increased to the company's leading agents in the Commonwealth—in fact, a slight reduction is offered—but these agents are instructed to charge small builders the increased price under threat of non-supply of future orders.

If the present monopolistic action of the English company is persisted in, it practically means a direct menace to the small cycle builder, and the shifting of the increased profit from the poor man into the big importers' pockets. Several of the largest importers have point blank refused to sign the declaration asked for by the B.S.A. and Eadie Co.

MOTOR RACE FOR £15,000.

Latest files give particulars of the binding of a match between Mr. S. F. Edge and Mr. Huntley Walker, two well-known British motorists, to take place this month, on the Brooklands track. Three races will be run, and the winner will get £15,000. The races are the outcome of a challenge issued some months back by Mr. Edge to run a team of six Napier cars against a similar number of British or foreign vehicles for £10,000. The challenge was accepted last month by Mr. Walker. Mr. Edge will drive a 6-cylinder Napier cars, each of which will be similar to that on which he made some months ago his marvellous 24 hours' run. Mr. Walker will run three Darracq cars. The Brookland authorities hold the money. They will judge the races, and hand over the £30,000 to the team that wins the majority of the contests.

SANTOS DUMONT'S HYDROPLANE.

M. Santos Dumont, the well-known aeronautist, recently made a private bet that he would construct a device capable of travelling at the rate of 60 miles an hour on water. The hydroplane has now been launched in Paris, and owing to its novelty the device has attracted considerable attention. The hydroplane consists of three sharply pointed cigar-shaped pontoons, the centre or main vessel, about 33ft in length, being about 10 times the length of the side floats. The cigar-shaped devices are constructed of wood and aluminium, covered with an air and water tight fabric, the floats being inflated with compressed air so as to increase the stability of the structure without adding weight. Both the front and back of the pontoons are held together by transverse submerged planes, whilst the helmsman will control the mechanism from a bicycle saddle set well back on the centre shape, and will guide the craft through a steering wheel the same as used in a motor car. A 16-cylinder 120-h.p. Antoinette engine, weighing only 800lb, is to provide the power, the drive to be through a big aerial three-bladed propeller, which will be set fairly high over the prow of the craft, and from which great speed is anticipated, owing to the terrific power to be used and the small water resistance from the cigar-shaped pontoons. Santos Dumont's experiments with his hydroplane are awaited with considerable interest in Europe.

DANIELS'S VISIT TO AUSTRALIA.

It was hoped that this season the Australian cracks would have an opportunity of measuring strides with C. M. Daniels, the champion sprint swimmer of the world, who recently reduced his own record for the 100yds from 55 2-5s to 52 2-5s. Mr. R. Keers, the hon. secretary of the N.S.W. Amateur Swimming Association, however, is in receipt of a letter from Daniels, in which he states that he must decline the invitation with sincere regrets, as his business will not allow him to visit Australia this season. This news will be received with regret by swimmers generally, as it is admitted that a visit from such an exponent of the art would do much benefit to the sport in Australia.

ANGLING.

The season for troutfishing opened patchily for anglers throughout the State. The low condition of the rivers, and their clearness gave doubtful promise of good sport, but this condition of affairs will be altered to some extent in the areas affected by the recent rains. Southern Monaro had a good reputation last season, but other centres nearer Sydney may push it close in public favour this summer. Anglers on the Duckmaloi River, at the opening of the season report that the river was rather low, and the fish were lying principally in the big, comparatively still pools. Baskets were not as big as last year, though some nice fish were taken. Probably the fishing will be improved by Sunday's rain. The tracks along the river showed clearly that illegal fishing had gone on freely during the close season. Unless this is stopped the problem of stocking our rivers becomes hopeless. With a rod license and the fees devoted to the payment of rangers the sport of the many would not be sacrificed to the selfish few.

H. C. Cunnynghame (Oberon) reports that the opening of the season on the Fish River was auspicious. Thirteen trout, weighing from one to three pounds, were taken by three anglers, and the fish were rising well.

WAITE POINT, JINDABYNE, Tuesday.

Dr. J. H. Macarthur, fishing near Spencer's, had fine sport with the trout yesterday. The largest trout weighed 2½lb. Dr. Macarthur was using the cowdung fly.

Lindrum, in the last session, made a break of 208, and altogether beat the hundred 11 times. Memmott failed to reach 100 once.

SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

A MOVEMENT THAT FAILED.

Some time ago a deputation representing the Secondary School Teachers' Association waited upon the Minister for Public Instruction, and urged the passing of a bill providing for registration. A gentleman who took a leading part in the movement at that time was Mr. Little, S.J., principal of St. Ignatius' College. It is therefore surprising to find now that the proposal has practically fallen through owing to the attitude which the Roman Catholic scholastic authorities have adopted. The secondary school teachers were practically unanimous, and the lines upon which the bill was to be passed were drawn up. Arrangements were made for a meeting to consider the details of the bill, but when the meeting took place the Roman Catholic schools were not represented. The surprise was increased when an intimation was received from Mr. Little, S.J., that he could not support the bill. The reason he gave for his withdrawal from his former position was that experience was showing that the similar Act was working very unsatisfactory in Victoria so far as Roman Catholic schools were concerned. It was explained to Mr. Little that the bill as drawn here did not propose to touch primary schools at all, and in that respect it was entirely different from the Victorian Act.

In view of the differences of opinion, the committee has, it is understood, adjourned for six months, and the Government of course cannot be asked to take up a bill of the character contemplated.

METHODIST SYNODS.

NORTH COAST.

GRAFTON, Tuesday.

At the North Coast Methodist Synod to-day Messrs. P. A. Westbrook, of Lismore, W. Clark, of Maclean, and R. Staines, of Ballina, who preached trial sermons, were recommended to the conference for acceptance for the ministry. The Synod resolved to advance the following probationary ministers one year each:—Revs. D. P. M'Donald, L. H. Ralph, A. M. Yates, J. W. Dains, and L. Peacock. The Revs. J. Ward Harrison and W. H. Jones are due for removal at the ensuing conference. The latter declined an invitation to remain another year in his circuit. The synod recommended to the conference the invitation by the quarterly meeting for the Rev. S. Bembrick to remain a fourth year in the Maclean circuit. This concluded the synod sittings.

RIVERINA DISTRICT.

JUNEE, Tuesday.

At the Riverina Methodist Synod Rev. Joseph Beale, of Wagga, chairman of the district, presided. The members were welcomed by the Mayor, Alderman Head, on behalf of the townspeople, and Mr. Beale returning thanks. Mr. H. Allen was recommended as a candidate for the ministry. It was resolved to recommend the transfer of the Berrigan Home Mission from Victoria to New South Wales, and the transfer of Wentworth from New South Wales to Victoria. It was resolved to recommend that the Rev. James Woolnough be appointed to have exclusive charge of the property and financial affairs of the Church, and the Rev. J. Beale to the office of home mission secretary. It was resolved to support the claims of the Theological Institution in circuits. It was resolved that the conference be recommended to institute efforts for the establishment and endowment of a theological institution for training candidates for the ministry. The synod expressed deep satisfaction and thankfulness to God for the splendid result of the local option vote, and resolved to emphatically protest against the attempt to legalise the totalisator. It was resolved to convey the sympathy of the synod to the widows and families of the late Rev. W. Clarke and Messrs. W. H. George and Colin Blessard. The synod meets next year at Cootamundra.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

"The Blue Moon," with its beautiful tableaux of oriental landscape and graceful music, is drawing large audiences at Her Majesty's Theatre. Mr. J. C. Only three more performances of "The Female Swindler" will take place at the Criterion Theatre, where the adventures of Detective Coulson, and the struggle on the housetops, contribute to the success of the drama. On Saturday Mr. William Anderson's Company will produce Walter Howard's Russian drama, "A Life's Revenge."

On Saturday evening next Mr. Richard Lesleigh will introduce "Carter, the Mysterious," a magician from the United States, who holds a high position there as an illusionist. Mr. Charles J. They will then compete in the Austral Society's competitions at Toowoomba, which last until Monday. Accompanying the singers is Mr. W. F. Coltmann, a member of the South-street Competition Committee. His journey forms part of a mission to induce interstate choirs and bands to enter for the Ballarat Eisteddfod in October, 1908, under conditions which will lead to their subsequent appearance in the large centres of the Commonwealth. It has to be remembered that the Ballarat competitions are not for the purpose of profit, but in the interest of the art of music, and Mr. Coltmann's object is to spread a knowledge of the art, and to use the choirs as a federalising element.

"PYGMALION AND GALATEA."

To-morrow and Friday evenings the Australasian Elocutionary Association will perform "Pygmalion and Galatea" at the Palace Theatre at 7.45, also the costume farce, "Captain of the Watch," in aid of the Australian School of Oratory and the Hospital for Sick Children. MEDICAL, CHEMICALS, ETC.

THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS ASTHMA, and CATARRH, by an entirely new remedy, illustrated by numerous cases pronounced incurable by the most eminent Physicians, 38th edn., 160th Thou., post free of Author, 2s 6d. By E. W. Alabone, M.D., Phil., D.Sc., ex-M.R.C.S., Eng., Lynton House, Highbury Quadrant, London, N. By the same author: "Testimonies of Patients, with Comments on the Open Air Treatment." Price, 1s.

L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S., etc., writes to the Editor of the "Christian World" as follows:—"I notice that Dr. Alabone is willing to explain to any medical man the rationale of his treatment. There is no doubt as to its value, particularly in the early stage of the disease, but I have personally seen apparently hopeless cases recover after his treatment has been adopted."

Some unscrupulous persons are offering preparations purporting to be Dr. Alabone's Remedies for Consumption, and said to be made in accordance with his formula.

Such statements are absolutely false in every detail; no person has any authority either to use Dr. Alabone's name or sell such preparations. Proceedings have been taken and will continue to be taken against such unwarrantable use of Dr. Alabone's name. Dr. Alabone's treatment is specially adapted to every case, according to the type and symptoms; these supposed remedies therefore constitute a real danger to those upon whom they are foisted. It will thus be seen that sufferers should put themselves in direct communication with Dr. Alabone, at his address given above.

THE GREAT RING TEST.

M. RALEIGH will introduce the very latest English Stove, which he has especially imported from Great Britain, for the express purpose of showing that the new pattern is exactly the same (only MORE extravagant) as the old article. There are seven burners on the new stove, and when all are alight there are TWO HUNDRED and FORTY-TWO JETS. He will TO-DAY, WEDNESDAY, take a ring from the English Gas Stove, with ONLY TWENTY-FIVE JETS, that will merely boil a billy, and, by applying his system of heating, ROAST A TEN-POUND JOINT OF BEEF and BOIL and STEAM IN TEN VESSELS at the same time. To do the same amount of work on this, the very latest English article, would require the whole TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO JETS.

THE WEEK IN LONDON.

How they Elect a Lord Mayor.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Oct. 4.

The election to the ancient and honourable office of Lord Mayor of London gives occasion for ceremonial of the quaint and picturesque character associated with the Merrie England of long ago. The ceremonies of this year began with the issue of warrants authorising the gift of venison from the Royal forests to the Lord Mayor and other officers of the Corporation. Twelve bucks and 12 does were presented. The Lord Mayor received four of each, the sheriffs three, and the Recorder, Chamberlain, Town Clerk, Common Sergeant, and Remembrancer one buck and one doe each. These gifts had their origin in the early charters granted to the City of London, in which certain "huntings" were secured to the citizens. On the following day the ceremony of election of the new Lord Mayor was performed. It began with the traditional service which for 500 years has preceded the election proper. Then, from the old church of St. Lawrence Jewry, a great procession of City men entitled to vote, headed by the aldermen dressed in scarlet gowns and carrying nosegays, moved to the adjacent Guildhall. The Lord Mayor and aldermen proceeded to the hustings, which, in accordance with immemorial custom, was strewn with camomile flowers and sweet herbs. The Common Crier now shouted, "Oyes, Oyez, Oyes!" proclaimed silence, directed all persons to be uncovered, and ordered that all those who were not liverymen should "depart this hall on pain of imprisonment." Then the Lord Mayor and ex-Lord Mayors retired, to allow the liverymen to proceed without restraint. Although the choice of the new Lord Mayor had already been determined, there is a formality which provides that two names shall be voted upon, and, accordingly, "Sir John Bell, alderman and haberdasher," and "Sir George Truscott, alderman and stationer," were put. At the announcement of the former a host of hands were raised, and hundreds of voices shouted "All! All!" The aldermen present went out to consult their colleagues, after an interval the Lord Mayor and the whole of the aldermen re-entered, and the Recorder announced that the Court had selected Sir John Bell to be the new Lord Mayor. "Come forth," said the Town Clerk, "and declare your consent to take the said office, on pain and peril of the penalty thereof," and the newly elected one came forth and returned thanks to the citizens. On November 8 the Lord Mayor-elect will proceed to the House of Lords, and will be there assured by the Lord Chancellor that he is commanded "to signify his Majesty's gracious approbation of the choice made by your fellow-citizens." The following day is Lord Mayor's Day, when the city will turn out to welcome the new Chief Magistrate and to enjoy the picturesqueness of London's one annual procession. Sir John Bell has a difficult task in following the present occupant of the position, for Sir William Treloar has won golden opinions during his year of office, and not least because of his sympathetic care of the poor and afflicted. As he goes out of office his fund of £60,000 for the cripples of London will have been subscribed. He is now appealing for the last £10,000. One of the first acts of the new Lord Mayor will be the reception of the Emperor of Germany, when he visits the city on November 18. London may be confidently expected to arouse itself to an unwonted gorgeousness of display on that occasion. As the King and Queen of Spain will also visit England in mid-November, the historic Castle of Windsor in those days will shelter within its walls three kings of the earth and many princes.

Australian Affairs.

In connection with the publication of an alleged statement of the War Office, mentioned last week, as to the superiority of Chicago tinned meats over Australian, or any other, and the great reliableness of the American preserved goods, the protest of the Agent-General for New South Wales has now been answered by the War Office authorities, to the effect that the statement is without foundation, and that the interview, of which it was said to be the outcome, never took place.

New South Wales is now being brought into touch with the agriculturists here by market-day displays of produce, with bioscope lectures in the evenings. Successful immigration results are expected in respect of a suitable class of men, while in regard to domestics the decision of the Government to provide passages for such at £3 each has created unusual interest, and inquiries are being received from all parts of the country. It has now been arranged to organise parties of these young girls, to travel in such ships as will arrange for the apportioning of the necessary space. The Miltiades, leaving at the end of this month, is expected to carry the first batch. The shipping company have agreed to provide a passage for a matron selected at this end, in whose charge the girls will be placed.

The America Cup.

The New York Yacht Club has declined the challenge issued by Sir Thomas Lipton to race for the America Cup, and considerable excitement has thereby been aroused in yachting circles. The challenge specified that Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht would be of cutter rig, and of not over 68ft rating measurement by the New York Yacht Club. In reply he was informed that the challenge failed to conform to the provisions of the deed of gift, that it imposed new conditions upon the type, size, and power of the defending vessel, and that its acceptance would involve a complete abandonment of the objects for which the America Cup trust was constituted. All this, being interpreted, means that the antiquated rules of yacht construction which have governed the preceding contests, and which the New York Yacht Club itself long ago abandoned in respect of racing yachts generally, are held to be still in force so far as the America Cup race is concerned. Those rules demand what Sir Thomas Lipton calls a "freak" boat, and as the Shamrock III., with which he raced last year, was not a good enough "freak" to win the cup, it follows that his Shamrock IV., of this year, would have to be a more highly developed specimen. Now, Sir Thomas says that any further development of the "freak" type is impossible, in that it would amount to nothing more nor less than a death-trap, and he for one would be sorry to take the risk of sending men across the Atlantic in her. Further, even if he were so disposed, it is very doubtful whether he could get any first-class yacht-designer to risk his reputation on such a craft—a contention which has now been borne out by the refusal of the designer of last year's boat to commit himself to a more highly-developed "freak." Yachtsmen generally, in England and America, are greatly disappointed, and indignation is expressing itself in the retort aggressive, which accuses the New York Yacht Club of anxiety to retain the cup at all hazards, even to the extent of "slamming the door"—to use an historical phrase—in the face of competition, for the club very well knows that no further competition is possible under the old rules. Prominent New York supporters and members of the club indignantly repudiate its action, the general feeling being that if it shelters itself behind the old out-of-date conditions the America Cup contest is at an end.

Italian Opera.

The autumn season of Italian opera at Covent Garden opened last night, when Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" was presented by an admirable cast, headed by Mme. Giachetti and Signor Bassi. Although without the eclat that surrounds the spring opera season, the Italian season opened auspiciously enough, and when the audience rose at the strains of the National Anthem, which began the evening, only occasional vacant stalls and boxes bespoke the absence of the regular patrons of grand opera. As the season advances, and society returns to town, these gaps will doubtless be filled. As it was, the great theatre presented a sufficiently brilliant appearance, and many well-known people were in evidence. Mme. Giachetti has only one rival in the part of the poor little Japanese girl—Mme. Destinn. The latter has the advantage vocally. In point of dramatic intensity, a quality freely called for in the latter scenes of the opera, there is little to choose between these fine artists. Mme. Giachetti played beautifully throughout. The playfulness of manner and gesture of the light-hearted little girl of the first act, and, later, the poignant agony of the broken-hearted woman, were alike admirably suggested, and she sang the music of the part in a perfectly finished way. Signor Bassi unites with the most unromantic appearance imaginable a tenor voice of singular beauty throughout its compass, and of the open-throated, soaring quality that so often distinguishes the pure Italian tenor method. As Lieutenant Pinkerton, the American gay deceiver, who broke the heart of little Butterfly, his best chance occurs in the first act, and the love-duet with Mme. Giachetti was beautifully sung. This is one of Puccini's finest inspirations. The twilight gradually falls upon the blossoming garden in which the lovers have just been married—a wonderful stage picture of the Japanese springtime—and the long duet ends the act. The melodies of the singers are spontaneous and beautiful, and the muted strings breathe a tenderly subdued accompaniment as the darkness shuts in, and the moonlight plays across the bloms of wistaria, hanging luxuriantly from the little Madama's cottage roof. A new baritone, Signor de Luca, revealed himself as an admirable singer and actor, and as Suzuki, the devoted waiting-maid of Butterfly, Mme. Lejeune repeated her unrivalled performance of a small part, which I recall as having been last year, as impressive in its way as the performance of Destinn herself.

An impressive ceremony was performed on Sunday in connection with the opening of a new Convent school and building for the Sisters of Mercy. The building cost £1700, over £1400 of which has been collected. A procession was formed after mass, when Bishop Gallagher blessed and declared the edifice open. Numerous leading local gentlemen occupied platform seats; also Mr. Niel Nielsen, member for Yass, and Mr. P. M'Garry, member for Murrumbidgee. Dr. Gallagher delivered an address.

COFF'S HARBOUR, Tuesday.

The answer of the Minister for Works to Mr. Briner regarding the proposed Dorrigo railway is hardly satisfactory. The Minister is evidently unaware of the promise made by the late Premier to refer the proposal to the Public Works Department in the first session of the new Parliament. Steps are being taken to have Mr. Carruthers' promise brought before the Cabinet.

DUBBO, Tuesday.

On Saturday evening the residence of Alderman Petersen was totally destroyed by a fire. WALCHA, Tuesday.

Notwithstanding the sickness prevailing in the district, the annual hospital ball was a great success, the attendance being but little short of the previous year.

A good number of teams have been busy carting potatoes to the railway during the past few weeks, the rise in price having induced the farmers to part with what was considered an unsaleable commodity only two months previously.

WELLINGTON, Tuesday.

A fire occurred at Mr. Jones' sawmill on Saturday, but the damage caused was of little moment, in consequence of the speedy arrival of the fire brigade, and other willing workers.

A NEW STEAMER.

THE YULGILBAR.

The North Coast S.N. Company's new steamer Yulgilbar, of 779 tons, which left Glasgow on September 14, arrived yesterday at Sydney, and berthed at the company's wharf. The vessel was built by the Ailsa Shipbuilding Company at Troon. She is a twin-screw awning deck passenger and cargo steamer, with two sets of triple-expansion engines of 120 indicated horse-power. The speed trials on the Clyde were entirely satisfactory, 13½ knots being realised. The Yulgilbar is provided with the latest appliances for the rapid handling of freight. She is 200ft in length, and 32ft in width. The cylinders are 13½in, 22½in, and 37in, with a 24in stroke. The vessel has accommodation for 70 saloon and 20 steerage passengers, and was brought out by Captain Worrall. The vessel attracted much attention yesterday when lying at the company's wharf and highly favourable remarks were expressed by visitors on the Yulgilbar's trim appearance and excellent accommodation for passengers. The new steamer will go into dock on Friday, and on Saturday will leave on her first trip to the Macleay, Captain Beach being in command.

REO MOTOR CARS.

In the great Glidden Trophy tour, Mr. R. M. Owen drove his 16-h.p. 2-cylinder REO CAR for 102 consecutive days, covering 1570 miles without a stop of any kind or the loss of a single mark.
He ran to schedule time throughout the tour. Each day for 12 days it ran over 130 miles per day, and each day arrived at its destination just one minute before it was due.
After completing the 1570 miles in the Glidden Tour with a perfect score, Mr. Owen drove his 16-h.p. REO CAR, without even cleaning it, from Jersey City to Jamestown, a distance of 500 miles.
Starting out at 11 p.m. on a Thursday night, Mr. Owen drove his car throughout the night and during the whole of the next day, and arrived at Jamestown the next morning, having made an absolute non-stop run throughout.
During these 13 days the 16-h.p. Reo Car ran 2070 miles without a single stop of any kind, and created a record for a light car.

WHAT DO YOU NEED IN A MOTOR?

Most users ask for economy in working, strength, and durability.
These three points are conspicuous in the 8-H.P. De Dion—admitted to be the most popular car in Australia.
Its economy, of course, was proved in the Petrol Consumption Tests held in Victoria, when one of these cars ran 34.90 miles—41.28 ton mileage—on a consumption of one gallon of petrol, costing 1/6. That is a good deal cheaper than using horses, is it not?
Then, all our cars are specially strengthened for use on the Australian roads, and this is an important point for the man who has to depend on his car to "get there."

THE 8-H.P. DE DION

is an especial favourite with commercial and medical men, and as a rule they are good judges of what a car should be.
Come in and let our expert point out the many features in which the De Dion excels, and if you like we will take you for a trial run, so that you can judge the car for yourself under service conditions.
If you cannot call, but live convenient to the city, we will send a car out for your inspection.
In any case, ask us to mail you the latest printed matter.

THE MOTOREVE APPROACHES PERFECTION.

So said Mr. H. P. Owen, of the Australian Club, in a letter to us the other day. He said:—"I have had some experience of Motor Cycles, and think the machine you built me with Motoreve Engine approaches perfection more nearly than anything I have seen or heard of. The hill-climbing powers and speed of that tiny engine are marvellous, and every part of it is beautifully made and finished."

VIBRATORY STIMULATION.
Vibratory Stimulation is obtained by means of the CRESCENT VIBRATOR, which is operated by electricity. The current can be obtained from the ordinary electric light switch, or from a dry battery, which we supply.
It is NOT electric treatment—the electricity is simply the motive power—the vibrations being produced by purely mechanical means. The stimulus imparted to the body is most pleasant, soothing, and health giving. It removes congestion—the CAUSE of disease, and promotes a full rich flow of blood. A good circulation is the CURE of disease. Vibrator and batteries are self contained in a portable case, and the battery is inexpensive when it requires renewing.
